SERVING THREE GREAT GROUPS OF PEOPLE

From statement by Walter S. Gifford, President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, at 1946 Annual Meeting of stockholders

"It is not without significance that our Annual Report opens with the statement that 'The Board of Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company presents herewith the management's accounting of its stewardship for the information of stockholders, employees, telephone users and the entire American people who have entrusted to private enterprise the responsibility for carrying on this essential national service.'

"There is every reason for the management of your company to treat equitably each of the three parties concerned, namely, the telephone users, the employees and the stockholders. For in the long run, the interests of these three great groups of people, individually and collectively, are mutual and interdependent.

"More and better service at the least cost is as much in the interests of stockholders and employees as it is of the telephone users.

"Well-paid employees with steady employment; with opportunities open to all for advancement; and with reasonable protection against contingencies of illness, accident, death and old age are as much to the benefit of telephone users and stockholders as to employees.

"A stable and fair return on the money invested in the business—sufficient to attract the new money needed to develop and expand facilities—is as good for the telephone users and employees as it is for the stockholders."

At the annual meeting of the American Alumni Council held at Amherst College during the summer, BOSTONIA was awarded first prize for the outstanding personality sketch of an alumnus written for a university alumni magazine during the past year.

The prize-winning article, written by Ruth Whittaker, A'46, now Associate Editor of BOSTONIA, appeared in the May issue and concerned Dr. Duncan Macdonald, who heads the new Optical Research Laboratory at Boston University. The certificate received by the editors of BOSTONIA is shown above. BOSTONIA was one of the five alumni journals to receive honorable mention for general excellence in format.
FACED with the rather terrifying prospect of putting out the first issue of BOSTONIA, the new editors began to gather material early in the summer with the silent prayer that our collective editorial brains would be able to produce both an unusual and a newsworthy alumni magazine. And then it happened.

Literally out of the clouds dropped the biggest alumni news story of the year—the major contributions of several Boston University men to the atomic bomb tests at Bikini. We had only to gather the remains of material and present them in an interesting, readable form.

In almost every field of endeavor represented at Bikini we found a Boston University alumnus holding down a key position. In science the Boston University list was long and impressive—Dr. Macdonald, Dr. Frye, Dr. Haskins, Mr. Handy, and Mr. Hagen. In journalism Boston University could claim the prize. Mr. Laurence, distinguished scientific journalist of The New York Times and a Boston University graduate, had received an honorary degree from the University only last May.

In medicine we found the name of Dr. Shields Warren topping the list, and in this we felt particular pride. His grandfather was William Fairfield Warren, first president of Boston University, and his father, Dean Emeritus William Marshall Warren of the College of Liberal Arts.

To the many other Boston University men who were present at "Operations Crossroads" and whose names are not found in our story we express regret. In place of an individual report on each alumnus we have emphasized the story of The Bomb itself. If, on our small way, we have conveyed some of the portentous meaning of the Bikini tests, then our first issue of BOSTONIA is indeed a real success.
Progress

On the opposite page is a visual progress report on the new College of Liberal Arts building now under construction on the Charles River campus. By the fall of 1947, the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Music, and the new Science building will be ready for occupancy by Boston University students. These three new buildings, in addition to the College of Business Administration and the several temporary constructions housing the Optical Research Project, will form the nucleus around which the remaining Boston University buildings will be erected.

The additions to the Charles River campus are but another step forward in the 107-year history of Boston University. From a single department, the School of Theology, the University has expanded to include thirteen schools and colleges. Its buildings are now found in every corner of the city of Boston and even as far away as Peterborough, New Hampshire. During the past year, the University has instituted the new General College with Judson R. Butler as Dean, and the newly established School of Nursing, headed by Dean Martha Smith. Enrollment figures this fall will exceed 20,000. Faculties of the various departments have been increased greatly in order to maintain the high standards of instruction established by the University.

The great surge of activity which has encompassed all departments during the past year has made it obvious to those who are close to Alma Mater that the University is fast outgrowing itself; just as Oliver Wendell Holmes' chambered nautilus went forth to seek nobler dwellings, so the University now looks to the Charles River campus as the site of its final, all-inclusive home. The new campus is a visual symbol of the overwhelming optimism which surrounds all phases of Boston University life in this post-war period.

Nineteen-forty-six marks the completion of twenty years of leadership under Doctor Marsh, our president, and finds the University with a distinguished faculty in every branch of learning, an ever-expanding research program which is serving our government, science, and industry, and a standing in the educational world which makes the name of Boston University a symbol of scholastic attainment. A brilliant future for our alma mater is certain.

As alumni we must do our part for the support of every phase of Boston University life. As Boston University alumni, we are an integral part of the development of a great institute of learning. Let us not only rejoice in the progress of Boston University through the years, but as alumni let us pledge our active support, both moral and financial, so that it may maintain its position of educational leadership in the years to come.

WILLIAM L. LAURENCE, LL.B.'25, Sc.D.'46

Considered one of Boston University's most distinguished graduates in recent years, Mr. Laurence, scientific journalist of the New York Times and Pulitzer prize winner, was awarded an honorary degree by the University at the 1946 Commencement. In conferring the degree, President Daniel L. Marsh said of him in part: "teacher, playwright, inventor, science news reporter par excellence, reporting exclusively the discovery that uranium 235 held the key to the utilization of atomic energy by releasing atomic power five million times greater than coal — a reporter whose interpretative learning 'holds the cel of science by the tail.' " The writer of the following article witnessed four of the five atomic bomb explosions the world has seen. As consultant to the War Department in public relations for the atomic bomb project while on leave from the New York Times, he saw the first test in New Mexico and the blast at Nagasaki, Japan. He recently observed the two Bikini tests.

Bikini—A Tragedy of Errors

By William L. Laurence

The tumult and the shouting about the Bikini atomic bomb explosions have died down, and the time has come for serious thinking about the net results and their implications, national and international.

To evaluate the two tests in Bikini Lagoon, it is not enough to determine the effects of the atomic bomb on naval vessels of various types artificially placed at varying distances from the center of the explosion. Scientists and others closely connected with the development of the bomb, who know its potentialities for wholesale destruction and who devoted their energies during the last year to arouse public awareness of the danger confronting civilization, consider it of vastly greater importance to gauge the effect of the Bikini tests on the change of attitude of the public toward the greatest problem facing mankind today.

Considered from this point of view, the Bikini tests add up to a tragedy of errors for which the world may pay a heavy price unless measures are taken in time to counteract them. On returning from Bikini, one is amazed to find the profound change in the public attitude toward the problem of the atomic bomb.

Before Bikini the world stood in awe of this new cosmic force which, concentrated in one rather small package, could destroy a large city, kill and maim hundreds of thousands, and bring the surrender of an army of 5,000,000 men without the firing of a single shot.

Since Bikini this feeling of awe has largely evaporated and has been supplanted by a sense of relief unrelated to the grim reality of the situation. Having lived with a nightmare for nearly a year, the average citizen is now only too glad to grasp at the flimsiest means that would enable him to regain his peace of mind. He had expected one bomb to sink the entire Bikini fleet, kill all the animals aboard, make a hole in the bottom of the ocean, and create tidal waves that would be felt for thousands of miles. He had even been told that everyone participating in the test would die.

Since none of these happened, he is only too eager to conclude that the atomic bomb is, after all, just another weapon. As such it is a problem concerning only the military and nothing for the average citizen to be worried about. Or so the average citizen feels. How far from reality is such an attitude is revealed by the two reports submitted to President Truman by his two evaluation boards. Nevertheless, it is doubtful that these reports will be sufficient to undo the damage. This factor in itself may far outweigh whatever gains may have been derived from the Bikini tests.

If there is anything the world needs much more than further Bikini tests, it is a reawakening of its consciousness to the fact that the atomic bomb is not just another weapon against which our military minds will find a defense, but the greatest cataclysmic force ever released on earth. Unless some means are found for its control, it will inevitably lead to the destruction of civilization.

Despite the unanimous warnings of the leading scientists who developed the bomb and know its potentialities, this appalling fact had not yet been fully impressed on the minds and hearts of the peoples of the world when the Bikini tests were made. Nor, judging by their remarks, had this been fully grasped by the representatives of some of the world's leading nations. The Bikini tests diverted, at least temporarily, the world's attention.

If there was anything laughable about the Bikini atomic test, it was the dire predictions of world catastrophe pronounced so authoritatively by pseudoscientists before H-hour on July 1st. Prognostications of tidal waves, earth splitting, complete demolition of the target ships and all those within seeming distance of the explosion were amusing to the scientists who were in a position to know just about what reactions would take place when the bomb reached its mark.

I saw the bomb at the moment of explosion. There was a bright flash, and then, as we had anticipated, the huge dome-shaped cloud, caused by a phenomenon known to physicists as a Wilson cloud chamber effect, obscured the targets. Yet, from the height at which I was observing the test, I was struck by the insignificance of a man-made explosion as compared to the vastness of the Pacific Ocean. For a moment it seemed like a small puff of smoke of little importance to anyone.

The tidal waves forecast by the Cassandras before the test were not in evidence at this point, nor were they expected. The scientists present at Bikini realized that the forces of nature which set such a phenomenon as a tidal wave into motion are vastly stronger than anything man has yet produced. Yet, on closer inspection, it was only too painfully clear that the bomb was the greatest single man-made device for destruction ever inflicted upon the world. We were to learn later just how devastating this newest weapon of man could be.

About two seconds after the explosion I removed the specially made dark glasses with which all observers had been provided. There was the bright white dome-shaped cloud. We then noticed the pressure wave shooting out, being most evident along the surface of the water. The wave shot in front of an island, and the little bit of land appeared to dance. We could detect its presence in the air by the refraction it caused.

The dome-cloud broke suddenly into horizontal plumes, and we had our first view of the seething cauldron at the center, dull reddish flames boiling about in a giant ball, something like one might picture the witches’ scene in Macbeth. Then the “mushroom” shot up out of its center. At this point I had to take care of some equipment. When I looked again the plume was more than 20,000 feet high. We estimated that it rose more than 10,000 feet a minute. The plume was pearly white with streaks of red, orange, and yellow mingling in, very beautiful.

It went up over 40,000 feet, and suddenly over its apex a smooth white cap formed. This apparently was the effect of bringing hot, moist air up very quickly into the cool upper atmosphere. It became ice, and thus formed an ice-cap over the cloud. A good profile view of the pressure wave as it struck one of the battleships was obtained more or less by accident. A camera placed on Enku island was aimed at what was to have been the center of the blast. As it is widely known, the bomber missed his mark, so the blast occurred off the motion picture screen. The pressure wave shot across the screen without any interference from clouds, and the ship was seen to be blown over nearly 45 degrees as it was struck. The boat was not unlike a cork pitching about in a rough sea.

ROYAL MERRILL FRYE, A.B.'71, A.M.'72, Ph.D.'34

Dr. Frye, Professor of Physics at Boston University, designed a type of spectroscope which was considered of great value to the "Crossroads" project. Dr. Frye joined Dr. Macdonald last March and spent two and a half months on Kwajalein preparing for the tests. Described by one of his associates as "easily the most popular man on the island with everyone from K.P.'s to generals," he is considered by many one of the outstanding scientists connected with the analysis end of the bomb tests. Excerpts from a letter written by Dr. Frye to the Alumni Secretary about his experiences while in the employ of Task Unit 1.52 are printed below.

