In 1940 I was studying to be a Civil Engineer at Ohio State University. In 1941 I was inducted, spent a good deal of time "paddling a saddle" in the Horse Cavalry, and then became an Aviation Cadet. After receiving my wings, I was assigned to the Air Transport Command, winding up my activities flying the "Hump."

Two days before V-J Day, I received a cablegram telling me of my father's death. Dad had been a New England Mutual policyholder so, shortly after returning home, I was introduced to the Company's representative in Youngstown, Harley Kirkpatrick. I soon realized that Mr. Kirkpatrick had been of invaluable service to my father and to the whole family. When he learned that I wanted to go into business for myself, he suggested life insurance, and arranged an interview with the General Agent in Cleveland, and with the Home Office in Boston.

Investigation convinced me that as an Agent for New England Mutual I would basically be in business for myself--with no real ceiling on my earnings, and complete independence of action. With everything to gain and nothing to lose, I took the Company's aptitude test, and qualified.

To date, I have completed a thorough training course in the Home Office in Boston; I have attended two Company conventions; I have my own office, and I have placed a half million dollars of insurance on the lives of people in my community. Each day I discover new uses for life insurance and realize that there's no limit to the amount that will be bought in the future.

I'm certainly glad I chose life insurance as a career. Besides the earning possibilities and the independence, it gives me the deep satisfaction of knowing that my services can be as valuable to my clients as were those of Mr. Kirkpatrick to my own family.

Graduates of our Home Office training courses, many of them new to the business, are selling at a rate which produces average first-year incomes of $3000. The total yearly income on such sales, with renewal commissions added, will average $5700. Facts such as these helped Bob Froom solve his career problem. For additional facts and figures, write: Mr. H. C. Chaney, Director of Agencies, New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, 501 Boylston Street, Boston 17, Mass.

The present program not only provides students with a curriculum which qualifies them for virtually all phases of teaching in the nursing field, but is also furnishing specialized training in particular areas including pediatrics, surgery, orthopedics, and infant care.

With the financial aid of the Kellogg foundation and others interested in nursing education as well as the active cooperation of several of Boston’s leading hospitals, the School of Nursing now offers a program unique in its field. The basic professional program offers a four-and-a-half-year course leading to the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree. Part of this time is spent in hospital training and the balance in classroom and laboratory activity at the School of Nursing and the affiliating hospitals.

Responsible in the largest measure for the general excellence and progress of the School of Nursing program is Dean Martha Ruth Smith whose expert guidance did much to overcome the numberless difficulties which beset any new organization. Dean Smith has been most ably assisted by an excellent faculty of vigorous educators.

Companion in progress to the work of the School itself is the newly organized School of Nursing Alumni Association. Officers have been elected, a new constitution established, and the group has already sponsored several important social and educational functions. We predict that this alumni organization will be one of the most active groups affiliated with the University Alumni Association.

In saluting the School of Nursing, we recognize the contributions already being made by its graduates to their very important profession. We welcome these alumnae, and, as we understand, one or two alumni, to our alumni body feeling certain that they will join with us wholeheartedly in service to Boston University.

Our Cover

The "small fry" featured on the cover of Bostonia this month are a few of the children who daily attend the Ruggles Street Settlement House in Boston, one of the many institutions now affiliated with the School of Nursing. Shown guiding the children down the slide is Miss Margaret Phillips, student in the advanced pediatric nursing program at the School.

Settlement house work is only part of the comprehensive training available to students at the School of Nursing. On pages 4 through 7 of this issue alumni may read a detailed report of but one phase of the nursing program, pediatric nursing. The editors hope to present other interesting aspects of nurses' training in future issues.

Special attention should be paid by our readers to the excellent map of Alumni Day events drawn by Miss Betty Brennan of the University Publicity Bureau on the back cover. Alumni Day this year will be an unusual event, and one which no alumnus will want to miss. Make your reservations early. The date is June 5th. Tickets may be obtained through the Alumni Office.

Boston University School of Nursing Offers Unique Program in Pediatric Nursing

RUTH WHITTAKER, A'46

Every day in hospitals throughout the country doctors and nurses view the pitiful cases of children struck down by the dreaded poliomyelitis, rheumatic fever, or the hundred and one other diseases which take their toll among our very young citizens.

In pain, frightened by their unfamiliar environment, and uncertain as to what is in store for them, their period in the hospital can easily become a terrifying experience for these youngsters and one which can affect the emotional pattern of their entire life. Parents frequently do not alleviate this situation, for with the basic protective instinct common to all, they endeavor to shield their children from the difficulties in store for them by misrepresenting the hospital and its functions.

Doctors and nurses have recognized this situation, and at the Boston University School of Nursing an advanced program in pediatric nursing has been developed one aim of which is to establish a friendly, understanding relationship between parents and nurses, as well as between children and nurses, by giving to the nurse a more complete comprehension of the emotional, mental, and social background of her young charge.

Although the pediatric nursing program is concerned with all phases of child care including the orthopedic, psychiatric, and infant care, the School of Nursing considers each area important enough to conduct a special advanced program covering each field.

Candidates for the advanced pediatric program are selected carefully from the ranks of experienced graduate nurses. These nurses who are admitted to the clinical program must have a year's experience and must evidence a definite aptitude for child care. If the student is planning to work for the Boston University degree in nursing education, she must have two years' experience in child care, one of which has given her opportunity to demonstrate her ability for leadership and teaching.

The pediatric program, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Hall, Assistant Professor of Nursing of the Boston University School of Nursing, has been functioning for four years. Graduates who have completed the course are now serving as supervisors in pediatric hospitals, in teaching positions, as consultants in public health nursing, and as head nurses. By July tenth of this year, sixty students will have completed this program.

There are thirty-two students taking part in the clinical program in pediatric nursing. Entering in September, these young women began their course of study with a heavy program of theoretical courses. A qualified pediatrician was brought in to discuss with them child growth and development at different age levels. Seminars on the advanced, clinical pediatric nursing level were held weekly in connection with the lecture courses given by doctors specializing in particular areas of child care. In this way the students learned of the newer developments of medical and surgical treatment of children.

Realizing that the capable nurse of today must be concerned with all phases of her patient's background as well as health, the student was given the opportunity to discuss the problems of adjustment in the home and family in a course on the social and educational aspects of child health. Special lecturers were invited to the School of Nursing to discuss developments in their particular areas of child care. Problems of adoption, foster home care and placement, juvenile delinquency, nursery school programs, settlement house programs, and school nursing were all brought to the attention of the students.

In conjunction with their classroom work the students were given sixteen hours of field work weekly in the care of the sick child at Children's Hospital in Boston and of the well child in nursery schools and settlement houses. Experience in convalescent care was gained in institutions around Boston such as the Wellesley Home for Convalescent Children and the House of the Good Samaritan. Realizing that the problems of caring for the convalescent child in the home will differ considerably from the problems of hospital care, field trips were made to homes through the Visiting Nurses Association of Boston.

To illustrate the differences which exist between care of the normal child suffering from a malady and care of the crippled or handicapped child, the students were taken on field trips to the Perkins Institute for the Blind, the Horace Mann School for the Deaf, and the Canton School for Crippled Children.

To understand more thoroughly the child as an individual, students were given the opportunity to see how religion fits into the child's life and how it affects the pattern of his emotional and mental development. Plans were made to attend Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant Sunday schools, and a symposium between a minister, priest, and rabbi was held to discuss the religious aspects of child care.

Reviewing their experiences at luncheon meetings weekly was an important adjunct to the students' field work program. In their second semester classroom work covered the fields of adolescent psychology, child psychology, nutrition, and other courses selected on the basis of the students' needs. All programs were made up individually in relation to the student's past experience and future professional objective.

The student group seems to fall into several categories: the public health nurse, the teaching and supervising nurse, the head nurse, and bedside nurse. Miss Hall attempts to integrate the two programs so that the groups will be brought together to appreciate their common interests and see more clearly their need for working together.

The pediatric program is extended into Intersession to provide internships for students particularly interested in, for example, rheumatic fever, or for those who wish further experience in the care of the sick child. At this time Boston University students are sent to Rhode Island to observe the State rheumatic fever program, or the Cardiac Clinic at the Massachusetts General Hospital, or the James Jackson Putnam Children's Center in Dorchester to observe and study emotionally disturbed children of pre-school years. Students interested in the teaching and supervisory program have a period of practice teaching at the Children's Hospital.

