Have you a child or a grandchild between the ages of 1 and 15? If so, our new JUNIOR ESTATE BUILDER policy—nicknamed the "Jumping Juvenile" by our field men—will assure him $5000 of life insurance at age 21 for every $1000 you buy him now!... with no increase in cost and with no further proof of insurability.

You see, this savings-type life insurance automatically jumps to 5 times its original value when the youngster reaches 21, yet the annual premium does not change throughout the life of the policy.

Here's the ideal way to guarantee your child or grandchild a substantial amount of life insurance protection as he takes on grown-up responsibilities, with important cash values available for earlier education or later emergencies. Liberal dividends add materially to these values.

Your youngster is now at the life insurance bargain counter. The sooner you buy, the lower the rate. The sooner you buy, the less chance of his developing a health impairment that will later make him uninsurable.

For complete details just fill out and return the coupon.

President Case is given a royal welcome by alumni clubs in 12,000 mile, mid-winter air trek across the length and the breadth of the nation. Contrary to the impression once prevalent, the President found the "sleeping giant" very much awake and ready to help. His visit with 96-year old Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsey at her Los Angeles home was one of the high lights of the trip. Oldest alumna dies as Bostonia goes to press after Dr. Case's return home.

The Alumni in Review... Members of the University's alumni, old and young, preparing for their first on campus reunions of the 50 and 25 year classes of the alumni of the 11 oldest schools. June 4, 5 and 6, culminating with the baccalaureate and commencement at Boston University Field. These will be historic days in the life of the alumni and days to be treasured in the hearts of all Boston University men and women everywhere.

Dr. Emil Hartl, director of the Charles Hayden Goodwill Inn for boys, one of three vice-presidents of the General Alumni Association and chairman of the Alumni association, is idolized by the boys who have come under his care in the last 15 years. A noted psychologist who made a study of the Inn tells why this is so.

Here's good news for alumni... The best they have heard in a long time. The appointment of Randall Webster "Ranny" Weeks as executive secretary of the General Alumni association was announced by President Case at a luncheon tendered to the newly appointed advisory cabinet at the Algonquin Club on March 26. President Frank E. Barton was host at the luncheon.

Sports... For the first time in many moons the crack of ash on horsehide resounds from the Boston University Field diamond as the University's baseball squad loosens up their muscles in preparation for a promising season. On the river the crews are rounding into shape. The truck team looks good. John Collins also takes a look in his crystal ball to hazard a prediction for the coming grid season.

The University... The Cream of the Nation's scholars were on the Campus for Founder's Day just completed. Dr. Kenneth D. Beme believes that it served to pave the way for a consideration of practical ways for research into the problem of human relations.

The class in interior design at PAL, assisted by some of the students in the fraternities, are in the process of transforming a community room on the top floor of the President's Tudor Mansion on Bay State road. Read how the task was accomplished.

Boston is eager to get some of those real, old "remember when" pictures from all of the schools of Boston University to recall the good old days of long, long ago.

In the event that you have such pictures please identify them as fully as possible when you mail them to 308 Bay State Road. Where complete identification is lacking there is always some reader who can come forward with the information.

Dear Sir:

The print "Days of long, long ago" carried me back over the years for in the print I recognized several familiar faces. Dr. Musson, Dr. Ruth Barker, Ollie Prescott, and several others. I believe the original was taken at West Newton and certainly not at or near the Medical School. I induced Ruth Barker to study medicine and if she lives has made good. The husband of Ollie Prescott was lost when the S.S. Portland went down and I well remember that she was the finest dancer that this old one ever danced with. She was a freshman when I was a senior. Dr. Musson I knew quite well as he located at Antrim, N. H. about twelve miles from Peterborough. The Doctor was quite hepped on electrical treatments; where he went from Antrim I never knew. Should you by any chance know the present location of Ruth Barker I'd be grateful for it. I know that she married an M.D. and together they ran treatments; Where he wented from Antrim, N. United States Information Agency
Washington

Dear Mr. Case:

An important part of the U.S. Information Agency's mission is the world-wide distribution of selected photographs about life in America. Many of these pictures are provided by colleges and universities.