Dr. Frye Views "Operations Crossroads"

DEAR WARR–¤N:

Your letter caught me about an hour before hopping aboard an Army plane for St. Louis (on "Crossroads" business). Dr. Macdonald asked me last March to join in this venture. He was obliged to spend most of his time after that on business connected with Boston University's new Optics Research Laboratory, but at the time of the detonation of the first bomb, he, Alden Handy (S.B.'24, A.M.'36), and I, all civilians in the employ of Task Unit 1.52, were present, two of us in planes at a distance of twelve miles and an altitude of two miles, and Mr. Handy on the deck of the Fall River, fifteen miles distant to be sure, but under the circumstances plenty close.

At the time of the second bomb, William F. Hagen (A.B.'46) and I were in planes, each seven miles from the point of detonation and two miles high. This so-called surface bomb seemed to me much more spectacular than the first but less luminous. Both times it was our business to record the spectra exhibited by the bursts.

Speaking for myself, the entire experience has been enjoyable and, of course, unforgettable. I have traveled everywhere by air, in quite a variety of types of Army and Navy planes, first to Roswell, New Mexico, where we did our preliminary work, made practice flights, and watched the task unit become an effective, coherent organization.

The long flights over the Pacific were quite uneventful though we had been briefed about what to do in case it was necessary to ditch the plane. The boys felt that our stay in Honolulu was all too brief; then later there was considerable grousing about the rather primitive conditions at Kwajalein where I lived for two and a half months. Bikini is 230 miles from Kwajalein in a northerly direction. My duties took me there frequently since most of the "Manhattan crowd" (which had developed the bomb in the first place) lived aboard the ships there.

I was only half as far away from the second explosion as the first, and, as would be expected, the time required for the sound of the burst to reach me was less, the sound (a single crack), louder, and the resulting tossing about of the plane, greater. One man in my plane was slightly off balance at the instant that the shock wave arrived and as a result landed on the floor.

I viewed both detonations from the same plane, number 711. This plane had so many holes cut in the left side (for the various still and moving picture cameras, spectrographs, and photometers) that it was very drafty. Although only a few degrees from the equator, at that altitude we were very glad of our heavy flying jackets. The crew presented an interesting sight, each man equipped with a flying suit, gloves, helmet with earphones, oxygen mask, parachute and "Mae West" vest.

Cordially yours,
ROYAL M. FRYE

WILLIAM HAGEN, A.B.'46

Mr. Hagen went out to Bikini to assist in the analysis of direct photographs. He is now measuring spectroscopic films. At present, he is working for his master's degree at Boston University. Mr. Hagen related the following vivid account of the underwater Bikini test to the editors of BOSTONIA.

Test Baker at Bikini

As Told by William Hagen

Preparing for the "Crossroads" project meant speed coupled with absolute accuracy. There were five instruments used by our group which had to be assembled, tested, modified, and installed in the plane within four days. However, the results were quite satisfactory.

When the hour for the underwater test arrived, I was seven miles away at an altitude of 12,000 feet. From my position in the forward escape hatch of a C-54, I had an excellent view of the explosion. The first reaction which I observed was that the water rose up like a big saucer. There was a slight flash of light, and a column of water shot up. A luminous cloud appeared, and then came the ionization cloud.

The shock waves appeared as depressions in the ocean making the water of a much lighter color. When the first shock wave hit the plane, there was a sound like a dull, muffled roar. The cloud which you have seen in the news photographs appeared in approximately fifteen seconds. When it was all over,

DR. SHIELDS WARREN, A.B. '18

Boston University feels particular pride in Dr. Warren's notable achievements in the field of medicine because of the close tie between the Warren family and the history and progress of the University. Grandson of the first president of the University, Dr. William Fairfield Warren, and son of Dean Emeritus William Marshall Warren of the College of Liberal Arts, Dr. Warren is himself a member of the College of Liberal Arts class of 1918. His wife, Alice Springfield Warren, is a graduate of the same class. Dr. Warren received his M.D. from Harvard Medical School in 1923.

Cancer Research at Bikini

Although the destructive force of the A-bomb monopolized the headlines, and its political implications, the editorial pages, there were a few men present at Bikini who observed the test with the silent prayer that perhaps here was a scientific frankenstein which might prove a boon as well as a bane to mankind. A small group of men, specialists in the field of cancer research, took off for Bikini and "Operations Crossroads" with little of the journalistic fanfare which accompanied the scientists and military experts, but with the same intensity of purpose.

Executive Officer of the Naval Research Section was Dr. Shields Warren, now a captain in the United States Naval Reserve. Dr. Warren, for many years a member of the staff of the Deaconess Hospital in Boston, has been closely associated with the cancer research project from the first. To scientists such as Dr. Warren nuclear fission might well be the key to the cure for cancer, which is an uncontrollable cell growth, and the dreaded blood disease, leukemia, a condition resulting from an overabundance of the white corpuscles in the blood stream.

Until the momentous development of the splitting of the atom, progress had been made in the control of certain types of cancer by the expert use of the radiation produced by X-rays from radium. In X-ray machines the high voltage gives the electron power to chip the atom of the tungsten target and thus liberates the X-rays. However, compared to the type of radiation produced when the core of the atom is split in uranium 235, the radiation released from the X-ray machines is of relatively low intensity and takes considerably more time.

Yet even with the knowledge of how to split the atom at hand, the problem was not solved, for the laboratory method of producing radiation as instantaneous and of such intensity as that resulting from nuclear fission had not yet been discovered. It was for this reason that the cancer researchers approached Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy and requested that living animals be placed aboard the target ships. Although this step brought protests from humane societies and other well-meaning citizens who failed to realize the value to be obtained from such an experiment in the saving of human lives, Dr. Warren and his associates convinced Admiral Blandy that no measurements of any worth for cancer and the effect of atomic radiation on living cells could be made by the use of instruments alone.

"To Americans back home the reports of pigs, goats, white rats, and mice being placed aboard the doomed ships brought forth visions of the old Biblical story of Noah, present at another crisis in the history of man. However, it is doubtful whether the good Noah selected his menagerie with anything like the care shown by Dr. Warren and his associates. The Bikini-bound animals of 1946 were specially bred to high and low strains, but it was to the genealogical background of the mice that greatest attention was given.

One hundred twenty mice were bred by the National Cancer Institute with four strains carefully pedigreed to dozens of generations. The first was a high cancer strain in which successive generations invariably developed cancer. They were then checked against low-cancer mice whose members were practically immune to cancer. For research on leukemia there were mice bred to perish from blood or lymph cancer or to live immune to the disease.

Pains taken by the cancer researchers in this breeding process were vitally necessary. Dr. Warren and other scientists believed for some time that the behavior of a living cell depends in some way upon the action of the cell's internal biochemical system. Since cancer is produced by the irregularity of living cells, whatever affected the living cells of the Bikini animals was of paramount importance to Dr. Warren and his associates.

Numberless precautions were taken to assure the survival of the mice and other animals at "Crossroads," for the effectiveness of the experiment depended on their living and breeding. What did the men of the Naval Medical Research Section expect from all this preparation? If the high-cancer mice have low-cancer progeny, for example, it might suggest to researchers that instantaneous exposure to radiant energy can change hereditary characteristics carried through the union of the male and female reproductive cells. It would prove that here is a power able to change the delicate mechanism of cell life. If the low intensity radiation produced by X-rays can affect both cancer and leukemia, the highly intensive penetrating rays released by the atomic bomb might conceivably be the means to discovering in the very near future the cures for both these dreaded diseases.

Similar observations will be made on the rats, pigs, and goats exposed at Bikini. While the genetic constitution of these animals is not well known with regard to cancer, nonetheless, data of much value may be obtained from them.

B. U. SCIENTISTS RISK LIVES TO SAVE BOMB SECRETS

In a copyrighted story by a staff correspondent, Alfred M. Klein, The Philadelphia Record published an exciting account of how a group of Boston University scientists gambled their lives in a Nebraska thunderstorm on the way home from Bikini in order to save top secret photographic and instrument records of the atomic blast.

The plane carrying the scientists and their equipment from California to Boston, flew into a lashing Nebraska electrical storm which for a time threw the plane out of control, and, according to Mr. Klein, caused the pilot to order all the passengers to jump to safety. It was Dr. Duncan Macdonald who led the others in refusing the pilot's order in order to hold down the super-secret scientific equipment which had been ripped from its moorings and was being tossed wildly about in the plane.

Dr. Macdonald, Mr. William Hagen, and Dr. Elmer Haskins. Accordingly to Dr. Macdonald, who was interviewed on his return home, the Nebraska electrical storm was a much more terrifying experience than the bomb test.

"I don't recall that any of us did quite as much talking as the newspapers say. We were too busy just trying to hold on. Accounts of our personal bravery were exaggerated, but the intensity of that storm couldn't be. It lasted for, I guess, about seven minutes, but it seemed like a lifetime."

While all passengers in the plane had donned parachutes, Dr. Macdonald said that none would have had even the remotest chance of descending to earth as the violent winds would have ripped the tight parachutes to shreds long before the descent could have been accomplished.

"You're a lot safer in an atomic bomb explosion than in a Nebraska thunderstorm like that one," Dr. Macdonald said.
Mental and Moral Reconversion

(Addres at Boston University Summer Session Commencement, August 17, 1946)

By Daniel L. Marsh, President of Boston University

Reconversion is a watchword of the hour. It is an imperative term. Conversion was once almost exclusively a religious word, meaning a definite — and generally sudden and emotional — acceptance of the Christian way of life. Then the word crept into common usage, as the conversion of water into ice. When we entered the war, our peace-time industries were converted into war production plants. Total war meant practically total conversion of industry into war work. Somewhere, down in the Future, where mankind will have gotten far enough away from the jungle to be really human, such war will be held up as an illustration of the old Calvinistic Theological dogma of total depravity.

Now that the war is over, the demand is for reconversion. That is, nations are changing back from high-powered devotion to war to attempts to establish peace, and industry is changing back to production for peace-time needs.

Vast and challenging are the plans and methods of reconversion. Even while the war was still being waged, Britain began planning beauty from blitz ruins. Under the leadership of Patrick Abercrombie, a sixty-seven year old professor in the University of London, a new face is being designed for Britain which is as significant and epochal as the work which Christopher Wren did in the seventeenth century. In the United States, the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion has estimated that the cost of reconverting to civilian use the plants which were producing war materials will cost three billion dollars.

But, as “Grandpa”, one of the current characters in the alleged comic strip called “Little Orphan Annie”, says: “Wars make changes — and the greatest changes are in the people who fight the wars.” This is inevitable both because of the propaganda which they have been fed and because of the brutal and brutalizing things they have been required to do. There is only one logic to war, and that is: If anyone stands in your way, overcome him or kill him. If you desire what another person possesses, take it if you can, or else destroy it.

No wonder that a wave of crime always follows in the wake of war! But the moral deterioration resulting from war is by no means confined to those who have been in uniform. If you need evidence that the old-fashioned moral sanctions have been scrapped, read the newspapers’ accounts of wives running off with strange men, sweethearts going to drinking joints with rivals to their betrothed who are overseas, gambling, stealing, shooting, — a wild orgy of sexual looseness and crime!

No less an authority than J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I., says that the popular tendency to blame delinquency and criminal activities on under-privileged homes is wrong. He declares that it is the “mental outlook” that makes or breaks a child or youth. What we need to do, therefore, is to take an inventory of our thinking. The times demand mental and moral reconversion.