Who are some of the nursing alumni now holding important positions in the pediatric field? Dorothy C. Grant, Ed'46, is now Director of Nurses at the Boston Floating Hospital. Alma B. Rollins, Ed'46, is Assistant Director of the Division of Public Health Nursing in Texas. Eleanor P. Duffy, Nurs'47, serves as public health nurse consultant in pediatrics in New Jersey.

Mildred E. Heal, Nurs'47, directs the teaching program for the preparation of nursery maids at Wellesley Convalescent Home for Children. Marjorie Parson, Nurs'47, has charge of the supervision of foster home care of infants in a New Hampshire social agency. Mary E. Kirk, Ed'45, is teaching affiliating nurses at Children's Hospital. Gertrude L. Pentheny, Nurs'47, is clinical instructor of student nurses in pediatrics at Malden Hospital. Barbara Hadley, Ed'46, is clinical instructor in pediatrics at the Boston Floating Hospital.

Six head nurses now serving in various hospitals throughout this area are: Lucy A. Tela, Ed'46; Evelyn A. Alexi,
Ten are doing teaching and supervisory work in generalized pediatric units throughout Massachusetts and other parts of the country. They are: Sister Thomas Mary, Ed'45; Sister Marie William, Ed'45; Sister Inviolata, Ed'45; Sister Mary Amata, Ed'45; Sister Mary Tunnicliffe, Nurs'47; Margaret Hamburger, Ed'46; Olga M. DeMonaco, Nurs'47; Margaret Maguire, Ed'46; Helen L. Littler, Ed'45; Julianne Weaver, Ed'45; and Elizabeth C. Grogan, Nurs'47.

Another prominent alumna of the School of Nursing Pediatric Department is Miss Clara M. Wychunas, Nurs'47, who is assisting Miss Hall in the advanced program at the School. Miss Bess L. Killough, Nurs'47, is orthopedic consultant nurse for the Oklahoma Commission for Crippled Children.

And what have the graduates themselves to say about this unique type of pediatric nursing program? A survey taken by Miss Hall reveals that the alumnae feel that such a course gives them more self-confidence, makes it easier to talk with parents giving parents more confidence in them as nurses. The program has helped many to maintain better relations with pediatricians, social service workers, school teachers, occupational therapists, and others concerned with child care.

Many reported that the program equipped them with information which enabled each to have a better psychological approach to the care of children as individuals. The many field trips in which they engaged gave them the opportunity to recognize the field of pediatric nursing as one which crosses over into many areas of child care and development and that assistance may come from numberless organizations which have a contribution to make to wards better child care.

School of Nursing Dedication Banquet

Held on Second Anniversary of School

Miss Virginia M. Dunbar, Dean of the Cornell University — New York Hospital School of Nursing and Director of its Nursing Service, was the principal speaker at the School of Nursing Dedication Banquet, held April 30 at the Kenmore Hotel.

Speaking on the topic, “The Adventure of Thinking Together,” Miss Dunbar pointed out that the days of the supremacy of the Matron or Superintendent of Nurses have been a long time in changing over into the era of the faculty and staff of a School of Nursing, carrying responsibility together and thinking together. The experience of real co-operation and understanding gives a sense of being close to the people you are working with, she said, and of seeing people think.

Miss Dunbar recognized the large part played by language in communication, and by communication in co-operation.

“Successful communication,” she said, “means bringing out our best ideas side by side, yours and mine, and building new ideas together, with those whose work we supervise, with those who supervise our work, with those beside whom we work in any capacity.

“We are often clumsy in our attempts to think together,” she went on. “We are poor listeners. We kill each other’s ideas instead of receiving and digesting them, and perhaps there ought to be a law against it. Better still, there are universities which are after all, organizations for the Prevention of Cruelty to Ideas in Tender Stages.

“We are just beginning a period in which a faculty or a hospital nursing staff can experience thinking together, an experience that has the power to pull us up by invisible bootstraps. A taste of it is perhaps the greatest thing we can give to our students or to those with whom we work.”

Miss Dunbar was introduced by Miss Courtemanche, Master of Ceremonies at the dinner, who also introduced the other speakers. Mr. Frank Kimball gave the blessing, and President Daniel L. Marsh extended his greetings to the gathering.

Dean Martha Ruth Smith of the School of Nursing also spoke briefly, as did Miss Annie W. Goodrich, Dean Emeritus of the Yale School of Nursing.

Warren S. Freeman, Executive Alumni Secretary, has recently returned from a tour of the mid-west, where he attended several meetings of alumni groups, and he brings word of ever-increasing activity and interest in that area.

His first stop was New York City, where he was one of the speakers at a meeting of the Boston University School of Medicine Alumni Association of Greater New York at the New York Academy of Medicine on April 14. Dr. Saul Friedman of Port Chester presided, and the principal speaker was Dr. Chester S. Keefer, Wade Professor of Medicine at the School of Medicine, who discussed current medical research at Boston University. Dean Faulkner gave a report on the general progress of the Medical School, and Mr. Freeman told of other alumni activities. There were thirty-five doctors present.

Friday, April 16, found him in Chicago, where he was the principal speaker at a dinner meeting of the Boston University Club of Chicago attended by forty alumni from the area. Dean Walter Moberg of North Park College presided at the business meeting that preceded Mr. Freeman’s talk, entitled: “Boston University — A Report of Progress.”

Meetings of two alumni groups in Detroit on the following Monday called him to the automobile capitol. Mr. Freeman presided at a dinner meeting of Boston University alumni in attendance at the Music Educators’ National Conference there. Dean Kelley of the College of Cleveland on Thursday, April 22. Thirty-five alumni enjoyed a dinner and heard good tidings from Boston brought by Mr. Freeman. Reverend Frank M. Baker was the committee chairman.

Hartford

A meeting of Boston University alumni in the Hartford area was held on April 27 at the Hartford Y.M.C.A. Professor Norman Abbott, Director of the University Placement Service spoke on the problems and accomplishments of his organization, and Executive Alumni Secretary, Warren S. Freeman, gave a report on alumni activities.

The highlight of the evening was the showing of films on the B.U. — Harvard football game last fall, and refreshments were served. The speakers were introduced by Russell Lynch, President of the Boston University Club of Hartford.

Haverhill

“Reminiscences”, a talk by Professor John C. Scammell of the College of Business Administration, was presented by the Boston University Club of Haverhill on April 22 at the Y.W.C.A. in Haverhill.

A musical interlude was furnished by Joseph Azzarito on the electric guitar and Percy Holmes at the piano, and group singing to their accompaniment followed refreshments. Mr. Frank Gillis was on hand to represent the Alumni Office.

New Haven

The Boston University Club of New Haven met April 7 at the Whitney Secretarial School, to hear an interesting talk by a speaker from Equador. It was decided to hold an old-fashioned auction in June for the purpose of raising a fund for a scholarship.

Men's Luncheon Club

The "Monday Nooners" group of B.U. alumni in Boston, which gathers each week "to meet 'n eat", held its first luncheon on April 26 in its new location, the Shangri La at 130 Boylston Street.

For the first time since the inception of this garrulous and gustatory gathering, a private room was the locale of the festivities. Privacy had been lacking in previous meeting places, and it is felt that the set-up at Shangri La will be ideal for the meetings of this alumni body.

Dean Donald Durrell of the School of Education and Dr. John M. Harmon, Director of Athletics, shared the spotlight, with Dr. Harmon giving forth on football plans.

Fall River

A dinner meeting of the Fall River Alumni Club was held on May 24 at the Hotel Mellen in Fall River at 6:30 p.m. A short business meeting was held followed by the election of officers. (Names of the newly elected officers will be published in the next issue of BOSTONIA.) The committee in charge of the event included Mrs. Nicholas Bounakes, Chairman, Attorney William C. Crossley, Mrs. A. Lincoln Mekelburg, Mr. Roy Davenport, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson, Miss Adele Younis, Miss Mary E. Merritt, Mr. Stephen Chytilo, Mr. Raymond Hobson.

The speaker of the evening was Dean Judson Rae Butler of the Boston University General College. Dean Butler spoke on certain aspects of general education.