In reviewing this Agency's operations I find that our International Press Service has had generous cooperation from your school in obtaining photographs and related textual material. The materials received effectively contributed to the achievement of one of our principal program objectives — to inform the people of other countries about life in the United States.

You might be interested in seeing the use made of your material. I am, therefore, enclosing a sample for you.

May I take this opportunity to express our deep appreciation for your valuable assistance.

Sincerely yours,

THOMAS CHIROOET,
Director

Dear Dr. Case:

When I received your gracious letter giving me permission to add to my tribute to my Classmate, Helen M. Dame, a word of appreciation from you I mentioned to Dr. Ruth Barker that I would have the pleasure of hearing from you. Too late, I realize that should have expressed that part of my tribute when I sent it to Bostonia. I'm sure that all members of 1896 will feel the same appreciation should have been shown to Miss Dame that is accorded in the University who have passed away. I regret that the omission may have been due to me.

My thanks to you for my share in the opportunity to greet you at the recent New York Club reunion and to view the films of the University of today. President Argeros and his associates are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts for the New York Club and the Scholarship Fund which I hope may always meet with your approval as President of Boston University.

Yours sincerely,

GRACE N. BROWN,

Dear Dr. Case:

The last issue of Bostonia appealed to me very much. I graduated from C.L.A. in 1926, and thence to E. T. S., Cambridge '29. William Warren was easily one of the finest teachers I have known. My oldest daughter graduated from C.L.A. last June (Ruth June).

I wish to congratulate you on Mr. Warren Carberg as Editor. I am Chairman of the Department of Publicity in the Diocese of Massachusetts, and I think that he is a splendid person as well as a fine newspaper writer.

Cordially yours,

CHESTER A. PORTER,
Rector

P.S. It is interesting to note that my Assistant, the Rev. George E. Kieth was graduated from Boston University in 1936 and E. T. S. in 1939 — just ten years removed — same college, same seminary. Both of us, Episcopalians from our youth. B. U. is doing its full share for the Episcopal Church. A member of Christ Church, aiming in the same Cambridge direction, is now a Senior at C. L. A. — Mr. Charles Deacon.

Dear Mr. Carberg,

I have sent the Bible in question, and I presume it is in your hands by this time. There is not much to be said about your correspondent. I came to Boston University in the fall of 1884, and found President Warren on the job, although we rarely saw him. We did know and loved Dean Huntington. The "Dean," as we all called him, was my counselor through college, and a few years later when he had become President, he was a parishioner of mine in Newton Center. We were particularly close friends. After he died, Mrs. Huntington came to me one day and brought me the Dean's Bible. I kept it for some time, and have recently been convinced that it should go to a more permanent location. That is the way I came to send it to you.

I am devoted, as I ever could be, to Boston and Williams and Harvard. To Boston I owe far more than to any other institution. Dr. Bowe was my mentor and guide through the latter years.

Yours very truly,

LUTHER FREEMAN
President Case
Spans Nation to Meet Alumni

By WARREN CARBERG

WHEN Dr. Harold C. Case, clasped the slender hand of Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsey, 96-year-old physician as she lay in the bedroom of her home at 7423 Hollywood Boulevard, Los Angeles, last February, he linked together the old and the new, the present and the past of the University.

He was taking time out from a split-second schedule to talk personally to the oldest known living member of his great alumni body, and a graduate of the Boston University School of Medicine, Class of 1883.

To Dr. Case it was one of the high points of a 12,000 mile mid-winter air pilgrimage to meet and exchange ideas with members of alumni clubs in cities scattered the length and breadth of the country.

Dr. Case found Dr. Dorsey to be exceedingly alert despite her age and an injury in the form of a broken hip which had confined her to her bed. During the early part of her career, Dr. Dorsey was associated with many of the world's great medical scientists, whose names today are legendary in medical history.

She has worked with such eminent men as Louis Pasteur, Joseph (later) Lord Lister, Rudolph Virchow, Villroth, Kaposi, Konradt, Rokitansky, Fruwalder, Breus, Kocher, Loffler, Klebs and Seguird.

Still in active practice, although she seeks no new patients, Dr. Dorsey is as keenly interested in Boston University's future as the youngest alumna.