I had a letter the other day from the chairman of the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company, with which he sent me advance proof of a statement which his Company was addressing to the American public on the alarming number of automobile accidents. In his letter, Mr. Kemper said: “The solution is essentially less speed — and more conscience — in driving.” That sententious sentence might appropriately be applied to every phase of our modern life. Reconversion is readjustment. It means to shift speed without stripping the gears.

Some persons found a certain thrill and satisfaction in the war because it fashioned a purpose for them, and forced patriotism upon them, establishing limitations as to what they could do, demanding unity of effort among all groups, and apportioning to every man his task. Reconversion should give a very definite purpose to life. Let that purpose be the completest development of the highest powers of the individual, and the deepest dedication of those powers to the service of mankind. Whereas, under war restrictions, the Government imposed limitations and enforced at least the semblance of patriotism, let reconversion to peace-time mean that each individual imposes restraint upon himself, and requires of himself obedience to the highest ideals rather than the indulgence of animal impulses and base appetites.

The indispensable means by which this mental and moral reconversion is to take place is education. But this education must be carried on not only in the school and university, but also in the Church, and in the home, and by the press, and over the radio, and everywhere. Furthermore, the education required is more than mere knowledge. Knowledge is power, but it is not wisdom. Education is incomplete unless and until it becomes edification. Technological invention is no substitute for the cardinal virtues.
GEORGE R. ERICSON, A.B., 1933.
Vice-President
Mr. Ericson has been active in newspaper work for some years beginning with his first job as a reporter with the Boston Herald in 1915. In 1918 he became a reporter and writer for the Boston News Bureau and in 1922 joined the staff of The Christian Science Monitor Financial Department. Since that time he advanced to the position of Assistant Financial Editor and in 1940 became Financial Editor. He has been a director for the Congress Cooperative Bank since 1925. His business address is The Christian Science Monitor, 5 Norway Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

LEON W. CROCKETT, M.D., School of Medicine, 1921
Dr. Crockett, the incoming director for the School of Medicine, is also President of the School of Medicine Alumni Association. After receiving his degree in 1921, he interned at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals, was an instructor in Medicine at the School of Medicine, and later became a physician to the Medical Staff at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Athenaeum Club, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Charlestown Medical Society. His business address is 52 Monument Square, Charlestown, Massachusetts.

NANCY ELLEN CARLOCK, A.B., 1933, A.M., 1939, Recording Secretary
Librarian at the School of Social Work since 1933, Miss Carlock has shown great enthusiasm for her work with the Alumni Association and the University. Although she received her A.B. from the College of Liberal Arts in 1933, Miss Carlock has never really left the University, for while employed as librarian by the Rivers School for boys in Brookline from 1933 to 1939, she was studying for her master's degree at the Graduate School. Her business address is School of Social Work Library, 84 Exeter Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

S. JANE HESSLEIN, B.S. in Phy.Ed., College of Physical Education for Women, Sargent, 1938
After leaving the University, Miss Hesslein accepted a position as a teacher in the High School in Cobleskill, New York. Her address in New York is 51 Elm Street. Her home address is 898 Beacon Street, Newton Centre, Massachusetts.

HELEN SWEENEY, B.S. in P.A.L., College of Practical Arts and Letters, 1939
An active interest in dramatics in addition to her teaching tasks at Newton High School have kept Miss Sweeney very busy since her graduation from the College of Practical Arts and Letters in 1937. Miss Sweeney, who received her master's degree from the Graduate School in 1939, has also taught in the P.A.L. evening division. Last year she held one of the leading roles in the P.A.L. production of "The Man Who Came To Dinner." Her home address is 104 Lewis Road, Belmont, Massachusetts.

EMORY STEVENS BUCKE, S.T.B., School of Theology, 1938
A prominent Methodist minister and a leading religious journalist, Mr. Bucke has made great progress since his graduation from the School of Theology in 1938. After several years service as minister, he was elected in 1942 to succeed Dr. L. O. Hartman, now Methodist Bishop in the Boston area, as editor of the Zions Herald, well known Methodist weekly. He is one of the youngest incumbents ever to hold the position. His business address is 581 Boylston Street, Boston 16, Massachusetts.
OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS of the ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

MRS. HERBERT W. SAUL (Louise E. Hoch), A.B., College of Liberal Arts, 1917
Past director of the Alumni Association. Mrs. Saul is well qualified for her position as the newly elected director of the College of Liberal Arts. From 1937 to 1941 she was President of Epsilon and has continued to hold the position of Permanent Class Secretary for many years. Teaching English at Thayer Academy in Braintree has been her occupation for several years. Her home address is 18 Talbot Road, Braintree, Massachusetts.

ROBERT J. NEWBURY, Ed.M., School of Education, 1934
Since receiving his master's degree from Boston University, Mr. Newbury has been Principal of Needham Junior High School and Norwood Junior High School and is, at present, Principal of the Edith C. Baker School, Brookline, Massachusetts. The professional organizations to which he belongs include the following: Brookline Teachers Club, Massachusetts Schoolmasters Club, National Education Association, Department of Elementary School Principals, and Phi Delta Kappa. His home address is 11 Berkeley Court, Brookline, Massachusetts.

KENNETH CHRISTOPHE, M.D., 1928, Vice-President
Dr. Christophe, well known to undergraduates as the Director of the University Health Service, will be one of the new alumni officers for the coming year. An instructor in Orthopedic and Fracture Surgery at the School of Medicine, he is also a fellow in the American College of Surgeons and a member of the Boston Orthopedic Club, the Masonic Order, and the Alethian Club. He is a member of the American Medical Association and the Massachusetts Medical Association. His business address is 1101 Beacon Street, Brookline, Massachusetts.

EDWARD MIRON DANGEL LL.B., Law School, 1912
Mr. Dangel has been a very active supporter of the Alumni Association for many years. Aside from his activities in connection with the University, he has been founder and first president of the Law Society of Massachusetts and of the New England Branch of the Los Angeles Sanitorium and Ex-Patients Home. He is a member of the American Bar Association (member of the house of delegates), the American Judicature Society, the American Society of International Law, the Boston Bar Association, the Massachusetts Bar Association, and many other civic organizations. His business address is 18 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

GERTRUDE HOUSER, A.M., Graduate School, 1945
Still a student at the Graduate School where she has been appointed teaching fellow in the field of government while working for her doctorate, Miss Houser brings to her alumni work a great enthusiasm for Boston University. Previous to her studies at Boston University she studied at Radcliffe and was a research assistant at the Boston Municipal Research Bureau. Her home address is 371 Harvard Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

JAMES CARMODY, Mus.B., College of Music, 1934
Show business was Mr. Carmody's field of concentration after his graduation from the University in 1934. He traveled throughout the northeastern section of the United States for five or six years with his own orchestra and also with the University Gilbert and Sullivan Stock Company. He served as Production Manager at the Myles Standish and Vendome Hotels upon returning to Boston. In March of 1946 he became associated with the Curtis Publishing Company where he is now Supervisor of the Circulation Department for Greater Boston. His home address is 10 Aberdeen Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
The fall season will mark the re-establishment of several Boston University clubs in various parts of the country. The officers and directors of the Alumni Association hope to see areas, as yet not represented, soon establish new and active clubs. It is the intention of the editors of BOSTONIA to feature club news regularly.

Interested alumni are invited to address all queries in regard to alumni club work to the Executive Alumni Secretary, Mr. Warren S. Freeman, at 811 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

NEW YORK

An organizing meeting of the Boston University Club of New York was held in July. Nine members were present including Professor Ralph H. Cheney, Mrs. Clarence A. Christian, Mr. Franklin Rand Magee, Mr. Walter H. Merritt, Reverend and Mrs. Paul Otto, Canon Edward Nason West, Jr., and Mr. Warren S. Freeman, Executive Alumni Secretary. It was voted that Mr. Edward R. Hardy be made Acting Chairman of the group with the power of sub-committees to develop certain activities of Boston University alumni in the New York area.

Plans are under way for a series of meetings of Boston University alumni during the winter season.

Mr. Hardy is also organizing a Special Gifts Campaign committee to aid the 1946 Alumni Fund Drive in the New York area.

For information about these activities, write or call Mr. Edward R. Hardy, 80 John Street, New York, New York.

WASHINGTON

A committee of Boston University alumni of Washington, headed by Mr. Raymond J. Queenin and Mr. Julian E. Lakey, ably assisted by the Honorable J. Howard McGrath, are working on plans for a revival of the Boston University Club of Washington.

Several organizing meetings were held during the summer, and it is expected that a meeting of the entire group will be held in October or November.

Information about the activities of the Washington group may be obtained from Mr. Raymond J. Queenin, 4619 Warren Street N. W., Washington 16, D. C.

Worcester

As usual the Boston University Women's Group of Worcester will have an active season this year. Miss Mary G. O'Flynn is again acting as President, and an interesting series of meetings has been planned.

Women graduates of Boston University in Worcester are invited to get in touch with Miss Mary G. O'Flynn, 61 Downing Street, Worcester, Massachusetts, for information about the activities of the club.

Concord, New Hampshire

Mr. Woodrow F. Murphy, Northeast Airlines, Concord, New Hampshire, is interested in forming a Boston University Club in that city. Mr. Murphy is planning to organize a small committee to work on the matter. He hopes to have several meetings during the winter season.

Mr. Woodrow F. Murphy's address, for further information, is Northeast Airlines, Concord, New Hampshire.

Lawrence, Massachusetts

With the help of some of the younger alumni, including Mr. Milton Hapshe, and Mr. Clyde Roberts, the Boston University group in Lawrence is being reorganized.

It is expected that several meetings of the group will be held during the 1946-1947 season. For information see Mr. Milton Hapshe, 52 Exchange Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts.

Merrimac Valley

A Boston University event which will be of interest to alumni in Lawrence, Haverhill, Methuen, Andover, and other Merrimac Valley cities and towns will be held October 31, 1946.

Mrs. Jean Campopiano, 8 Jackson Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts, is chairman of this event. Details will be announced by mail to all Boston University alumni in the Merrimac Valley area.

SPECIAL NOTE

Proper procedures for forming new alumni clubs may be obtained in mimeographed form from the Alumni Office. Individual alumni or committees are invited to send for this material in order to get new clubs under way. The Executive Alumni Secretary, Warren S. Freeman, will be available for the initial meeting of any new organization and will be happy to offer his advice and assistance in establishing an active, interested club.

BOSTONIA
New Dean of the University

President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University has announced the appointment of Professor Atlee L. Percy as "Dean of the University." This is a new functionary. The office has been created upon the recommendation of the Committee on the University in the Post-War World, submitted two years ago.

Professor Percy received his A.B. degree from Taylor University, his M.B.A. degree from Boston University, and has taken work in several other institutions. He joined the staff of the College of Business Administration in 1915 as Instructor in Accounting after several years' service in teaching and supervisory positions in private and public schools. Later he became Professor of Accounting and Commercial Education, Head of the Commercial Education Department, and was Director of Teachers Courses at the College of Business Administration from 1921 to 1942, a period of twenty-one years.

He served as Chairman of the University Division of Commercial Education from 1934 to 1942, in which capacity he developed an all-University training program for commercial teachers that received national recognition. He has been active in local and national professional societies in this field, and in 1930 was sent by the English Speaking Union to the British Isles to make a study of business education in that country.