Worcester Women's Club

The annual meeting of the Boston University Women's Club of Worcester was held on Wednesday, May 19, at the Abner Wheeler House in Framingham, Massachusetts. Speakers of the evening were Professor William C. Kvaraceus, of the School of Education faculty and Alumni Secretary Warren S. Freeman. Hostesses for the evening were Miss Elizabeth V. Foster, Miss Mary E. V. Shea, and Miss Virginia MacFarland. The officers for the 1947-1948 season were: Margaret C. Callahan, president; Mrs. Walter F. Beth, first vice-president; Estelle M. Harrathy, second vice-president; Margaret T. Broderick, recording secretary; Eleanor M. Murray, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Eleanor M. Abbott, treasurer; Mrs. John F. O'Connor, auditor; Jane E. Mahoney, program chairman.

PUBLIC RELATIONS MEETING

School of Law Alumni Dinner
Held on April 17

Many distinguished alumni present to celebrate 75th anniversary of the School.

Celebrating the 75th anniversary of the School, the annual reunion dinner of the Boston University Law School Alumni Association was held at the Hotel Statler, Boston, on Saturday, April 17. Distinguished guests and speakers included Governor Robert F. Bradford, President Daniel L. Marsh, Judge Olin M. Jeffords, Dean Elwood H. Hettrick, and Attorney David Stoneman, representing the fifty-year class.

The Honorable Edward C. Stone, Vice Chairman of the Boston University Trustees and Massachusetts State Senator, was toastmaster for the evening, and introduced the speakers.

Governor Bradford cited the excellent work being done by the Law School and by its alumni, and acknowledged again the honor that had been conferred upon him by Boston University in the form of its honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in 1947. A part of the influence of the School, he said, can be judged by the fact that seven of the eight district attorneys in Massachusetts today are its alumni.

Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, President of the University, extended his greetings to the alumni and guests, and spoke briefly about the progress of the University and some of its plans for the future. In this latter connection, an architect's model of the proposed Charles River Campus was on display at the dinner.

Olin M. Jeffords, Associate Justice of the Vermont Supreme Court, gave a very interesting talk based upon his many experiences on the bench.

Elwood H. Hettrick, Dean of the Law School, discussed the problems that the increased enrollment in the (Continued on Page Twelve)

School presents to the administration and faculty and pointed out the large number of successful applicants for admission to the Massachusetts and other Bars who were Boston University graduates and the high percentage of B. U. graduates who were successful.

Speaking for his classmates, David Stoneman of the Class of 1898 and prominent Boston attorney, spoke of the School as he had known it fifty years ago, and of the debt of gratitude that he and his classmates owe the School.

Attorney Edward M. Dangel, President of the Boston University Law School Association, was in charge of arrangements for the reunion dinner, assisted by Attorney Leo E. Sherry, Treasurer of the Association. Other officers for the current year are Alexander Welch and Edward Flynn, Vice-Presidents, and Fred Johnson, Secretary.

New officers for the 1948-49 season will be elected and other business of the Association will be conducted at the annual Law School Outing, to be held this year on June 24, 25, 26 at the Hotel Preston in Swampscott.

EDWARD ROCHIE HARDY, CLA’96, was guest of honor at a dinner sponsored as a tribute by the Insurance Institute of America on his retirement as active Secretary and Treasurer from that organization on February 1. Mr. Hardy, one of the most prominent and highly respected insurance executives in America, automatically became Secretary Emeritus of the Institute.

The dinner was held on March 1 at the Drug and Chemical Club in New York City. Speakers included James A. McLain, President of the Institute, and William D. Winter, Chairman of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company. At the close of the ceremony, President McLain presented Mr. Hardy with a book containing a resolution adopted by the Board of Governors as “a formal acknowledgement of the debt which insurance owes to one who for fifty years has labored to advance its cause in the field of education.”

Starting his insurance career at the end of the last century as Librarian at the Boston Insurance Library, Mr. Hardy was quick to perceive the lack of educational facilities in his newly-chosen field. The progress made in insurance education during the past fifty years and the resulting benefits to thousands of students and to insurance as a whole may be accredited in a large measure to his efforts.

For thirty-four years, he lectured on insurance at New York University and, on his retirement in 1939, was awarded the honorary title of Lecturer Emeritus. He served as Secretary of the Insurance Society of New York for thirty-seven years and today is Secretary Emeritus of that Society.

In 1909, while Secretary of the Insurance Society of New York, he was one of a small group who met in Philadelphia and organized the Insurance Institute of America. He became Secretary of the Institute in 1919 and, for the past twenty-nine years, at times almost single-handedly, has carried on the work of the organization.

He is well known abroad and holds the title of Honorary Fellow of the Chartered Insurance Institute of Great Britain.

Meeting Held in Honor of Professor Augustus Howe Buck

A meeting in honor of Professor Augustus Howe Buck was held in the Claflin Room of the College of Liberal Arts building on the afternoon of April 9th. There were about 50 persons present including many past and present beneficiaires of the Professor Augustus Howe Buck Educational Fund.

Among the past beneficiaires there were five members of the College Faculty, viz: J. Philip Mason, Professor of Chemistry and Chairman of the Fund Committee; Albert Morris, Professor of Sociology; Ralph N. Johanson, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; Dr. Arthur J. Watzinger of the German Department; and Elmer W. Salenius of the English Department.

Among those present were Dr. Newell S. Booth, Bishop of the Methodist Church for Africa; Dr. Nels F. S. Ferré, Abbot Professor of Christian Theology at Andover-Newton Theological School; Roger P. Bristol and Elmore D. Lundgren, teachers in Greater Boston High Schools; Drs. Frank L. Pizzuto and Bernard C. Graves, members of the New England Conference of the Methodist Church; and Francis Maria, Director of Industrial Relations for a large manufacturing company.

Professor Morris was in charge of the program for the meeting. He introduced Dean Ralph W. Taylor who extended greetings of the College. Professor Bruce, who was chairman of the Fund Committee for the first thirty years of its existence, read parts of the chapter about Professor Buck from a book he is preparing under the auspices of the Fund covering the record of its first thirty years. Dr. Watzinger and Professor Johanson then played two piano duets, “Charge of the Uhlans” by Bohm and “Spanish Dance, No. 1” by Moszkowski, to an appreciative audience. Greetings were then brought from past beneficiaires by Drs. Ferré and Booth, and from the present beneficiaires by Arnold Hanson who has recently completed a period of study and travel in South America on a scholarship awarded him by the Boston Globe.

As the final speaker Professor Morris introduced President Marsh who told of his own contacts with the donor of the Fund, and of the latter’s deep life interest in its success in educating young men of “unusual promise”, “insufficient means”, and “positive Christian character” for a life of service to humanity.

BOSTONIA
LARGE TURN-OUT FOR THEOLOGY REUNION

With an attendance of approximately 400 alumni, the School of Theology Alumni Association held a reunion at the Hayden Memorial Auditorium on the evening of May 3 at 6:00 p.m. The large attendance was made possible because the meeting was held during the General Conference of the Methodist Church which was then in session in Boston.

School of Theology graduates from all parts of the world heard brief reports of the School’s progress from Dean Walter G. Muelder, Professor Stanley Martin, Director of the School of Theology Crusade Challenge Fund Campaign, right, and from J. Richard Sneed, National Chairman of the Crusade Challenge Campaign.

The main speaker of the evening was President Daniel L. Marsh who gave a report of the growth of the University with particular emphasis on the School of Theology. Alumni Secretary Warren S. Freeman presided. Special guests included seven bishops of the Church and all delegates to the convention who were graduates of the School of Theology.
P.A.L. ALUMNA MARRIES
EX-GERMAN ARMY CORPORAL

Barbara Frances Drake, who received her diploma in Applied Art at the College of Practical Arts and Letters in 1938, is back from overseas duty with the American Red Cross and has brought a husband with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Freund are now living at 2—Weybridge Lane, Brookline, but their story begins in August, 1945, in Diss, England, where Barbara was serving with the Red Cross and Helmut, a former corporal in the German Army, was a prisoner of war.

Before joining the Red Cross, Miss Drake had studied at the Museum School of Fine Arts and at Andover-Newton Theological Seminary, and served as Director of Religious Education in churches in Concord, New Hampshire, and New Bedford. She received special training at the American University in Washington, D. C., before going overseas in July, 1944.

Her first stop abroad was Grenchester, England, where she served as Director of Recreation at United States Field Hospital 111. In May, 1945, she was transferred to Diss, England, where she was later to meet her husband. As Director of Recreation at the 65th General Hospital in Diss, Barbara was mainly occupied with craft work, teaching arts, and the use of plastics and wood to the patients.