Her twinkling blue eyes indicated a crystal-clear intellect that has devoted itself for 69 years to the alleviation of human misery. Her delight at meeting the President of her alma mater in person was boundless.

Boston University's oldest known living alumna is in all probability the last remaining link with those giants who laid the very foundations on which modern medicine and research have been erected.

To tell adequately the life story of this woman and the famous men and women in the medical world with whom she has been associated would require a fairly sizeable volume; more space certainly than is at the disposal of the editor of BOSTONIA, however much he is tempted to devote to her the entire issue.

When she graduated from Boston University School of Medicine 71

An Associated Press dispatch from Los Angeles announcing the death of Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsey on March 29 reached the editor's desk just as BOSTONIA was going to press. President Case, members of Boston University's General Alumni Association and of the faculty received the news of her passing with sorrow. They are proud to pay tribute to a woman whose life was devoted to the welfare of humanity. She exemplified the finest ideals of her alma mater.
OLD FRIENDS MEET AGAIN — President Case is pictured at the head table at the meeting of the Denver Alumni Club at the Brown Palace on February 11. Seated with him is Chancellor Chester M. Alter of Denver University, formerly dean of the Graduate School of Boston University.

years ago it was discovered that she had tuberculosis, a disease which already had claimed five members of her family. While at the University she had live at the Y.W.C.A., walking the many blocks every day to reach the Medical School in the South End. Exclusive of tuition she earned all her living expenses while she was there.

One of her jobs was night watchman at the Y.W.C.A. Another was nurse for a patient from whom she probably acquired TB. Her roommate at Boston University had been a governess for the family of Senator Conness of California. He loaned her $7,000, the sum necessary to pay her passage to Berlin where she could see Virchow, the outstanding man of his day in cellular pathology. After she was established in active practice, she paid back every cent of the loan with interest at 6 per cent.

Virchow after some protests finally allowed her to receive his new serum, then in an experimental form. She was the first woman to be cured of tuberculosis in this way. She received the tuberculin from Koch himself. "Only two people ever received it from Koch," she said, — "Paul Ehrlich, (another scientist) and myself. We both survived."

With her tuberculosis cured, Dr. Dorsey concentrated on finding a cure of cretinism, abnormal children.

She studied with Kocher in Switzerland. While she was with him he performed his 2,000th operation for removal of the thyroid gland. She studied in Paris with Löffler and Klebs who had isolated the diphtheria bacillus.

She studied endocrinology at the Sorbonne with Braun, believing in this manner she could find some answer and hope for mentally retarded children.

Then she worked with Pasteur. "He was the dearest, gentlest, most considerate man that ever lived," she said. "He was about five feet ten inches tall with a long, rather nice shaped face; soft bluish gray eyes and a low-speaking voice. "He was the greatest teacher of all those I met."

While she was in Europe, Pasteur isolated his rabies serum, and first used it on human beings.

Before returning home she spent a short time in London at the hospital of Joseph Lister, to learn his method of spraying wounds with...
carbolic acid to prevent infection.

Senator Conness sent her to Los Angeles after her return. Among the thousands of babies she delivered was Earl Warren, destined to become Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

She was the first to use rabies serum and was the first to successfully treat diphtheria with inoculations. Dr. Dorsey reads her Bostonia from cover to cover, and has kept abreast with Dr. Case and all of his accomplishments at Boston University.

When the Alumni dinner was held in Los Angeles for Dr. Case, she was to have been an honor guest but her injury necessitated a change of plan. It was for this reason that Dr. Case went to her home instead and talked to her about her rich and varied experiences.

Dr. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, chancellor of the University of Southern California, was an honor guest. He holds an honorary degree from Boston University and is a member in good standing of the Los Angeles Boston University Club.

Dr. Robert E. Bruce of Redlands, California, professor emeritus of Boston University, and Mrs. Frances Line, wife of the noted lecturer, photographer and writer for National Geographic Magazine, who presented a lecture last year at Boston University, were also guests.

After dinner Dr. Case presented an inspiring illustrated lecture with scenes in color from the Commonwealth Avenue Campus made by his son Robert Case, an artistic photographer who is completing his work for a Master's degree at Boston University. An overflow attendance made it necessary to move the dinner from the Boston Room, where it had been originally scheduled, to the larger Mission Room.