Since 1942 he has served as Chairman of the Accounting Department at the College of Business Administration. He is a certified public accountant in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. He is a member of the leading professional organizations in the accounting field, and is the author of several college and secondary school text books in accounting.

He has been Director of the University Summer Session since 1934 and the Summer Term since its establishment three years ago. This position has brought him into direct contact with all departments of the University and will be most helpful to him in his new position.

As University Dean, Professor Percy will become an administrative assistant to President Marsh, and will at the same time continue as Director of the Summer Term.

News has reached us that the indefatigable DEAN EVERETT W. LORD, who retired from CBA five years ago, is back at work again at the age of 75, although this time it is in the religious and not the educational field. For the past two years Dean Lord has served as minister of the Foreside Community Church in Falmouth, Maine. He renewed a Methodist ministerial license issued to him at the age of 22, stating, according to a recent interview in the Boston Traveler, that he was "doubtful of my ability, but hoping I could be of some use." The membership of his 135-year-old, independent, non-denominational, Protestant church has increased from 40 to 88 since his advent, the chancel has been renewed, a new pipe organ has been dedicated, and completion of a Sunday School extension is expected next fall. At the age when most men are resting on their laurels, Dean Lord is making great strides in a new field. The best of luck to him!

DR. SANFORD B. HOOKER, Professor of Immunology at the School of Medicine, was recently appointed to the scientific advisory council of the American Allergy Fund. The American Allergy Fund is a national non-profit organization for the support of research and education in allergy.

Word has come to the Alumni Office that former professor LORENTZ J. HANSEN is now teaching Adult Education classes under the Los Angeles City Board of Education in addition to other types of teaching. He has also been doing radio work in the sociological field with a Hollywood company of radio script writers and producers.

DEAN and Mrs. DONALD D. DURRELL are the parents of a daughter, Elizabeth Jeanne, born July 13.

CHARLES E. RITTENHOUSE, former professor and head of the Boston University Department of Accounting at the College of Business Administration, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the centennial commencement exercises of Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio, in June. Mr. Rittenhouse attended this college in 1902.

DR. CAMILLO P. MERLINO, Professor of Romance Languages, was elected President of the New England Modern Language Association for the 1946-47 season at the 43rd Annual Meeting. Professor Merlino has been Director of the Middlebury College Italian School since 1938.

IGOR ASTROW, Professor of Russian, has been appointed simultaneous French and Russian Interpreter for the United Nations in New York. Along with his daily work as interpreter, Professor Astrow will "commute" by plane on week-ends to Boston to present a course on "Economic and Cultural Developments of Russia" at the Evening College.

DEAN MARTHA R. SMITH

New Dean of The School of Nursing

 Announcement of the appointment of Miss Martha Ruth Smith, Professor of Nursing Education and head of that division at Boston University since its establishment in 1939, to the deanship of the newly established School of Nursing was announced by President Daniel L. Marsh during the summer.

A native of Lebanon, New Hampshire, she holds a B.S. and an M.A. degree from Teachers' College, Columbia University. She is a graduate of the Peter Bent Brigham School of Nursing in the class of 1919 and has also attended the University of Wisconsin. She has held the positions of head nurse and supervisor, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital; resident nurse, Kimball Union Academy, Meriden, New Hampshire; instructor, Samaritan Hospital, Troy, New York; instructor of nursing, Simmons College, School of Nursing; and instructor in nursing education for 6 years in Teachers' College, Columbia.

She was appointed Director of Theoretical Instruction in 1924 at the Massachusetts General Hospital and left there in 1929 to join the Columbia faculty. Returning from Columbia, she became Assistant Principal and Supervisor of Instruction of Nursing Practice at the Massachusetts General Hospital 4 years ago.

Miss Smith is editor and co-author of a textbook, "Introduction and Principles of Nursing Care." She is on the committee on studies for the National League of Nursing Education and a director of the Massachusetts League of Nursing Education. She is a member of the state and national division of the American Nurses' Association, National Organization for Public Health Nursing, and the American Red Cross Nursing Service.

Much interest has been shown in this phase of educational training, President Marsh revealed, by the rapid growth in enrollment of students, the majority of whom are studying for their graduate degrees, to fit them for supervisory and directional posts in hospitals and nursing education and nurse training. One hundred and fifty students have already been graduated since the Division was opened in the fall of 1939. Many of the graduates served during the war in service on widespread battlefronts.

Boston University Coaches Express "Paper Optimism"

By Cliff Sundberg

There's a great deal of "paper optimism" being silently expressed by the Boston University football coaches as they open the first formal grid campaign since 1942. After Coach Walt Holmer and his assistants, Russ Peterson, Bob McKelvey, and Harry Cleverly, looked over the largest squad, numerically and physically, in B. U. history, approximately 50 candidates have been retained for the eight-game schedule which opened under the lights at Syracuse, Saturday night, September 28.

The Terrier eleven is built around a nucleus of veterans from the 1942 club which includes Don Giles, triple-threat halfback; Bob Hatch, the speedy recruit from the successful baseball nine; and backs Larry Kirkman, Sylvio Cell, and Jim Wheeler.

Although Pete Lamana, captain-elect of this 1946 squad, is not available since he has signed a professional football contract with the Chicago Rockets, Boston University has more than a dozen lettermen as the backbone of this first formal post-war grid team. The Scarlet and White are not electing another captain at this time but instead will choose game captains each week and at the end of the season name an honorary captain for the year.

Pete Lamana's running mate, Jim Anderson, is back in school now, but because of a knee injury it is not certain whether this great fullback will be available. Other uncertain candidates are Billy Parsons, fiery guard, who may decide to devote his full time to his new duties as a husband, and Everett Dorr, triple-threat freshman star in 1942.

But none of these veterans is sure of his job. Many of the freshmen prospects have had considerable service ball experience and should keep the old timers hustling for their positions. Every position is wide open on the Terrier team, and Coach Walt Holmer, who is now in his second full year at the helm of Scarlet and White football, is neither pessimistic nor optimistic about his team's chances.

"On paper we are larger — physically and numerically — than ever before," Holmer said. "But I'll have to see them in action before making any predictions."

To use an old bromide — "if" is a little word, but it means a lot as far as Boston University hopes are concerned. Jim Anderson, the Belfast, Maine, fullback who starred as a sophomore and was honorary co-captain with Pete Lamana of the 1940 freshman club, suffered a knee injury with the 3rd Air Force team. He is reporting, but if the leg doesn't hold up, he will drop the sport immediately.

Then there's Ross Barzelay, a veteran guard from Revere, who was hurt in the war and also is not sure of playing. Everett Dorr, one of the early boys at Iwo Jima, would have been as good a kicker as ever has been seen in these parts had he not suffered shrapnel wounds. No word has been heard from George York, the Framingham center, who went to England during the summer to get married. Billy Parsons, fiery Melrose guard whose marriage caused him to wonder about playing ball this fall, has assured Holmer that he's racing to go. While speaking about matrimonial plans, add George Kurs, Brooklyn guard, to the list. He has quit football.

Russ Peterson, Holmer's right-hand man, is counting on Cliff Fitzpatrick, of Brookline, to blossom out into a great end. Fitz played on the 1941 squad and was among the first Boston University athletes to enlist. Along with Wally Williams, one of Boston University's all-time greats, they joined the Marines a month after Pearl Harbor and saw plenty of action in the Pacific from Guadalcanal on. Williams now is a regular back on the Chicago Rockets while his buddy, Fitzpatrick, is looking forward to another banner collegiate season.

Other ends are Gordon Botsford, Jerry Winograd, and Franny Curtis. Botsford, a Marine lieutenant who played basket-
SeaSeason in history last summer: With an included its longest and most successful December. Parsons and Jim Anderson suffered severe shrapnel wounds on Iwo Jima. Dorr, a guard on last year's club, was sure of seeing action. Larry Kirkman, much heavier than his prewar 155 pounds, and Sylvio Celli, who added 20 pounds in the service to his prewar 160, are expected to help out the half-back situation considerably. Speed merchant Bobby Hatch, brother of the former Dartmouth tackle from Melrose, and Eddie Figueira, diminutive ball carrier from Hudson High, are others being counted upon for plenty of service.

A quick look at the list of freshmen assures the Terriers of a starting forward wall averaging more than 200 pounds. The backfield probably is slightly lighter. Nothing much is known about the ability of the newcomers except that quite a few of them have enviable prewar high school records. Very few members of the Boston University team will be non-veterans.

The Terriers are operating from the double wing again this fall. Besides Peterson, Holmer will have as his assistants Bob McKelvey, former Villanova tackle who will do most of the scouting, and Harry Cleverly, three-sport Boston University star. The former will work with the line as usual and Cleverly with the backs.

Terrier Topics

Nearly every member of the squad will be an ex-GI. Fitzpatrick was among the first at Guadalcanal. Holmer, Peterson, and Cleverly of the coaching staff are Navy vets. When Anderson returned to school, he was surprised to find his name among the war deceased. That rumor had reached considerable proportions. Dorr, brother of Ernie Dorr, a guard on last year's club, suffered severe shrapnel wounds on Iwo Jima and probably will be unable to play this fall. Ross Barzelay plans to wed in December. Parsons and Jim Anderson along with several other Terrier grid candidates already are married.

BASEBALL IN REVIEW

Boston University's baseball team concluded its longest and most successful season in history last summer with an easy 10 to 6 victory over Harvard. It marked the fourth time in five years this year that the Terriers had taken the Crimson boys in hand, and the win enabled Coach Harry Cleverly's men to hang up their spikes until next spring with eight straight victories.

The team was slowly molded into a winning combination after a slow start in the spring. Two of their early losses were by one run margins. Springfield edged the Terriers 4 to 3 in 11 innings, and Massachusetts State scored twice in the ninth for a 6 to 5 decision. But both of these clubs were taken in stride by B.U. in the other meetings between the respective clubs.

Boston College, with one of the best teams in New England intercollegiate circles, was the only club which beat B.U. twice during the campaign. They slammed out a 9 to 1 victory at Nickerson Field but had to wait until the last inning of their meeting at the Heights before pushing home the only two runs of that game.

The Terriers were undefeated in their first summer session baseball campaign. Jack Harper proved a virtual one-man pitching staff during these tilts. He started all but one of the five games played and did a near two-hit eight inning relief job in the other contest.

Prospects of having the entire club back next year predicts a promising B.U. baseball future. Most of the players are veterans. Bobby Hatch, the right fielder, saw service throughout the Pacific campaign, and Larry Nighostan, speedy left fielder, had five battle stars.

Bill Gibson, classified by Danny MacFayden, Bowdoin's diamond mentor and former major leaguer, as the best catcher in college circles, also saw service in the Pacific. Incidentally, Gibson collected four home runs during the year. Pete Amirault, versatile utility player, did duty both in the European and Pacific theatres.

Captain Charlie Espanet, an Army vet who will become a proud daddy by the time this appears in print, is the best shortstop that has ever worn the Scarlet and White colors. Others on the squad included Big Tileh, Mario Insani, Bill and Ed Foley, Cal Porter, Dick Snow, George Gaudreault, Larry Folloni, Herb Galper, and Franny Curtis.