In August, Helmut Freund, then a prisoner of war, was assigned to help her in her work at the hospital. Helmut, born in Frankfurt-am-Main in 1921, had served as an apprentice and sales clerk in a paint concern before being drafted into the German Army in September, 1939. He was a corporal at the time of his capture in the spring of 1945.

In August, Helmut Freund, then a prisoner of war, was assigned to help her in her work at the hospital. Helmut, born in Frankfurt-am-Main in 1921, had served as an apprentice and sales clerk in a paint concern before being drafted into the German Army in September, 1939. He was a corporal at the time of his capture in the spring of 1945.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Freund are now living at 2—Weybridge Lane, Brookline, but their story begins in August, 1945, in Diss, England, where Barbara was serving with the Red Cross and Helmut, a former corporal in the German Army, was a prisoner of war.

Before joining the Red Cross, Miss Drake had studied at the Museum School of Fine Arts and at Andover-Newton Theological Seminary, and served as Director of Religious Education in churches in Concord, New Hampshire, and New Bedford. She received special training at the American University in Washington, D. C., before going overseas in July, 1944.

Her first stop abroad was Grenchester, England, where she served as Director of Recreation at United States Field Hospital 111. In May, 1945, she was transferred to Diss, England, where she was later to meet her husband. As Director of Recreation at the 65th General Hospital in Diss, Barbara was mainly occupied with craft work, teaching arts, and the use of plastics and wood to the patients.

In August, Helmut Freund, then a prisoner of war, was assigned to help her in her work at the hospital. Helmut, born in Frankfurt-am-Main in 1921, had served as an apprentice and sales clerk in a paint concern before being drafted into the German Army in September, 1939. He was a corporal at the time of his capture in the spring of 1945.

Passport and visa regulations presented problems, but these did not prove insurmountable, and Mr. and Mrs. Freund arrived at LaGuardia Field, New York, on the morning of May 1. That evening, they were at the home of Barbara’s parents, the Reverend and Mrs. Paul Drake, in Newton Lower Falls.

Even the housing problem seems to have been insignificant, for the young couple were in an apartment of their own near Brookline Village four days later.

Two Alumni Win Accounting Honors

PHILIP BRIER, ECC‘47, of Roxbury, was presented with a gold medal by the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants, Inc., as the candidate receiving highest marks in the C.P.A. examinations held last November. A silver medal was presented to EDWARD GREENSPAN, CBA‘47, of Holyoke, who placed second to Brier.

Both men are married veterans. Both passed every subject in the examination the first time they took it.

The awards were made by FRANCIS E. MOORE, CBA’23, Chairman of the Society’s Committee on Education and member of the CBA Faculty, at a dinner in the Parker House Roof Ballroom on March 29.

Mr. John L. Carey, who is Secretary of the American Institute of Accountants and Managing Editor of the Journal of Accountancy, spoke to the 225 persons present on the topic, "Objectives of the Accounting Profession." He advanced the fair presentation of income to determine fairness of prices and measurement of the efficiency of management. Mr. Carey also urged the "obvious need for financial reports that will be generally accepted as credible, not only in the sense that assets listed really exist, but in the sense that there has been full disclosure of income.”
UNUSUAL ARCHEOLOGICAL EXHIBITION OF SOUTHWESTERN INDIAN MATERIALS ON DISPLAY AT C.L.A.

Dr. Leland C. Wyman examines Pueblo material.

Many alumni who returned to the University for the Founders' Day Institute and the Epsilon Reunion found a fascinating collection of Pueblo archeological material on display in the Sociology Seminar Room in the new College of Liberal Arts Building. This exhibit was lent to the University by Dr. Leland C. Wyman, Associate Professor of Biology.

Dr. Wyman has done intensive research into the life and customs of the Navajo Indians, and has been given a grant of $1,000 from the Viking Fund, Incorporated, of New York City to support further research on the ethnoentomology of the Navajos this summer.

The Wyman Collection of Southwestern Indian materials includes one of the oldest pieces of Navajo textile in existence, estimated to be about a century and a half old, and the complete Singer's (Navajo Medicine Man's) equipment for performing the Navajo Wind Chant. This equipment is the only complete set now in private hands, and one of only four or five known to exist outside of the Navajo reservation.

Dr. Wyman intends to continue his studies in ethnoentomology which he began before the war among the Navajos of New Mexico and Arizona. He plans to live in a Navajo family household as a guest, and to take an active part in Navajo life.

His studies will include the collection and identification of insects, the collection of Navajo names for insects and the analysis and systematizing of their native classification (if any exists), and the collection of data on Navajo ideas concerning insects, — their place in Navajo economy, mythology, and folklore.

In 1941, as a result of his earlier research and with the assistance of Dr. Stuart K. Harris, also of the College of Liberal Arts biology faculty, Dr. Wyman published a paper on the ethnobotany involved in the Navajo medical practice.

During the summers of 1940, 1941, and 1942, Dr. Wyman was associated with the summer session of the University of New Mexico, being in charge of a research course in Navajo ethnography. At this time, he lived with a Navajo family for an entire month in order to observe every-day Navajo life.

Also included in Dr. Wyman's fascinating collection are six water-color reproductions he made of Navajo sand paintings and ancient Pueblo archeological material.

Terrier Festival — University Student Activities Week

The answer to a college student's dream.

A week so crammed with extra-curricular activities that the Deans decreed a ban on quizzes during the period. This is the Terrier Festival, inaugurated this month to be an annual affair in the future.

In response to the demands of the student body for more University-wide social activities, a Student Activities Week was set aside. Events of interest to students in all departments of the University were planned for every evening of the week of May 3, the co-operation of the administrative officers of the University was obtained, ticket books were printed up, and all that remained was to find an appropriate name for the occasion.

A prize of $25 was offered for a name that would catch the spirit and significance of the affair in a contest that was open to all students. Donald Noyes, a sophomore at the College of Business Administration, coined the phrase "Terrier Festival," and carried off the prize.

The next requirement was a personality to reign over the festivities. In another contest June Ericson of the School of Education was chosen Queen of the Terrier Festival and was surrounded by a bevy of six fair princesses representing various other departments of the University.

The largest concentration of activities in a single week in the University's history, the Festival presented three dances, two dramatic productions, open house dances at all fraternity houses, and a special program honoring the "American Musician of the Year."

Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, Conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1924, was selected by the student committee to receive a citation by the students of Boston University as the American Musician of the Year. Dr. Koussevitzky has announced his retirement at the close of the 1948-49 symphony season.

It is intended that the Terrier Festival will honor a prominent American each year, men whose careers seem to represent one or another of the departments of the University. The Musician of the Year citation was made, appropriately enough, as a part of the Wednesday evening program presented by students at the College of Music.
The Festival got off to a fast start on Monday evening, May 3, with a "Talent Night Dance" at Hayden Memorial Hall. Strictly informal and mainly a stag affair, admission was open only to holders of book tickets to all the activities. Eight hundred strip tickets were printed, and these were all sold out more than a week in advance. Students from several departments of the University participated in the "talent show" which was the main attraction of the evening. Dancing was held to the music of Joe Azzarito and his band.

On Tuesday evening, the University Dramatic Club, coached by Assistant Professor Robert M. Campbell, presented "The Male Animal" in the same hall to a full house. Consisting of what were formerly four separate groups of student thespians, the Dramatic Club draws on talent from all departments of the University.

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs joined forces with other talent from the College of Music on Wednesday in a production they called "Musical Americana." Tickets for this program and for "The Male Animal" were available separately as well as being included in the strip for the week.

"The C.P.E.S. Revue," featuring the baton twirling of Miss Priscilla Cooke and a special dance program presenting modern rhythms under the direction of Associate Professor Dorothy Koch, highlighted Thursday night's entertainment.

The only event not included in the strip ticket was the Senior Prom on Friday evening. Dancing to the music of Tommy Reynolds and his orchestra was from 9 to 1 in the Main Ballroom of the Copley Plaza, and formal dress was in order. Senior Week, never very deeply entrenched in B.U. tradition, gave way this year to the Terrier Festival, and the Prom was the only event devoted only to seniors.

On Saturday afternoon the "Charlesgate Tea Dance" at Charlesgate Hall, new women's dormitory, offered more informal dancing to Joe Azzarito's music. In the evening, all fraternity houses were thrown open for inspection, gaily decked out for the occasion, and hospitality extended included music and space for still more dancing. Fancy costumes were the order of the day, and prizes for originality were offered by the Intrafraternity Council.