A breakdown of attendance figures revealed that the Los Angeles Club is one of the most representative in the country. Three members of the group graduated from Boston University more than 50 years ago while four graduated in 1953.

Eleven of the Colleges were represented at the meeting with a good cross-section covering a period of half a century. Indicative of the enthusiasm which characterized the meeting was the 125-mile flight of Mary Anderson, Sar’53, all the way from San Diego.

Earle C. Blais L’48; Councilman and Vice Mayor of Burbank, California, presided as program chairman; Walter J. Fesuk, CBA’53, handled reservations. Jack Pretty, CBA’53, was in charge of publicity.

President Russell Lewis Spachman, SPHC’50 coordinated the activities. An active telephone committee contributed to the success of the meeting. Attendance at the meetings has increased 300 per cent during the past two years.

The Club is planning to hold three meetings a year and expects to undertake a Club project in the foreseeable future. A nominating committee is being formed to select a complete roster of officers to handle the expanded activities. The next meeting has been scheduled tentatively as a barbecue in June.

When Dr. Case first planned his country-wide tour following the Osgood Hill alumni conference last October, he wanted several questions answered. The only way to get this done was to go to the grass roots of the alumni and secure them for himself. He wanted to know what the alumni expect from the University and he was anxious to tell them the great need for an awakened alumni body to reach (Continued on Page 26)
All Roads Lead to Commonwealth Avenue Campus for June Reunions
(Just before Bostonia rolled off the press President Case announced that Braves Field had been named Boston University Field. The official dedication will be June 5, as part of the Alumni Day program.)

Welcome Home Alumni!

The spirit of affection for alma mater will be demonstrated on a record-breaking scale by Boston University alumni at the coming on-campus reunions and commencement June 4-6.

For the first time in the history of the old University, the 50- and 25-year classes of the eleven oldest Schools will participate in this unprecedented get-together.

One in spirit and in desire for the glorification of alma mater, thousands will live again the days of their youth, and will share the experiences of the "years between" during the three-day program. The ever-expanding campus, still in the process of growth, will be a source of surprise and pride to many of the reunioners who have not been "home" since the new buildings along the Charles were erected.

As Bostonia goes to press, the committees are still hard at work completing the final arrangements.

The 25-year reunion committee has set up an economical and extremely interesting $15 "package" with a value of $21.50. The University will subsidize the difference. Included in this "package" will be: Friday night supper, June 4, $2.00; "Pops" ticket, $3.00; lodging at the dormitory Friday night, $2.50; breakfast Saturday morning, $.75; reunion luncheon Saturday, $5.00; sunset supper Saturday, $2.50; bus transportation, $2.50; lodging Saturday night, $2.50; and breakfast Sunday morning $.75.

The following items on a tentative program have already been suggested for Saturday: bus trips to historical places; boat trips on the Charles River; University movies at various intervals to be announced later. Organ concerts and carillon music will also be heard. Exhibitions will be presented by foreign students and by the various Schools and Colleges and there will be visits to the Physical Research Laboratory at 700 Commonwealth Avenue.

Major events will include: June 4, registration at Charlesgate, Century Club dinner and Pops; June 5, Class reunions, featuring the 25- and 50-year classes; Commonwealth Armory, June 6, Baccalaureate and Commencement at Braves Field (at Boston Garden in case of rain.)

Members of the Class of 1904, CLA, whose survivors are scattered all over the country will hold a lunch on Friday noon, June 4, at the Woman’s Council Building, 135 Commonwealth Ave. The old class ode written by the Rev. A. F. Reimer, a half century ago will be sung.

On Saturday members of the class are arranging to participate in a tour of all the University buildings. Miss Winifred Given is class secretary and Herbert S. Avery, Boston lawyer, class president.

Class Ode
To thee, our college dear, our best devotion
This day we give with affection and pride;
Saying our sad farewell with deep emotion:
Be thou forever our teacher and guide.
Strangers we came to thee, sought but thy knowledge;
Loved not thy honor, nor cherished thy name:
Parting we crown thee our best beloved college;
Pledge here our lives for enhancing thy fame.
Fair shalt thou always be, fondest of treasures,
Though on the morrow forever we part;
One in our spirit mid sorrows or pleasures,
Thou shalt remain still the queen of our heart.
High on thy city hill, proud in thy station,
Raised like a beacon on Life’s restless sea,
Send forth thy blessed rays till all Creation
Shines in the light and in Truth is made free.