The season record of the team follows: Northeastern 7, B.U. 1; B.U. 15, Tufts 2; B.U. 7, Northeastern 3; B.U. 3, Mass. State 2; Harvard 6, B.U. 0; B.U. 13, Brown 6; Springfield 4, B.U. 3 (11 innings); Boston College 9, B.U. 1; Rhode Island State 7, B.U. 1; B.U. 5, Rhode Island State 2; Boston College 2, B.U. 0; Mass. State 6, B.U. 5; B.U. 6, Springfield 4; B.U. 6, Tufts 3; B.U. 12, Harvard 6; B.U. 16, Harvard 4; B.U. 10, Harvard 3; B.U. 8, Bowdoin 1; B.U. 2, Bowdoin 1; and B.U. 10, Harvard 6.
Douglas Raymond, E'38

DOUG RAYMOND APPOINTED
AS HEAD COACH OF TRACK

Boston University's new Head Coach of track for the coming year will be Douglas L. Raymond of Providence, Rhode Island. The appointment was announced by Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, President of the University, and Dr. John M. Harmon, Director of Athletics. Along with his coaching duties, Raymond will serve as an instructor in the University's Department of Physical Education.

Raymond, a naval lieutenant for four years, saw service in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. He is 31 years old, married, and has two children. He is resigning as a teacher and track coach at Providence Classical High School to accept the B. U. assignment.

Chosen from a list of prominent candidates, including some of the foremost track men in the country, Raymond returns to the place where he gained nation-wide fame during the late thirties in the quarter mile, 600-yard and half mile run. He still holds all-University records for those distances.

The new appointee attended Beverly High and while a student there won the half mile event at the Harvard interscholastics. Later while enrolled at Huntington he ran in the same event against Class A competition to win in 1:57.8, a new record at the time. He also set a national interscholastic record for 600 yards while competing for Huntington at the Bowdoin interscholastics. His time was 1 minute and 15 seconds.

The popular redhead captained both the freshman and varsity track squads while at B. U., ran in all the major Boston Garden track meets at the time, and did most of the Terrier scoring. Raymond has competed in 15 national championships and also participated in the Princeton invitational games in 1938.

Running under the B.A.A. colors in the mile relay at Dartmouth's invitational tournament in 1939, his forces won in three minutes and 15 seconds. He also competed in N.A.A.U. meets at Milwaukee, Lincoln, Nebraska, and Fresno, California.

Since coming out of the service last year, he has been coaching the crack track squad at Providence Classical which has won both the Rhode Island State indoor and outdoor Class B relay and track championships. His boys finished second at the New England Interscholastic Championships at Brown.

Among the outstanding track stars he has brought along are Norm Blais, the national interscholastic discus champion; Pete Calise, New England broad jump champ; Karl Graesser, field event star; and Don Murphy, New England high jump champion.

At Boston University he succeeds Russ Peterson, acting track coach, who will devote full time to his basketball and football duties. Raymond will have a good nucleus around which to rebuild Terrier track hopes in Bob Miller and Bud Knapp who came home victorious in the New England intercollegiates last spring.

"SWEDF' ROSENGREN APPOINTED AT B. U.

The appointment of Sven "Swede" Rosengren of Woburn as Trainer for all Boston University athletic teams and Head Coach of wrestling has been announced by Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, President of the University, and Dr. John M. Harmon, Director of Athletics.

Rosengren, a graduate of Woburn High where he starred in track, basketball, and football, played four sports at Springfield College. He captained the wrestling team there, and he won the national intercollegiate championships in 1934-35-36. He later earned a master's degree at Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri.

From 1937 until entering the Navy as a lieutenant three and a half years ago, "Swede" coupled his duties as football, hockey, and track coach at Lansingburg High School in Troy, New York, with an assistant's football assignment at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. In the Navy he served as athletic and personnel officer at Attu, Alaska, before being assigned as survival instructor at Chapel Hill. He is single and will live at the Boston University field house, supervising football training.

A Distinguished Career

Elected twenty-second president of Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania, Chaplain WILLIAM W. EDEL (Captain, U.S.N.), Thco'21, has climbed another notch in his long and distinguished career. For thirty years a chaplain in the Navy, he became known for several contributions to Navy tradition. He is the designer of the Mariner's Cross, the emblem of Navy chaplain activities. He conceived the "Three-way altar", providing for Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish worship, and has been a consultant on Navy chapel building.

While stationed at Lakehurst, New Jersey, Chaplain Edel was instrumental in building the Cathedral of the Air, the national memorial to aviators. He served as historian to the chaplain corps from 1920 to 1944 and published many articles on the subject. He was also Superintendent of Education to the government of American Samoa from 1924 to 1926. Among his many wartime duties he was Area Chaplain, South Pacific, headquarters Noumea, New Caledonia.

He is married to the former Louise Billingsley of Virginia. The Edels have three daughters, two of whom are married to lieutenant commanders in the Navy, and two grandchildren.

Two B.U. Men From Belmont
Take Part In Bikini Atom Bomb Test On July 1st

Aiding in preparations for the atomic bomb test which took place Monday on Bikini atoll were four Belmont men, Dr. Royal M. Frye, Captain Norman W. Dick, William R. Stewart, and Gunther Rudenberg. All were on hand at Bikini for the test.

Professor of Physics at Boston University’s Graduate School and Chairman of its Physics Department, Dr. Frye was asked by Army technicians at Wright Field, Ohio, to make himself available for “Project Crossroads”. His talents in the highly technical subjects of relativity were needed in the experiment. His wife, Mrs. Louise A. Frye, lives at 11 Whitcomb Street.

Captain Dick (B.B.A.’42) has been busy for months compiling technical historical, and operational material for the final report to be made on this giant Army-Navy experiment. It is his job to file the final report and analysis of results of the test as shown by thousands of pictures taken on A-day.

A graduate of Boston University College of Business Administration in 1942, Captain Dick was commissioned in the infantry but requested a transfer to the Air Corps and was assigned to the air base at San Bernardino, California. Promoted to the rank of captain in 1944, he was appointed commanding officer of the clerical section at A.S.C. Headquarters, Patterson Field, Ohio. He was to have been discharged from the Army this month but agreed to stay long enough for “Project Crossroads.”

The secretarial and clerical staff includes Miss Edith Green, who assists on BOSTONIA; Miss Barbara Ray, who helps with the Area Club work; Miss Barbara Phinney and Miss Nancy Everett, who assist in the Financial Department; Miss Dell Mathews, who is our receptionist and does general secretarial work; Miss Margaret Hovnanian and Mrs. Vera Piper, who are in charge of records; and the Misses Yola D’Ercole and Theresa Holleran, who are in charge of the Stencil Room.

In Memoriam

It is with a deep sense of loss that we must announce that ELSIE GARLAND HOBSON, CLA, died of leukemia on May 31st at her home in New Ipswich, New Hampshire. She was a native of Vermont and possessed many of the sterling qualities of character for which the sons and daughters of that state are justly noted — independence of character, a sense of true values, and a capacity for hard work. She was the youngest of a family of seven, four of whom were well known in the student life of the College of Liberal Arts in the decade between 1885 and 1895. Sarah, who later received a medical degree, was graduated with the class of 1887; Albion was graduated in the class of 1889; and Mary belonged for three years to the class of 1892. All were real persons and made a perfect family tradition.

Elise received her preparatory training at the Boston Latin School which fitted her to enjoy to the full the remarkable courses at the college given by Professor Thomas Bond Lindsay and Professor Augustus Buck in Latin and Greek respectively. Miss Hobson often spoke with appreciation of her work under them, and the fact that in her later work in schools where her labor was largely executive, she always reserved a class in Latin for herself to teach, bears witness to the fact that she loved the classics. Although by nature a student, Elsie was far from a grind. She always enjoyed the extra curricular activities and especially her work for her sorority. She often claimed that she had received the greater part of her college training from her sorority in addition to securing many life-long friends not only at Boston University but in the West where she served on the National Board of the Alpha Phi Sorority. She received her A.B. in 1895 and her A.M. in 1896.

After a brief experience in public school teaching in Maine, she accepted the position of Principal of the Jacksonville School for Girls in Jacksonville, Illinois. From 1897 to 1913 she served as principal of academies in Michigan and Illinois averaging five years at each. In 1914 she came back East and until 1918 was located at the Mary C. Wheeler School in Providence, Rhode Island, as director of the Day School Department and teacher of Latin. During her vacations in the four years spent there, she studied at the University of Chicago and received her Ph.D. In 1918 she went to Bryn Mawr as Headmistress of the Open Air School under the Educational Department of the college. In 1922 a combination day and boarding school was started in Concord, Massachusetts, now well known as Concord Academy, and Miss Hobson was chosen as Headmistress.

To summarize her achievements at Concord Academy, the following quotation is just a part of the tribute paid to her by the Board of Trustees of Concord Academy at the meeting following her death: "The imprint upon the school of Miss Hobson's character, the scholastic standards she established, and the wisdom, practicality, and foresight of her administration of its affairs will long remain.

FLORENCE GOODWIN LANE, '95

LILLIAN MOULTON, CLA, JB'03, was elected auditor of the Massachusetts Association of Women Lawyers at the closing meeting of the year last May.

1902

The following anniversary poem was written in honor of Boston University by MARGUERITE H. BARTLETT, CLA:

Born of the spirit, you give the youth who come
To your famed halls, a light to vitalize
The learning of the mind and save a world

Bearing the wonder of a lily and Christ.
You give a culture of the heart, the fertile flower
Of its infinite variety of beauty.
In law and healing, in affairs and orders,
The liberal arts of the humanities.
Consecrated to life, come forth today,
Noble young men and women! Hold high your flame
Of sacred fire to show new ways of truth
Of liberty and peace to all mankind!

MARGUERITE H. BARTLETT

Recently announced was the candidacy of JOHN J. BUTLER, CLA, Late '03, of Wakefield, for the Democratic nomination for register of deeds.

1906

Mrs. Frederic Stanton Johnston (MARGARET HOUSTON), CLA, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Richard William O'bar of the faculty of Somerville High School.

1910

RUSSELL T. HATCH, CLA, according to the last word received by the alumni office, expects to be released from the Army shortly (if he hasn't been already) and will return to his business.

College of Liberal Arts
Class Reunion

Saturday, June 8, was a happy day for the classmates of MARTHA STEVENS MOSFATT. All enjoyed the hospitality of Martha and her husband, Edwin, in their charming Wellesley home. Our hostess was ably assisted by the committee appointed at our 1945 reunion: chairman, LOUISE ALEXANDER FRYE; LENA CHANDLER MASON; and CLARETTE L. ROGERS.