The Terrier Festival was jointly sponsored by the University Senates of the four classes, the Interfraternity Council, the B.U. News, Panhellenic, and the Student Council.

Faculty Profile

Gretchen Schuyler

Gretchen Schuyler, Assistant Professor of Physical Education at the College of Physical Education for Women, Sargent, believes that active participation in community athletics and other organizations is fully as important as fulfilling the duties of teaching physical education, and she not only stresses this point in her teaching, but practices it as well.

Advisor of the Sargent Athletic Association which is in general charge of the intramural sports program at the College of Physical Education for Women, Miss Schuyler is supervisor of the sports specialization and chairman of the camp curriculum committee. In the larger community, she is a member and president of the Boston Women's Lacrosse Association, treasurer of the Boston Board of Women's Officials, and a member of the Boston Field Hockey Association.

In the work of the national professional organization, she is most active being currently the Eastern District Chairman of the National Section on Women's Athletics of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation of which she is a life member. Her findings on Lacrosse as a sport for women were published in the December, 1947 issue of the Journal of Health and Physical Education, the official organ of the National Association.

A graduate of Sargent in 1931 with a three-year diploma, Miss Schuyler earned her B.S. in Ed. at the School of Education the following year. The next four years she served as head of the department of physical education at the Cathedral School of St. Mary, Garden City, New York. Then followed seven years at the Chapin School, New York City, where she taught physical education, becoming head of the department in her last year there.

While at the Chapin School, she studied at Columbia University Teachers' College, taking her M.A. in 1940. The most colorful part of her career began in 1943, when she became associated with the American Red Cross, a service in which she spent the next three years.

The first part of her overseas duty with the Red Cross was spent in England, but her biggest job came when she was assigned as captain of Clubmobile Group "P," assigned to the Eighth Corps of the Third Army. Following the troops wherever they went, the Clubmobile group served in Belgium, France, Luxembourg and Germany, dispensing good cheer in the form of coffee and donuts, newspapers, candy, and music via records.

Her group was with the Third Army at the famous Battle of the Bulge, and she was awarded the Army Bronze Star medal for her work at Bastogne, Belgium, during the German breakthrough in December, 1944.

Miss Schuyler came to Boston University in 1945, and has carried a full teaching schedule since that time. During the regular school year, she is a member of the College Curriculum Committee at Sargent, and teaches courses in the conducting of competitive sports and basketball officiating, as well as holding forth on the basketball court giving the fundamentals and fine points of the game to beginners and advanced students.

She emphasizes the player's point of view primarily, teaching her students how to play the game as a prerequisite for their teaching it. She tries to teach her students

SPORTS SEASON DRAWS TO A CLOSE

Boston University Crew Advances In Inter-Collegiate Standing

With a decisive victory over American International College by both varsity and junior varsity, a photo finish loss by the varsity, and victories by the freshman and junior varsity against Rollins College under their belts, the Boston University crew pulled out in front of Dartmouth on May 1 and crossed the finish line an easy victor. Dartmouth had the heaviest crew in its history, all experienced men, and also expected victory.

In the opening crew meet of the season on April 17, both B.U. shells got off to a good start in the choppy water of the Charles, taking a lead over A.I.C. right at the beginning and widening the margin all the way to the finish line, when they were both a good fifteen lengths ahead of their opponents.

The varsity crew having a commanding lead all the way, never stepped the stroke up above 28 on the entire one and five-sixteenths mile Henley course. The varsity coxswain was Warren Young and Captain Herb Mowatt was in the stroke position.

The varsity crew labored under a slight handicap, however. Captain Rudy Weeks, in the number 2 position, broke his oar on the tenth stroke, and at the same moment, the wind snapped off the rudder. But Coxswain Harold Hanover was able to steer by the oars, and they seemed hardly to notice the casualty. Thirty strokes a minute were kept up until near the finish line, when the tempo was speeded up to 32.

The varsity crew having a commanding lead all the way, never stepped the stroke up above 28 on the entire one and five-sixteenths mile Henley course. The varsity coxswain was Warren Young and Captain Herb Mowatt was in the stroke position.

Freshman, varsity, and J-V crews left Boston on March 18 for Winter Park, Florida for a special race with Rollins College on the 26th. It was a nip-and-tuck affair, with Rollins leading the B.U. varsity by one-quarter length at the half-way mark. The Terriers then took up the slack, and the two shells continued stroke for stroke to the finish. The decision was given to the southern crew, but the spectators had to wait for the judges’ decision before they knew which shell had actually crossed the line first.

The freshman and junior varsity crews won by about two lengths, but these races had been close most of the way, too. The J-V shells got off to two false starts, both colleges catching crabs on the first few strokes, but the third attempt saw B.U. and Rollins both on their way smoothly. All three Boston crews were adversely affected by the heat and returned well sunburned.

BASEBALL

The 1948 baseball picture looks very good at this early-season appraisal. The Terrier nine is enjoying one of the best seasons in history, and Coach Mel Collard expects them to improve on last year’s excellent showing of 14 wins and 6 losses.

The Terriers made a bad start on the cold day of April 17, losing 7 to 6 to Harvard. The Crimson nine had just returned from three weeks of ball playing in the South, but it was the Terriers’ first game of the season.

Trailing 6 to 4 going into the ninth, B.U. tied the score at 6-6. But Evie Dorr (remember his points-after last fall?) walked four men in the second half of that inning, accounting for our only loss to date.

George Boston (also of football fame) was the stand-out in the Tech game on April 21, slugging out the first Terrier homer of the season. Boston is considered the best all-around ball player on the team, being a heavy hitter and a good fielder in his spot in center field.

Final score: B.U., 9; M.I.T., 2.

Dick Snow, the only pitcher to go the distance so far, shut out Devens on April 22, while his team mates piled up ten runs. Part of his success may have been due to Billy Gibson behind the plate.
Billy is one of the best catchers in college today, and knows the game inside out.

The Colby game on April 24 was a slug-fest, the visitors crossing home plate 15 times and the Terriers coming in for 17 runs. Billy Tighe saved the day in this game, tearing off his football togs in time to stop a 6-run rally in the ninth. One of the Terriers best pitchers last year, he had been at Spring football practice that Saturday.

FOOTBALL

Head Coach of Football Aldo “Buff” Donelli is quite pleased with Spring training this year. Faced with a tougher football schedule next Fall than last, when they won five and lost three, the Terrier squad looks better than ever.

Two newcomers to the Varsity eleven will be contending for places in the starting line next fall. Guard Lou Salvati and End Gorge Sulima, rated as the most improved of last fall’s crack-erjack freshman eleven, will give strength where it is sorely needed.

Both of last fall’s freshman stand-outs in the backfield, Bob Whelan and Bob Boucher, half-backs, have come a long way and will be around when needed next fall. The only member of last year’s varsity squad who will not be here is Captain Don Giles. It is hoped that by combining last year’s teams, both of which were good but lacking in replacements, we will have a Terrier line-up to be really proud of.

And we will need it. The opener is against Muhlenberg, with nine wins and one loss last season. That loss was to Temple, which is also on our schedule. The University of Iowa, the final game on the schedule, is Big Ten, and Syracuse, returning to the B.U. schedule after one year’s lapse, has defeated the Terriers the three previous times they have met on the grid. Also on the schedule are Scranton, Colgate, New York University, and Fordham, the last three of which are holdovers from last season. Colgate will be out for revenge, having lost last fall in the final minutes of play by one touchdown.

1948 FUND DRIVE IS OFF TO FINE START

A surprise donation of $500 was presented to President Daniel Marsh at the Senior Prom on May 7 on behalf of the Senior Senate to start the ball rolling on the 1948 Alumni Fund toward a proposed million-dollar Student Union Building on the New Campus.

This student contribution serves to indicate the enthusiasm with which the 1948 project has been received in all quarters. Meetings of Alumni Class Agents have shown that the same spirit extends down through all the classes, as the need for a central gathering place for students at Boston University has been felt for a long time.

In lieu of one big “kick-off dinner” usually tendered to the Class Agents, a new plan of smaller meetings along departmental lines has been in effect this year. It has been found that the individual tends to feel swallowed up by the size of a large gathering and hesitates to make his views and problems heard at a meeting of 400 persons.

The first departmental meeting was held on May 4, when the class agents of the College of Business Administration met for an informal dinner at the Student Commons. Mr. Warren S. Freeman, Director of the Alumni Fund, gave a detailed account of Alumni activities and announced the plans for the 1948 Fund Drive.

Professor Philip E. Bunker was appointed Departmental chairman for CBA, and Mr. Nicholas E. Apalakis was chosen CBA Vice-Chairman. The Class Agents for all graduating classes will report to the Departmental Vice-Chairman and will direct the activities of Fund Representatives. Fund Representatives are chosen to contact perhaps a dozen classmates each, providing greater personal coverage and a division of labor.

Class Agents representing College of Liberal Arts Classes from 1895 to 1947 met at the Commons on May 6. Mrs. Kenneth R. Parsons was chosen CLA Chairman, and Mrs. Kenneth N. Wildes, Vice-Chairman.

Law School Class Agents met on May 13. Judge Sadie L. Schulman (Mrs. Charles Shulman) was chosen Chairman for the Law School Fund Roll Call, and Attorney John J. Cronin, Vice-Chairman.

Law School Class Agents met on May 13. Judge Sadie L. Schulman (Mrs. Charles Shulman) was chosen Chairman for the Law School Fund Roll Call, and Attorney John J. Cronin, Vice-Chairman.

Attorney Edward M. Dangel has been appointed General Chairman of the 1948 Alumni Fund Roll Call Committee, and will coordinate the activities of the Departmental groups. Mr. Dangel presided at all meetings.

An Appreciation

LENA BLANCHE Pool of the Class of 1897 was our companion and friend during the first three years of our college life at Boston University. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. During the last year she became a real leader with the qualities of understanding, unselfish, and intelligent devotion.

During the first years of her teaching at Lynn English High School, she accumulated such a knowledge and understanding of boys and girls of high school age that she was sure her real work lay with them. She was appointed head of the Secretarial Department of the Lynn English High School in 1922. She continued her studies at Harvard School of Education, receiving the degree of Ed.M. in 1930.

Her unselfish devotion to her work with her boys and girls and her masterly handling of her subject made her, in her quiet, modest way, a real power in the efficient management of her department and in shaping the desires and ambitions of her pupils.

The members of her class who have kept in close touch with her during the past fifty years have rejoiced increasingly in her friendship, her generous and gracious sharing of her beautiful old home in Rockport, where she spent her summers.

Her alert, keen interest in art, music, the everyday affairs of the city, state, and nation, kept her vision true and kindled in her friends a desire to know and appreciate them as she did.

Although she has passed on, her loyalty to Boston University, her work with young people, and to her friends makes her a person of character, admired and loved by all.

Class Report

Nine members of the Class of 1897 and a "proxy" for Mr. Guy Richardson were among the alumni who attended the opening of the new College of Liberal Arts building on Saturday, March 13, and attended the Epsilon reunion dinner that evening.

Those present were Mrs. Bertha Crocker Merrill, Mrs. Grace Griffis Pearlson, Miss Lena Glover, Miss Grace M. Snow, Mrs. Elizabeth MacIntyre Jewell, accompanied by her son, Professor William Jewell, Miss Esther Dodge, Mrs. Annie Hatch Chase, Miss Emma Riple, and Mrs. Viola MacLellan Day. Mr. Richardson's sister-in-law and her husband were there to represent him.

The Class of 1897 plans a reunion luncheon at the College Club on Alumni Day, June 5. Details will be announced later.

A loyal member of the class, Dr. Lucius Hathfield Bugbee, died in an automobile accident which occurred Sunday, February 22, at Bemus Point, New York, while on the way to church.

Dr. Bugbee, son of Lucius H. and Emily (Fisk) Bugbee was born in Glendale, Ohio, April 29, 1874. Early in life he knew that he must enter the ministry and could be satisfied only with adequate preparation.

He was a member of the Cohocton Editor and received his A.B. and S.T.B. from Boston University, his M.A. from Chicago University, S.T.D. from Syracuse University, and Grove City College honored him with a D.D.

Beginning his ministry in the Bemus Point Methodist-Episcopal Church in 1899, he attained a distinguished place in the pastorate and served many notable churches. In 1930 he was elected as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention to begin on May 14 at Concord, New Hampshire. He served in the Convention before, in 1930, 1 believe.

(O'Brien) Schindler, CLA, has been appointed to serve a four-year term as a member of the Massachusetts State Milk Control Board. Before her marriage to Robert Felix Schindler in 1920, Mrs. Schindler taught at Chelsea High School. Since that time, she has lived in Monponsett, Massachusetts, where she assists her husband in operating the Hotel Monponsett, a summer hotel.

In connection with her present appointment, Mrs. Schindler writes: "In my experience as an officer of the State Grange for twenty-two years, I have come in contact with rural people all over Massachusetts. This serves as an excellent background to help solve the difficulties and fulfill the duties of this important office." The Schindlers have a daughter who is to graduate from high school in June.

One of the most colorful Boston University Alumni Day programs will be held on the new Charles River Campus on Saturday, June 5.

The committee in charge of the event, under the energetic and capable leadership of Virginia Twining Tierney, PAL '36, has planned an extensive program. Various classes and departmental groups are cooperating with the general committee and have planned several events for individual classes and departmental groups.

The program will begin at noon with special class reunion luncheons and departmental meetings. At 3 p.m., the Boston University Band will give an informal concert. From 3 to 4 p.m., President and Mrs. Marsh will hold Open House at the President's Home. Throughout the afternoon all the buildings of the new campus, including the new College of Liberal Arts Building, Science Building, College of Business Administration, and the various research laboratories will hold Open House. During this period, alumni may inspect the buildings and observe the work going on in the various laboratories. Arrangements have also been made for excursion boats to take groups and individuals up and down the river.

At four o'clock, the Boston University Junior Varsity and Freshman Crews will face their rivals from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology across the river in an Alumni Day Crew Regatta.

At 5:30, under the direction of Colonel Vincent Coyne, Law '30, the annual Alumni Parade will be formed. Headed

He has been employed since 1941 in the Sales Department of the Toledo Scale Company.

GERALD J. DIAZ, Grad, drama critic for the New Bedford Standard-Times, recently sold three original plays, bringing to twenty the number of play sales to date. Mr. Diaz, English instructor at Fairhaven High School, has been writing plays for Mr. B. J. Remember Jack was in CBA '39? They live next door to MAL MURRAY and family (CBA '39) and have a B. U. reunion twice a week over the bridge table. Muriel took one year at Law School and then settled for the, as she says, "not spectacular" but happy job of housewife. Her husband is with the United Mutual Fire Insurance Company as Regional Underwriter of the Philadelphia office. The family which includes Bonnie Erica, age seven years, resides at 2615 McCarey Street, Chester, Pennsylvania. JOSEPH C. CALTIRI is another M.D. He lives at 351 Essex Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts.

MARGARET CONWAY is now Mrs. Leo F. Douglas and lives, as far as we know, at 183 Vernon Street, Wakefield, Massachusetts. After looking for two years, MARY J. CUNNINGHAM HOGAN (Mrs. W. E.) and her husband have found a place of their own. She says, "It's about twenty years old and just right for us." Mary would love to see or hear from you. Contact her at 14 Crescent Street, Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts. Mary taught French and Latin at the Weeks Junior High School, Newton Centre until February 1947. She has an eight-months-old daughter, Betty Anne.

JOHN F. CURRAN is a clerk (in what I don't know), and resides at 121 Butler Road, Quincy 69, Massachusetts. He married Agnes J. Brennan in Randolph, Massachusetts, on April 9, 1944.

WILLIAM J. EARLEY is a business librarian, being a member of the staff of the Kirkstein Foundation of the Boston Public Library. Since leaving the Graduate School in 1942, Bill has picked up certificates in meteorology from M.I.T. and from the University of Chicago's Institute in Tropical Meteorology at the University of Puerto Rico, and a degree in KYLLONEN. We do know he is a doctor kept very busy—keeping house and taking care of their son, James Henry, who is three. Louise attended Bryant & Stratton after she graduated from B. U. Med. in 1942 is HAROLD KARLIN. From May to the end of May, AI says she is kept busy these days caring for her little family: Frank Jr., four years old; Mary Alice, the latter, we do only A Cappella singing. Thus I am following up my work as a member of the B. U. Men’s Glee Club under Dr. Houghton."