After exchanging personal news, and having the pleasant privilege of wandering about to exclaim over Martha's beautiful antiques, we settled comfortably in the sunporch for a brief business meeting. In the absence of our president, Dr. BRENTON R. LUTZ, regrettably kept at home by illness, HORTENSE HARRIS presided informally. Reports of secretary and treasurer were followed by the reading of notes of greeting and news from widely scattered classmates — RUTH BARTLETT in California, ELIZABETH HOYT in Iowa, ROBERTA UIPHAM HOLDEN in Indiana, MARION HARDY WOOLFSON in Arizona, BETH PARTRIDGE and CLARA MACOMBER in New Jersey, MARY CONWAY MCVAY and HELEN PORTER in Rhode Island, MARION HARLOW, RUTH BUTLER MOORE, ELSIE CAMP WELLS, MARION TOBEY GOOCH, HELEN DURGIN RICHARDS in Vermont and New Hampshire. Nearby friends who expressed regret at their inability to be with us were: HARRIETT STONE, ALICE HAMMOND, LILLIAN SLEEPER LANE, ALICE GORMAN, LEAH BENNETT CLINE, HARRIET WHITAKER, GRACE STUDELEY, EMMA RAMASY, IRENE ZAHU, MILDRED METCALFE, GRACE LAWRENCE, ELEANOR ORB. We noted with regret the death of MARY SULLIVAN GARRITY in Massachusetts; MARION MARTIN who had the oldest child; GLADYS N. WEBB, CI secretary of the State division of personnel, has been appointed a steward at the Danvers (Mass.) Public Library; and several other friends who had come the greatest distance; and to JULIAN LAKEY who had come the greatest distance; and to DOROTHY MATTOCKS who had had the most exciting experiences. She had spent two years and two months in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines with her husband, an Episcopal clergyman, and her two children. A collection was taken for a sum of money to be used to purchase books for the CLA library to be added to those donated after our 20th reunion in memory of four members of our class who had passed away: ALICE WONG, MARION CLARK, RACHEL BARSON and DOROTHY LYONS. CHARLES ROBINSON was elected president and FRANCES WEBB, secretary; MARION STEUERWALD was chosen reunion chairman. 1921 had a table at the Victory Dinner and three tables at Pops. DONALD POWERS and MARGARET SALE POWERS of Winchester joined our group there. The reunion proved to be a very enjoyable occasion, for it was interesting to hear of the experiences and happenings to members present and others who had written letters to be read.

The committee responsible for the reunion activities was MARGARET QUIRK, MILDRED MACISAAC EGAN, RUTH ROBY LINDQUIST, HELEN CARLSON ANDERSON, MARION STEUERWALD, and FRANCES NEWELL WEBB.

JOHN WALTER E. WARNER, CBA, MA, 40, married Anna Josephine Smith on June 29 in the Revere School. The wedding was held by all who came in contact with him, we quote the following letter from one of our alumni:

"Reading of Ralph Brown's passing prompts me to write just a few words of tribute.

"Working under him as student leader of the Boston University Men's Glee Club, it was my fortune to have many happy and pleasant associations with him.

"With his endless stock of stories and brilliant repartee, he was able to turn the dullest rehearsal into a profitable one simply by getting us into the right mood and then helping us solve our musical problems with apparent ease. He was a man's man, if ever there was one; and how he loved the 'give and take' of those Men's Glee Club rehearsals!

"Many of his stories became almost traditional at B.U. and I know that many of us will always associate 'Brownie' with them, especially the one that began, 'Did I ever tell you fellows how John Marshall and I won the war?'

"Seriously, however, we who were privileged to know him will miss his inspiration, his genuineness, and his friendship.

"Boston University has lost a faithful servant and we, who knew him, a true friend.'

Sincerely

WILLIAM O. GOSS, Mus '28

1941 Class Reunion

The reunion of CBA, 41 at the Viking Cocktail Lounge, May 25, was a successful round-up, and before it ended, included strays from gatherings of the classes of 1940 and 1942 also.

An attendance sheet, which didn't make the full rounds, bore 45 signatures. There were nearly twice that many class members and guests present, however, despite a mailing list slip-up, because of which many received no notification of the reunion, time and place. There was also competition from the Red Sox-Yankees game at Fenway Park.

Aside from more corpulence and less hair (on the part of the male members of the class, that is), appearances were little changed after five years. There were few uniforms, many discharge buttons; an enthusiastic welcoming of returning pictures of their offspring.

New Interests: Wives being introduced to their British bride within a few days. EDITH TON WHITMORE, on terminal leave, was just home from overseas, watching the arrival of the Red Sox-Yankees game at Fenway Park.

AUSTIN PEARSALL, and SOLomon, comparing wallet pictures of their offspring.

New personal notes garnered by gabbing at the gathering: Lieutenant Colonel ELLIS-PEARSALL, and SOLOMONT, comparing wallet pictures of their offsprings.

THE SPECTROSCOPE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Because of the importance of the spectroscopic analysis work on the "Crossroads" project in which Boston University men played an important part, the editors of BOSTONIA endeavored to obtain information on the instrument itself from Dr. Royal Frye. Dr. Frye, however, was not available during the summer because of "Crossroads" work. In his place, Mr. William Hagen, A.B. '46, assistant to Dr. Frye at Bikini, and Miss Virginia Brigham, A.B.'36, A.M. '45, of the Boston University Physics Department, revealed some interesting facts on the instrument.

The general function of the spectroscope is to decompose a beam of light or radiant energy into its constituents. The source of light in the case of the bomb tests was the bomb itself. The workings of the spectroscope are much the same as those of a prism. Like the prism, the spectroscope separates a beam of light into colors. The colors are then spread out by the spectroscope into lines by means of a grating, thus indicating each substance to be found in the source.

Dr. Royal Frye of Boston University designed a new type of spectroscope, used at Bikini, which is unique because the spectrum is projected into a flat disc of film which turns and thus enables any change to be detected. Two types of spectra were recorded at Bikini — first, the emission spectrum, when the excited element gave off certain characteristic lines indicated on the photograph by bright lines; secondly, the absorption spectrum, when excited compounds gave off bright lines, at which time some of the elements absorbed all of the light being given off by certain wave lengths, and on the plate, instead of bright lines, appeared a dark space.

The spectroscope, in conjunction with other instruments, was able to determine the temperature of the burst, its chemical reactions, the pressures developed, and whether or not any new elements were present.

BOSTONIA
SIXTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Our belated congratulations go to Mr. WILLIAM I. WARD and Mrs. Ward on the sixty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The red-letter day was May 18, 1946, at which time the couple received calls from many relatives and friends as well as several hundred greetings by mail. Mr. Ward is an honorary trustee of Boston University.

F. I. JOHNSON, who came up to Boston from St. Cloud, Florida, for the fiftieth reunion of his class last May, sent us recently an interesting biographical account of his years as a minister. Among his many duties over a long period of years, he served on the faculty of Ohio Wesleyan University for one year and on the Board of Trustees for nineteen years. In 1925 he went to New York as Associate Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. He resigned this position in 1930. In 1952 he retired from active service in the North-East Ohio Conference, of which he was Secretary for ten years, to recover his health and do some writing and lecturing. He has made two trips round the world studying religious, educational, social, and political conditions. On these trips he visited thirty-four countries in the Orient and the Levant including Persia, Iran, Turkey, Russia, and most of the countries of Europe.

From a folder which Mr. Johnson forwarded to the Alumni Office we learn that he has dined with or had personal conferences with such notables as Mahatma Gandhi, Rabindranath Tagore, Feng Yu Hsiang, Prince and Princess Bidyalangkarana of Siam, and Prince Tokagawa, president of the House of Peers of Japan.

The following excerpts have been taken from a letter written by FRED M. ESTES to his fellow members in the Class of 1900:

"After fifty-one consecutive years in the work of the ministry, I have actually retired. I am now living with my daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Busby, at 35 Renwick Road, Melrose, Massachusetts.

"Though nearly eighty-two years of age, but in the enjoyment of excellent health, we have read thirty volumes in the past year. I began with philosophy, reading Bowne, Kant, and Herbert Spencer as a groundwork for some more modern writers to follow. That naturally led me to theology, and I read with avidity a dozen or more carefully selected volumes. In my endeavor to keep up with the Joneses, I read Rufus M. and E. Stanley cogitated upon Sam, the southern evangelist, who is reputed to have won 100,000 souls for Christ. The other books were miscellaneous.

"We rejoice in the distinguished service that our beloved and inspiring leader, Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, has rendered during the ten years of his presidency of Boston University. His achievements are monumental... We pledge him our hearty cooperation to the extent of our ability."
DONALD G. WRIGHT, Grad'34, has a new son, Douglas Wallace, born June 2.

1939

HAROLD A. JAYNE now has a second son, Ralph Allan, born May 14. Mr. Jayne is at present, minister of the Okemos Community Church, Okemos, Michigan.

MILTON R. VOGEL is executive secretary of the Kansas Council of Churches. Mr. Vogel is an alumnus of the Evangelical Theological Seminary in Naperville, Illinois.

1940

EUGENE H. FLOYD recently accepted a position as assistant to the president of Washburn University, Topeka, Kansas. His new job will include responsibility for university publicity as well as for the alumni association work. Mr. Floyd served in the Navy from February, 1944, to January, 1946, as a communications officer, most of the time on the staff of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz at Pearl Harbor and on Guam. He spent some time as communications officer of the U.S. HAINES (A.F.D. 84) which was assigned to the U.S. Strategic Bombing Survey personnel all over Japan. After his discharge from the Navy, Mr. Floyd served as associate secretary of the Penn State Christian Association at the Pennsylvania State College from April through August, 1946. His wife, RUTH WINSHIP FLOYD, May '39, directed the choir at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church at Penn State during this time.

1941

Class Reunion By Mail

The following is a digest of the news sent out by LESLIE JOHNSON to his 1941 classmates after he had received many reply cards in answer to his reunion letter last spring:

PAUL ALBERY is a minister at Plainwell, Michigan. He is married and has one child.

CURTIS BEACH is minister of The Neighborhood Church, Pasadena 2, California (225 W. California Street). He is married and has two children.

CARL BERRY is pastor of the Methodist Church in Muscoda, Wisconsin. He is still single.

SHERMAN L. BURSON is a minister of the Methodist Church in Pittsburgh 1, Pennsylvania (415 - 40th Street). He is married, has four children and one grandchild.

W. CHARON DENSON is pastor of the Methodist Church in Pittsford, Massachusetts (165 Stoddard Avenue). He is married and has two children.

R. EDWIN GREEN is pastor of the Methodist Church in Willcox, Arizona (Box 267). He is married and has two children.

JOHN H. FINNEY expressed pictorially why he couldn’t be present by drawing a small road sign with the inscription: “Boston, 4000 mi. John is preaching, et al in Seattle. His address is 321 North 79th Street, Seattle 5, Washington.” He is married and has one child.

R. EDWIN GREEN is pastor of the Methodist Church in Wakarusa, Indiana. He is married and the father of John Wesley, age 5 months.

HAROLD HADLEY writes: “I must stay on the job!” Give my best regards to everyone!” Harold is associate secretary of the Friends World Committee in the city of Philadelphia (20 South Twelfth Street). Hal previously served a church for three years.

He is still single. I, (LESLIE JOHNSON), visited with him in March while attending COSA in his city and he is still the same good old Hal, except a bit more gracious. Incidentally, I asked him to accept the job of “Permanent Class Secretary” since Ellie West went into the Navy, and he said he would. This is one of the things we would have voted upon had you fellows been present for a reunion. Since we couldn’t do that, as a director on the Alumni Board, I assumed the privilege of appointing him. Of course, any of you who might have voted against Harold may still do so by writing to me, but rest assured, your name will be considered for the job! So, when you hear from Harold, be a good pal and answer him.

HARRIS E. HEVERLY is minister of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church in Winchester, Massachusetts, (30 Dix Street). Harris has been one of the New England Grounds and has spent as well as a good hunter and fisherman, as well as a good athlete. He is married and has two children, Ronnie and Martha.

GORDON H. JAMES is pastor of the Methodist Church in Willcox, Arizona (Box 267). He is married and has two children.

We are sorry to say that G. MELBOURNE JONES has been convalescing from a spinal operation and six months hospitalization. We surely hope that you are up and around by now, Mel. As some of you know, G. Melbourne made a place for himself in the Episcopal Church and has been doing a grand job in the city of Portland. Mel is still a single man. His address is 143 State Street, Portland 3, Maine. I know he would appreciate hearing from you fellows.