Iving G. Leafer is very ambitious. He is a student in the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary working on two degrees, Master of Religious Education and Bachelor of Sacred Music, and preparing for a life work in these fields in churches as a lay worker. Besides this, he is working as Director of Music and Religious Education for a small Baptist Church, serving a ranching and farming section. True to his interest in singing, (remember Gilbert & Sullivan?), Iving is a member of the Southwestern Singers, "an organization similar to and patterned after the Choral Arts Society of H. Augustine Smith." Iving says, "Like the latter, we do only A Cappella singing. Thus I am following up my work as a member of the B. U. Men’s Glee Club under Dr. Houghton."

Iving was in the U. S. Army Air Forces three years. While stationed at Muskogee, Oklahoma, he met the girl who became his wife, Bonnie Lovell. They have a daughter, Gladys June, who was twelve hours old at the time he wrote. Their address now is Box 6269, Seminary Hill, Fort Worth 10, Texas.

It was wonderful to have Dr. J. Howard Lightfoot and his wife and Ann, now five years old, and Jean, now one year, pop in on me in Durham several months ago. Howard is a practicing physician in Contoocook, New Hampshire. MICHAEL A. LUONGO has an M.D. after his name, too. Last we knew he lived at 73 Gladstone Street, East Boston.

OLIVE L. BOCKS is now Mrs. Thomas L. McAlpine and resides on North Hoosac Road, Williamstown, Massachusetts.

Children of two College of Liberal Arts, Class of 1939, alumniae are: left, Judy Clarkson, four-and-a-half years, daughter of Winona Wildes Clarkson of Andover; right, Charles Hanchett, 4 years, son of Ruth Thompson Hanchett.

Mrs. Gardner Mattson is the former GRACE E. FINNEGAN. Grace’s address is 82 Washington Square, Salem, Massachusetts. MARION K. MACDONALD CASTAGNO (Mrs. R. A.) is a physician practicing Ophthalmology. She lives at 43 Sidney Place, Brooklyn 2, New York. I didn’t hear from John Medaglia, but the last I knew (a year ago), he was teaching at Haverhill High School. His address was 3 Reed Street, Haverhill.

We have at least one minister in the class Reverend Jack Mendelson, Jr., is the minister in the Church of the Christian Union, Unitarian, in Rockford, Illinois. His home address is 1611 North Court. Jack did three years of graduate study at Harvard University for his S.T.B. degree. He and his wife, Barbara Taft, have a three-year-old named Channing.

HOWARD K. MOORE is an instructor of English (giving courses in Advanced Composition, Romantic Poetry, Survey of English Literature, and Freshman Composition at Clark University in Worcester. He took his M.A. at B. U. and will be a candidate for his Ph.D. in 1949. He married Eleanor L. Davis in Lynn, in 1941. They have a daughter, Judith Ellen, sixteen months, and live at 14 Melville Street, Worcester.

Some of our classmates are located on the West Coast. Among these is BETSY MERROW RUSHING (Mrs. H. W.) who is busy with her husband while they are fixing up their house and grounds at Avalon Park, Mercer Island, Seattle, Washington. Bob Rushing works in the wind tunnel at Boeing’s, studying the effects of moving air. His knowledge of the “breezes” helped him and Betty win the title “Boat of the Year” for their Kuno at the Corinthian Yacht Club. Sailing and racing are their pet hobbies, but they find time for square dancing too.

ELIZE PAULSON is now Mrs. Delligrewe R. Nelson and resides at 297 Mansfield Street, Sharon, Massachusetts. OSWALDO A. NERO is an M.D. at the Syracuse Memorial Hospital, Syracuse, New York.

MELVILLE E. OSBORNE, Vice-Consul, can be reached C/o Mailing Division, Department of State, Washington, D. C.
I buried my father last year, at a meeting at which I was leading some recreation. They are still living in Nashua, New Hampshire, at 24 Scripture Street.

Gordon Stuart Richards, who took his M.B.A. 1941, is now in the securities business with Ferris & Co. in Washington, D. C. He was not a Sanitary Engineer with UNRRA as we stated in BOSTONIA. His family includes Mrs. Virginia M. W. Richards and Lillian Campbell, born November 12, 1946. They live at 4306 North Fairfax Drive, Arlington, Virginia.

Mrs. Regina Herlihy Roberts lives at 153 Charlesbank Road, Newton, Massachusetts. She has to quote a bit from John C. Robinson, Jr., who is a Research Chemist at the experiment station of the Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Delaware. Here is his picture of J.C.R.

"Used to play quite a bit of tennis — but gave it up. Too much beef. Am now an extremely unhappy golfer — too good to be bad and too bad to be good (85-95). For relaxation, I have become fairly active in a local drama group — and I haven't to explain. I do not read the boards. In fact I've appeared before the lights but once and my appearance was only for four seconds. I'm a background man. I've got pretty much specializing in the technical crew — lights and sound effects. The latter activity got me interested in trying to fix an old broken down P. A. system, so I'm learning electronics the hard way. Also I'm interested to the extent that I'm building radio and amplifiers for the firm.

"That is all...the above went on up to February 1. Since that time, brewing formulas and working with dirty little diapers seems to occupy a good bit of my non-working hours." The reference is to John C. Robinson III, five weeks old, John, who secured his Ph. D. from the University of Illinois in 1943, and his family live on Miller Road, Wilmington, RD 4, Delaware. If you drop into CLA, you may find Muriel Scott Watzinger. Betsy is a part-time member in the Registrar's Office. Professor Arthur J. Watzinger is teaching German at CLA. They live at 12 Avon Road, Wellesley, Massachusetts.

Since his release from active service in the Army in January 1946, Elmer W. Salenius has been an instructor in English at CLA. He is teaching Freshman English and the History of English Literature. He is working on his Ph.D. and says the friendly spirit is still the same at CLA. Elmer's address is 4 Bates Avenue, Maynard, Massachusetts.

Another person residing on the West Coast is Ruth C. Smythe is Mrs. Edward C. Erlandson, Jr., of 666 Worcester Street, Wellesley.

Phyllis E. Cowey Smith has two sturdy young sons. Her husband is the Reverend S. Raynor Smith, Jr., who took his degree at B.U. School of Theology. They live in Inglewood, California at 319 E. Tamarack Avenue. Phyllis is busy as a housewife, helping her husband with church work and squeezing in some time for singing occasional solos. Here's the man to see...Humphrey F. Sullivan, Jr., of 1325-19th Street, S.E. Washington, D.C. He audits and does special correspondence on income tax refunds in the Income Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. On the side he is attending the Benjamin Franklin University in Washington. He has a son, John Brian, born February 7, 1948.

Miream Taylor Houston (Mrs. John) announces that she has an eight-week-old son Ralph Larkin, named for his "grand-dad," Dean Taylor, and born on his birthday. Her other son, Alan Fraser, is five years old. Miream's address is 66 Viaduct Street, Sharon, Massachusetts.

Charles C. Thompson is another M.D. practicing in Rochester, New Hampshire. Remember Bobbie Cooper, R.G.S.? Charlie and Bobbie have three children, Sandra, four years; Mark, three years; and Boyen, eight months. I can vouch for their being fine looking youngsters. Two of Bobbie's sisters were on campus here at U.N.H. last year. One was in my class; so when Bobbie drove over with a car full of children, I had a few minutes visit. Their address is 48 Church Street, Gonic, New Hampshire.

Margaret E. Thompson, now Mrs. Ivan H. Mowry, has some advice for you. Ivan and I are the proud owners of a lovely three bedroom home which we built last summer almost entirely by ourselves, an instruction book in one hand and a tool in the other. I can truthfully tell any classmate who may also be living on a teacher's salary that it is possible in these days to build your own home. Further, it is a thrilling experience and it will seem like you've learned as much as you did at 688 Boylston Street. Their family includes Thomas Edward, age two. Their home address is Box 26A, Route 4, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Now comes the third of our Thompsons Ruth Thompson Hanchett (Mrs. G. D., Jr.). Ruth has a "wild Indian," Charles Thompson Hanchett, four-and-a-half-years old, who keeps her pretty busy, as does her rather large house. Her home is at 14 Duncan Street, Millburn, New Jersey.

Has anyone heard from Kathleen L. Johnson Ures (Mrs. A. W.) lately? She had at least one child, and the last I knew was living at 72 B. Newark Way, Maplewood, New Jersey. Kay joined me in N.Y.C. for lunch several years ago and showed me the picture of her lovely baby.