LELAND W. KEEMER is serving the Dubois Methodist Church, a three-point circuit in Central Pennsylvania Conference. He is married and has two children.

JOHN H. LAVLEY has deserted Boston for his native haunts in Pennsylvania, where he is pastor of the Methodist Church in Ligonier (105 South Market Street). As a matter of record, he will recall, he was married to Josephine Magee and they have two boys and one girl. John says they miss Boston and New England plenty! We miss you folks too!

KENNETH E. METCALF is a chaplain with the 88th Division and is now at Camp Carson, Colorado. He says “the best of everything to all of you.” He also said he saw John Magee a short time ago and that he was planning to attend Harvard this summer. Well, I haven’t seen John yet, but if he’s here, I’ll surely find him!

ELBERT S. MORFORD has just returned from the Chaplaincy in the U. S. Army Air Corps and is now pastor of the Methodist Church in Elkhard, Indiana (2324 West Indiana Avenue). He is married and has one child.

RAY E. MORTENSEN sent “Greetings to all” and said that he would certainly like to have been here and chatted with you fellows. Ray is pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church in Boise, Idaho (1406 Eastman Street). and Boys Probation Officer for Ada County in the capital city.

BILL NIETMANN is another good man who has left the environs of good ol' New England to try his luck in a field worn by his predecessors. Bill is married and has two children.

ROLAND W. NYE strayed from the fold but he has also done a grand job as pastor of the First Congregational Church in Meredith, New Hampshire. I recall that during the war he also did some teaching in the public schools there to help out. He is married and has two boys.

JOHN B. OLDS is one of my next door neighbors, being pastor of the Methodist Church in Somerville 43, Massachusetts (56 Putnam Street). John is doing a grand job and is making a name for himself in the New England Conference. He is married and has two children.

The following telegram came from Toledo, Ohio:

"Dear Les: Greetings and best wishes to the men at the School of Theology from the Boston men in the Ohio Conference. Pat McConnell supplied the news. Need I say more? CARL T. PIERSON."

It was good to know that you fellows out in Ohio were thinking about all the rest of us who didn't get together. We're glad you had a big banquet and that Pat was there to speak. I saw him a few days later and he told me about you.

Besides the telegram sent by CARL PIERSON I learned from his reply card that he is preaching at Jamestown, Ohio, is married and has one boy.

HENRY B. RILEY, JR., is pastor of the Methodist Church in Everett, Pennsylvania (231 East Main Street), is married and has two children.

HOOVER RUPERT is director of our youth department with the General Board of Education at 910 Broadway in Nashville. We are all proud of the good work Hoover is doing. No doubt, he has run into a lot of you fellows in his travels around the country.

Although I didn't hear from KEI SASAKI, the last word I had was at Christmas time. He has been living in Denver, Colorado (2171 South Columbine Street). He is happily married and has one child. While attending Hiff School of Theology, he has also been serving a Methodist Church, I believe in Pueblo.

JOHN N. STROUT is preaching in Byesville, Ohio, is married and has two children.

PAUL E. SUTTON wants me to give "all the gang" his love, platonic, of course! Said he couldn't be present at the reunion because the distance was too great. (Guess that was most everyone's trouble!) Paul is married, has one child, and is pastor of the Walton Memorial Methodist Church in Ravenswood, West Virginia.

JOHN L. TAYLOR is minister of the Emmanuel Methodist Church in San Bernardino, California (718 Marshall Boulevard). He is married and has two children.

CLARENCE W. THOMPSON writes from Terril, Iowa:

"Moved to this, my second charge, October 1st. It is a fine rural church in a village of 500. We have a membership of something around 140. I have been doing a bit of youth work, especially in camps. Enjoyed a fine visit with Rupert on May 5th. Would like to be with you fellows and spend some time in New England. Dorothy's family lives on a ranch in the Black Hills, so that seems to draw us there for our vacations. We have one child, Nancy, nearly 4 years old."

PARKER B. WARD is minister of the Methodist Church in Middletown, Vermont (22 Seminary Street), and is very active in young peoples work, being Institute Dean this year. "P. B." said his reason for not coming to the reunion was "no train" (remember the strikes) and consequently the notice arrived late. P. B. is married and has two children.

HORACE R. WEAVER is now located at 1246 Hereschell Avenue, Cincinnati 8, Ohio, and is assistant minister of the Hyde Park Community Methodist Church. (From BOSTON I learned that Horace has recently been discharged from the service as a chaplain. What will direct Christian education and the youth program, and be minister of music in his new position.) He is married but has no children.

Neither did I hear from ELMER PARKER WEST, but the last I did learn was that he was planning to be released from the Navy, where he had served as a Pharmacist's Mate doing special work in psychiatry. It is possible that he is married or soon will be and is planning to go on to school to study medicine and psychiatry.

WAYNE WOLFORD writes that he is minister of the Methodist Church in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania (212 North Main Street), and is not married.

Well, I guess that takes care of all the fellows I have heard from or know anything about. Oh yes, someone wrote on their card, saying "What are you doing, Les?" Well, I was just getting started in People's Methodist Church in Haverhill, Massachusetts, when the Bishop and D.S. thought it would be better for me to come down and fight the battle of Copley Methodist Church. So we came last September. However, because this is one of those city churches without a parsonage, we have been caught in the middle of the housing shortage. We found a new place to live, and its a good feeling to know that you won't have to be sleeping out on the Boston Common. Russell is now over 2 years old, and Bobby, age 4 months, is keeping his mother busy. Oh yes, his arrival on May 25th, Alumni Day, was the reason some of my plans had to be changed."

A daughter, Donna Lynn, was born to the Reverend and Mrs. TAYLOR E. MILLER on May 31, 1946. Mr. Miller was appointed as Instructor in Philosophy at Syracuse University on leaving the Naval Chaplaincy. They reside at 709 Ackerman Avenue, Syracuse 10, New York.

WILLIAM D. NIETMANN, Grad'43, has been appointed Professor of Philosophy at the College of the Pacific, Stockton, California.

An afternoon wedding was held on June 15 for ELMER PARKER WEST and MADELAINE ISBISTER, Ed'47, of South Tewksbury. During the war Mr. West served in the psychiatry section of the Navy on the West Coast. Mr. and Mrs. West will live in Columbus, Ohio, where he will teach psychology and psychiatry.

1942

WRAY W. STICKFORD has been assigned to the Emmanuel Methodist Church as pastor. Mr. Stickford will continue his studies for a doctorate at Boston University. For 32 months he was an Army Chaplain; of that time, he spent two years in the South Pacific, serving in New Guinea and Japan with an anti-tank battalion.

Recently announced was the appointment of ABRAHAM LESTER STRAUSS as minister of the Methodist Church in South Yarmouth, Massachusetts.

WESLEY D. OSBORNE has left the Mathewson Street Methodist Church in Providence. He and Mrs. Osborne spent the summer in Europe.

1944

LEWIS B. CARPENTER, president of the National College for Christian Workers, has announced the program of building expansion

Among the many Boston University alumni who are distinguishing themselves in every field of endeavor is C. MILIO CONNICK, Theo'42, Theo'44, who has recently been appointed President of Whittier College, Whittier, California. A graduate of Allegheny College in 1939, Mr. Connick was the Roswell R. Robinson Fellow in 1942 at the School of Theology. He received his Bachelor of Sacred Theology degree in that year and was graduated magna cum laude.

In 1944 he was awarded his Ph.D. from the Boston University Graduate School. The subject of his dissertation was "The Alleged Anti-Jewish Character of the Fourth Gospel." For the past two years Dr. Connick has been head of the Bible Department at Northfield School for Girls. for the college which includes the gift of a chapel, donated anonymously. The second unit in the program will be a library and the complete remodeling of the three existing buildings on the campus and a re-landscaping of the grounds.

It was recently announced that WILLIAM R. KEPPEL, of Washington, D. C., will serve as pastor of the West Abington Methodist Church.

C. RUSSELL KERR has been formulating plans for a Boys Village near Smithville, Ohio, which will be patterned after the Boys Town founded by Father Edward J. Flanagan. Mr. Kerr has incorporated a society which took title to 120 acres from the airport near Smithville, and for the past months his parishioners and neighbors have contributed time, money, and materials in renovating and furnishing a seven-room home on the property.

The project will be a refuge for homeless boys of all creeds. Plans are being made to build a large administrative building on a knoll near by, surrounded by trim colonial cottages where his young charges will live. At first, only 12 homeless youngsters between the ages of 12 to 18 will be taken; later, the founder hopes to accommodate 500.

NORMAN L. PORTER has been appointed pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, Lewiston, Maine.

Guest preacher during the month of August at the Wellington Community Methodist Church, Medford, Massachusetts, was THOMAS L. SMITH of Buffalo, New York.

School of Medicine Notes

With the approval of the Executive Committee of the Boston University Medical School Alumni Association, plans are now being completed by Warren S. Freeman, Executive Alumni Secretary, for meetings of Medical School alumni in New York, Worcester, and Lewiston, Maine.

The date of the New York meeting and of those to be held in Worcester and Lewiston, Maine, will be forwarded to all Medical School alumni as soon as plans have been completed.

New Library Fund

The Frederick H. Pratt fund, honoring Dr. Frederick H. Pratt, professor emeritus of physiology at the School of Medicine, was recently set aside for the use of the school library.

The sum, started by sale of a collection of medical periodicals collected through the years by Dr. Pratt, was donated to the library for their disposal. As the library had duplicates of these magazines, they were sold and the money received kept for improvement and extension of the library.

Dr. Pratt, a resident of Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, began teaching at Boston University in 1921. Previously he had served on the faculty at Wellesley College, Buffalo, Clark, and Harvard Universities. He received his A.B. degree from Harvard in 1896, his A.M. in 1898, and his M.D. in 1906. He has also studied abroad at the University of Gottingen, Germany.

Dr. Ferguson-Howard Retires

Dr. Eleanor Ferguson-Howard, Director of the Department of Anesthesia at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital and Professor of Anesthesiology at the School of Medicine, resigned, effective July first, after twenty-five years with the department. The staff of the Department of Anesthesia and former residents gave Dr. Ferguson a dinner at Abner Wheeler's July 16th. She was presented with a pair of jade earrings. The general staff of the hospital presented her with a check. Dr. Ferguson will continue her work at the Baptist Hospital and remain as consultant in anesthesiology to Memorial Hospitals.

Faculty Appointments

Three new appointments to the faculty of the School of Medicine were announced in August by President Daniel L. Marsh and Dr. Donald G. Anderson, Dean of the School of Medicine.

Dr. Mandel Cohen of Boston, an instructor in psychiatry at Harvard, will lecture in neurology. Charles H. Burnett, Denver, Colorado, resident in medicine at the Massachusetts General Hospital, has been appointed assistant professor of medicine. Charles P. Emerson, Indianapolis, Indiana, research fellow at Harvard, will be assistant professor of medicine.

Kermit Katz, Boston, was promoted from instructor in medicine to assistant professor; Henry J. Bakst, Boston, from instructor in medicine to assistant professor; and John P. Rattigan, Hyde Park, from assistant in medicine to instructor.

Campus Notes

Dr. Reginald H. Smithwick, chief of surgery, is now operating every afternoon. Visitors as well as patients come from all over the world. Boston University graduates will find a visit well worthwhile.

Dr. Dera Kinsey, medical associate of Dr. Smithwick, has transferred her office to the Massachusetts General Hospital. She is on the Evans and the Medical School staff.

Dr. Whitelaw, Brose, Mixter, and Garrigos, assistants to Dr. Smithwick, have also transferred to the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.
Dr. Richard Norton, professor of oral surgery, is recovering from an operation at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.

Miss Margaret Dieter, superintendent of the School of Nurses for twenty-one years, resigned, effective July first. She will become the superintendent of nurses at City Hospital, Worcester, September first. Miss Dieter is responsible for bringing the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital School of Nurses into the accredited list, and she deserves much credit for her work not only with the hospital but in the state nursing association.

Miss Finley and Miss Ryer, assistant superintendents and members of the teaching staff, have also resigned.

Old Boston University graduates who remember Miss Lee of the children's ward with affection and great respect will be sorry to hear that she is no longer there.

The 5th floor Evans, until recently unfinished, is now humming with activity. This floor is entirely devoted to laboratory and research facilities.

The Coffee Shop, an addition many graduates are unfamiliar with, is located in the old admitting office in the Robinson Building. The Ladies Aid, realizing the need for restaurant facilities for the staff and visitors, began in a small way several years ago in one of the small dining rooms. The quarters were rapidly outgrown, and the move to the present location was made two years ago. Staffed by volunteers, it fills a long felt need. All profits from the Coffee Shop are used to purchase hospital equipment not otherwise obtainable. Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. George Levine, and Mrs. Henry Pollack have worked very hard to make this the great success it is.

The appointment of Dr. ROGER G. OSTERHELD, of Dorchester, as superintendent of the Monson State Hospital, Palmer, Massachusetts, was recently announced. Dr. Osterheld is a former assistant superintendent of the Taunton State Hospital and assistant commissioner of the Department of Mental Health. He is the great success it is.

Dr. Owen Mullaney is back from service and is associated with Dr. C. Wesley Sewall.

Dr. John Foley, resident on orthopedics, Dr. Laurence, associate of Dr. Clute, and Dr. Edward Palmer, associate of Dr. Albright, are all looking very proud — all boasting new sons.

The Department of Anesthesia, Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals, has been asked to collaborate in providing clinical facilities for the Morton Centennial Celebration. The New England Society of Anesthesiologists is planning a three-day program, October 14-15-16th. The program, while planned primarily for anesthetists, will be of interest to all clinicians who are interested in the field of anesthesiology.

The wedding of DONALD BURNETT BARKAN to ANITA BAUM, CLA'46, took place on June 1, in Fitchburg.

On June 29, Alice Miriam Birmingham was married to CHARLES GODSPEED COLBURN of Wollaston. Dr. Colburn is now on active duty with the Navy at Chelsea Naval Hospital. The bride was graduated from Wellesley College.

COLUMBUS R. GANGEMI married Margaret A. Casassa on July 15 in Fitchburg. The bride is a registered nurse and recently announced. Dr. Skillin is now an intern at the Maine General Hospital.

The engagement of Roslyn Schwartz, of Brookline, and Dr. ARNOLD L. BERENBERG, of Chelsea, was recently announced. Dr. Berg will intern at Grace Community Hospital, New Haven, Connecticut.

Recently announced was the engagement of Eleanor L. Peto, of Malden, to Dr. ALBERT VERN MILLS of Bremerton, Washington. Dr. Mills is to intern at the Swedish Hospital in Seattle, Washington.

Recently announced was the engagement of Agnes B. McKay, of Brookline, to Dr. WILLIAM ANTHONY SINTON of Stoughton. Dr. Sinton is to intern in surgery at Bellevue Hospital in New York City.

tion from the greatest danger that had ever faced it. What the reports by the President's evaluation boards did not emphasize is that future wars will employ not atomic bombs singly, but by hundreds and thousands.

Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, under whose direction the bomb was developed at Los Alamos, New Mexico, has testified that in the not too distant future atomic bombs will be easy to make and will cost no more than $1,000,000 each. There is enough uranium and thorium in the earth's crust to manufacture them by the thousands, once adequate plants have been built. While the secret of their manufacture is possessed largely by us, it will take only a relatively short time, five to ten years, before other nations will have it.

The Bikini tests have yielded another lesson of utmost significance to our strategists that is not touched on in the reports to the President. Watching the cloud of death that spread over the Bikini fleet, this observer considered it obvious that amphibious invasions such as that in North Africa, Italy, and Normandy would become impossible against an enemy possessing atomic bombs. A few atomic bombs exploded in the air and under water would not only sink the invasion craft, but also kill every man aboard them. Those who by miracle might escape the blast and heat would surely die by the invisible, all-penetrating radiation.

Had the Germans possessed an atomic bomb, they would not have had to wait until the invasion got under way. They could have destroyed all England before the invasion could be organized. Another vital fact must be impressed on the public mind and on some of the world's statesmen who still seem to think and talk in terms of preatomic diplomacy. The atomic bomb is not primarily a tactical weapon against navies or task forces spread out over several miles of ocean, but the ideal terror weapon to be used strategically for the wholesale destruction of cities, industries, and populations. In the case of an atomic war against the United States, an enemy could well afford to ignore the existence of our Navy at sea. Professor Oppenheimer has testified that a rain of atomic bombs could wipe out 40,000,000 of our population in one night. Such an attack would destroy most of our vital industrial centers and the industries where the vital sinews of war are produced, including the shell for the Navy's guns, torpedoes, electrical equipment, and all the thousands of items of paraphernalia without which a modern navy could not exist. It would also destroy the harbors to which all ships must eventually return, the naval bases, and the naval supply depots. Deprived of these, ships at sea would be left completely helpless after their supplies of ammunition, food, and fuel had been exhausted.

Furthermore, the Bikini tests, while they have given us some lessons considered valuable, have furnished valuable lessons to a potential enemy. We have revealed to him, at great expense to ourselves, that one atomic bomb exploded in the air "does great harm to superstructures of major ships within a half-mile radius," and that "no ship within a mile could have escaped without some damage to itself and serious injury to a large number of its crew." We have further revealed to him that unprotected personnel within one mile of an air-burst atomic bomb would suffer high casualties by intense neutron and gamma radiation as well as by blast and heat, whereas the under-water explosion could sink a battleship well over 500 feet away, an aircraft carrier more than 1,000 feet away, and another battleship about 1,500 feet away. (The distances of the last two are conservative estimates based on personal observation. Foreign naval observers no doubt make more accurate estimates.)

We have, moreover, informed him that in addition to doing great damage to hulls, the under-water explosion threw about 10,000,000 tons of highly radioactive water on the decks and into the hulls of vessels so that "the contaminated ships became radioactive stoves" that "would have burned all living things aboard them with invisible and painless but deadly radiation." With this information as a blueprint, an enemy would thus know how to use atomic bombs against a fleet in a harbor. He would know just how many bombs he would need and how to space them to destroy the harbor, and the ships, and all living things aboard them.

It must also be remembered that it is not likely that atomic bombs would be dropped from an airplane at high altitude or be surreptitiously planted below the surface. The development of the V-2 rocket makes it more probable that before long the long-range guided missile, hurtling at 5,000 miles an hour at altitudes of several miles, would be the choice method of dealing swift death to cities and populations.

These are the sober facts that the peoples and statesmen of the world must keep constantly in their minds. They must learn to heed the scientists' warning that no defense against the atomic bomb is possible other than the elimination of war and the effective international control of atomic weapons.

IT'S COMING!

Plans for a Boston University Alumni News Letter, which will go out to all alumni, are now on the fire. The first issue should reach its readers some time in October. There will be lots of interesting news about the University and future alumni plans, so watch for it!
short in order to catch the plane mentioned in his letter above, the editors of BOSTONIA requested permission to reprint the following interview which appeared in the Boston Post, Sunday, July 7, just after Dr. Frye returned from Bikini with Dr. Macdonald.

"Flying in an Army C-54 transport only 12 miles from "Operations Crossroads" at Bikini, we were greatly surprised that the noise made by the explosion of the fourth atom bomb in history did not make a more audible noise," Dr. Royal Frye, Boston University professor, stated last night upon arrival at his Belmont home.

Pleased By Results

"The noise made by the bomb sounded like a clap of thunder, and from inside our transport at 12,000 feet in the air the noise might have been compared to the clap of a huge stick against the side of the plane," he explained.

"Although we were somewhat disappointed in the noise that the blast made, we were all generally well pleased with the results of the A-bomb test as a whole. Able to watch through specially prepared goggles, the 21 government-commissioned scientists in our plane removed their smoked glasses seconds after the flash of the explosion and waited for the sound effects which arrived about one minute later.

Told To Brace Selves

"Our pilot warned us with the remark, 'Brace yourselves now for the shock waves.' The shock was also not as great as we had expected and, although the large plane tossed about as we circled the radioactive area, we were able to focus our cameras on the island," he explained.

"Immediately following the blast, a huge mountain of smoke shaped like a question mark rose over Bikini some 30,000 to 40,000 feet in the air. The smoke was an orange brown and formed a spectrum which appeared like a ghostly hue. (A rainbow is a type of spectrum.)

"It was my job to operate spectrographic instruments which recorded the spectrum. From these instruments our government will learn: (1) the substances present after the explosion, (2) the temperatures of the gases present, (3) the pressure of the air and the gases, (4) the velocity of the particles of substances and gases.

HAD WARNING INSTRUMENTS

"The whole left side of the plane in which we were observing was well ventilated with holes out of which we poked our scientific instruments. We were protected against the possibility of running in radioactive areas, which are deadly to human beings, by the presence of geiger-counters. These instruments measure the radioactivity in the air and would have warned us when we were invading dangerous areas."

"Of a nova. Spectroscopic analysis of the happenings at Bikini will not be completed for at least two years."

Aside from the scientific significance of Test Able one finds of equal importance the political and social implications to be construed from such a project. Although I have mentioned the seeming insignificance of the explosion in its great natural setting at Bikini, it cannot be forgotten that one atomic bomb has done the same damage as that incurred by fleets of bombers, coming night after night with high explosives.

Yet, dreadful as the thought may be, we must not continue to think and talk of just one bomb. There is no reason why fleets of hundreds of planes could not be sent with atomic bombs to obliterate completely an area larger than Massachusetts in a single hour. Combined with the long range rocket which the Germans used toward the end of the war to bomb London, its destructive possibilities are terrifying. It means that we all must work harder in the fight to win permanent peace than we have in our effort to win the war.

Terrible as the thought may be, if we are to have another war, it must come soon or a large portion of civilization faces obliteration. More powerful atomic bombs are being built. Longer range rockets and better radio control, coupled with the bomb, will form the principal weapons of a future war. We must not be afraid to state the issues clearly — we must recognize that the longer the time allowed for development of these weapons, the less chance civilization has for survival of another conflict. We must recognize that with all the implications it provides.

If we fail to win peace, there are but two alternatives, the United States must start the next war or perish. Preparedness is our life insurance. This, we grant, is but a temporary measure necessitated by the times — internationalization and social equality for all is the final goal. This is the only true means for lasting peace. The work and thought of every man, woman, and child must be redirected toward peace. Our social scientists' work is now more important than that of our physical scientists. With hard work, peace in our time, for all time, will be realized. The people as individuals never have wanted war — let the masses speak and exert their influence toward peace.