Theodore D. Wagar is employed at Central Intelligence Agency. He took his M.A. at B. U. and has attended George Washington University Law School. Theodore married Lillian Bell in Washington, D.C., in 1945. They have one child, a daughter, Terrell, who is two years old. Theodore's home address is 2856 South Buchanan Street, Arlington, Virginia.

Dorothy J. Pettus is now Mrs. Henry P. Williams of 858 Ashbury Street, San Francisco, California.

Mrs. Basil A. Irwin is the former Ruth Malambre. She lives at 2729 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Maryland.

Abraham Kaminsky is now Dr. Abraham Kaye and is on the staff of the Worcester State Hospital, Worcester, Massachusetts.

As far as I know, Winifred Blakeman McCarty (Mrs. Francis) lives at 87 Stetson Street, Whitman, Massachusetts.

Jacob Gottler is a doctor. His address is 60 American Legion Highway, Dorchester. Margaret Enos has an M.D. She lives at 2009 First Parish Road, Scituate, Massachusetts.

Winona Wildes Clarkson (Mrs. C. N.) is very lucky. She is living in a mansion called "Orlando" at 260 North Main Street, Andover, Massachusetts.

Wildes Smith, CLA'42, and family are living there too, enjoying the sixty-four acres. Winona has a daughter, Judith Ann, four and one-half.

Incidentally, Winona's suggestions for our tenth reunion — all out one "for class members — only joining with husbands and wives in the evening. She also suggests a late Spring luncheon and baby party.

Lourie M. White is now Mrs. John L. Ring. Her address is RFD 1, Taunton, Massachusetts.

Madelein Wilson Sturtevant (Mrs. John) looks forward to the print that we've graduated ten years does make her feel old. The time has certainly passed quickly. She is a student at Boston College Law School. Her husband is a lawyer and teaches constitutional law and government at the University of Massachusetts. She decided to study law because without it, she had little opportunity to say a word. They plan to practice together when she graduates in June. Her address is 64A Chancellorville Street, University of Massachusetts, Fort Devils.

Yours truly is living at the same pace as in college. My position is a three-fingered. The title is Extension Specialist in Recreation and Instructor in Physical Education for Women. The time division is supposed to be one half Extension (training voluntary recreation leaders in the communities, conducting tourist and resort, playgrounds and recreation institutes, helping organizations and communities with program planning and advising how to organize for recreation, plus teaching a leading role in recreation workshops), half dances, game sessions, etc., at many meetings, conferences, camps, etc. I am also chairman (for the third time) of the New Hampshire State Folk Festival, one quarter teaching (I teach two courses), one quarter in Recreation Leadership — men and women — and Square and Folk Dancing — how to teach, plus activity classes in community games, folk, and country dancing.) Along with these I arrange programs for Recreation majors and field work for my class; and one quarter advising campus activities (conduct a short course for all organization presidents in parliamentary procedure and another for social chairmen. Helping with plans for special and organization programs and helping to conduct the Summer School recreation).

In between I give lectures out in the state on New Hampshire's gifts from other lands, teaching games, music, dances, etc. This is illustrated by dances presented by the Durham Reelers, campus folk dance and song group for faculty and students.

Now we want to start a B. U. Alumni Club in this area. How about you folks doing likewise! At the same time contact all your class pals and let's get set for a hang-up Tenth. Send along any suggestions. We'll welcome them, as well as any volunteers for committees whenever.

Well, classmates, that is the info to date. I do hope you who didn't write will forward news to me or to the Alumni Office soon.

Here's to seeing you at the 10th!

BRIGELLA R. RABETTIE, Class Secretary

JACK L. CHITTEL, CBA, and Mrs. Chittel have announced the recent birth of a daughter, Natalie Merle.

WALTER GARTNER, CBA, is now working for Binnie's in Providence, Rhode Island. His home address is 22 Hazard Avenue, Providence.

JOHN J. MAGNINUS, ECC, prominent in Worcester business, civic and veterans' affairs, announced recently his candidacy for the Republican nomination to Congress from the Fourth District. Mr. Magninus, an overseas veteran of both World War I and World War II, said his candidacy resulted from his belief that his years in the city's business life and later in the military government of Germany could be of value in representing the district. He led the first Allied civil affairs detachment to land in France with the 101st Airborne Division during the Normandy invasion. He has been associated with the Claffin-Summer Coal Company, of which he was Vice-President and is now a Director.

ALBERT MINEVITZ, CBA, is a salesman for Rex Products, Incorporated, of New York. He has been assigned a western territory, but is living just across Connecticut Avenue, Nantasket Beach. He plans to marry this spring.

School of Theology Notes

Reverend Dr. Archey D. Ball was retired four years ago by the church rule but has continued in charge of churches. He is now completing his second year as pastor of Eastside Terrace Methodist Church, Patterson, New Jersey. He was asked by the ministers to be Lenten speaker, and gave six addresses on the "Power to Live." He was onetime pastor of Center Church, Malden, at which time he also taught at the School of Theology. He has been State Chairman of the New Jersey Civil Liberties Union for many years, and has served as guest lecturer at New York University.

1910
Class Report
In the December BOSTONIA we had a report from Jim Perry. Now the files are flooded with news from the class, as well as from the great victory in the Crusade Challenge Campaign.
Among the "active" men, Herbert A. Cassidy, pastor of the Methodist Church at Lodi, Ohio, reports three sons and one daughter, ages 25 to 27.
Edward H. (Ed) Gibson, still Congregational minister in Brockton, was married a second time in 1934 and reports three sons and two daughters. He is a good citizen and a good pastor.
David H. Hickey is pastor of the Robinson Methodist Church in Melrose, and is going strong.
Melvin C. Hunt, pastor at Lakewood, Cleveland, was married a second time in 1926.
Oliver Clark Jones, pastor in Aurora, Illinois, is happy over (a) his granddaughter, Mary Grace Hyde, and (b) the liquidation of a $60,000 debt on his church. Congratulations, Olin!
R. Burton Sheppard, pastor at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, reports his marriage in 1946 to Vivian Grey Brackney.
Forest H. Woodside, Yorba Linda, California, has been active in youth work and in the alumni organization.
Several say that they are retired, which for 1910 means liberated for freer activities.
Thomas L. Gamble, 221 Jackson Street, Los Gatos, California, sends greetings; he and wife are well and happy.
John L. Ivey, 26 Oakland Street, Melrose, Massachusetts, like "Uncle Henry" Sheldon, uses spare time in housework, when not gardening or preaching.
Charles S. (Charlie) Otto, 14 Hancock Street, Malden, Massachusetts, is happy in the success of his son Paul at Park Avenue Methodist Church, New York. Charlie bless his heart, rightly questioned the grammar of "act quick" at the close of the letter over my name. But I didn't write the letter; let's blame it on some unknown Rie. Anyway, it brought results, even if I am not a pragmatist.
Louis W. Swanson, who seems to be the only Presbyterian in the class, retired in 1944 and lives in Malden, New Hampshire. He is a widower.
William Whitney Switzer, 1311 Walla Walla Avenue, Walla Walla, Washington, has retired, in a way, but is teaching Business English, ditto Psychology, and ditto Law, at Walla Walla Business College. He came back to Boston in 1925 and 1926 to pick up a Master's degree. What a man!
William Bazaar Van Valkenburg lives at 175 Sea Shore Camp Grounds, Biloxi, Mississippi (enticing address), and his daughter is a sophomore at Millsaps, doubtless studying philosophy under your secretary's Ph.D. Bond Flemng, T'37, Grad'41. Van asks about Robinson Chapel; well, everything will be moved that can be without serious waste.
Friendly, efficient Jacob Elbert Wells, 127 Locust Street, Huntington 1, West Virginia, has two daughters, both married, and one grandson. He is a trustee emeritus of West Virginia Wesleyan, to which the old School has sent many of her sons for prominent service. Jacob retired in 1946, but still wrestles.
Your secretary has two sons, one daughter, one son-in-law, one grandson, and one granddaughter. He is writing an account of Radhakrishnan as a Mystic, for the Library of Living Philosophers, and is on the verge of starting his book on Metaphysics. He is having a splendid year in the department of philosophy.
Edgar S. Brightman,
Class Secretary

1920
Mark R. Shaw, New England Secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, spoke at the Hartford Fellowship of Reconciliation Meeting at the Hartford Seminary Chapel on the subject, "The Strength and Weakness of the U.N."