Dr. Emil M. Hartl, one of the three vice-presidents of the General Alumni Association, and chairman of the fund committee, is a quiet man whose record of accomplishment speaks loudly in his behalf.

A graduate of the Boston University School of Theology, Class of 1931, Graduate School, 1938, Dr. Hartl began his work as director of the Goodwill Inn for boys in 1932. When the Charles Hayden Goodwill Inn, part of the Morgan Memorial social service features, was erected as a seven-story building at 27 Wheeler Street in 1939, he became its head.

Dr. William H. Sheldon, renowned psychologist, who used 200 boys at the Inn as case studies for his volume "Varieties of Delinquent Youth," said of Dr. Hartl: "Tall, relaxed, kind, Hartl seems never to sleep and rarely to eat. He is not merely trusted, he is beloved, and often by youths whose trust and confidence are invested nowhere else. In his career at Goodwill Inn, from the beginning he has handled more than 5,000 boys nearly all of them delinquent in one way or another. Many have been desperate characters. Perhaps 20 per cent have ended as chronic criminals or derelicts.

"A few have turned out to be serious offenders. Yet of them all, I have never known one to harbor ill-will against Hartl. His presence and even his name, are a truce to avert turbulence. Whether or not he has exerted any permanent inhibitory influence on delinquency I have no idea, but no missionary has ever kept a trust more faithfully than this man.

"Some of his present-day friends including not a few former delinquents, maintain that he is the one man among many thousands whose presence could afford to pit itself against the morally disintegrative forces that are brought together at the Inn. If there is some good in all men, and if what is needed to bring out the good is the influence of a positive catalytic personality, the Inn can afford to take on the least promising human material without giving hostages to misfortune.

"The associate Director, Ralph M. Lindsey, plays a role complementary to that of Hartl. He exercises a primarily diagnostic intelligence which, edged with Yankee wit, lays bare for a youth the underlying motivation of the latter's behaviour with an adroitness and mental alacrity rarely paralleled. Innocent as the Connecticut River of academic degrees (soon to be awarded a degree), and free from the slang and pretense of all "schools" of psychology and psychiatry, Lindsey can conduct a shrewder and quicker analysis of what is 'eating a boy' than any psychiatrist I have ever seen in action.

"These two, Hartl and Lindsey, have worked together on their peculiarly specialized project for about 15 years. They hide behind no academic abstraction of the subject. They have no point of view to sustain or axe to grind. They simply rolled up their pants' legs and took on the problem of delinquency as Mrs. Murphy takes on the dirty dishes and without the same degree of glorification. A team like that, working quietly near spots that crawl with delinquency and with degeneracy as a dead horse with maggots, might in the course of time harvest a psychological fortune.

"The Inn has been called the slag dump of the melting pot, but out of the slag have grown some remarkably interesting personalities."

Describing more in detail the components of this "slag dump," Dr. Sheldon writes: "Dr. Hartl, director of the enterprise from its (Continued on Page 29)
Ranny Weeks Named General Alumni Association Secretary

The best news that the 108,000 members of Boston University's far-flung General Alumni Association have heard in many years went over the press association wires and radio March 26.

President Case had just named one of Boston University's favorite sons, Randall Webster "Ranny" Weeks, 47-year old former Navy Commander, band leader, and radio and television star, as the new Executive Secretary of the General Alumni Association.

The announcement which thrilled the ranks of the alumni was made at a luncheon of the newly appointed alumni president's advisory cabinet at the Algonquin Club. Dr. Frank E. Barton, Boston surgeon and general alumni association president was host to his fellow graduates, at the history-making get-together.

They came from New York City, Baltimore, Niagara Falls, New York; New Britain, Connecticut; Springfield and other New England points. The discussion which will be more completely published later, threw additional light on Alumni-University relationships.

Dr. Barton announced the organization of a cabinet of prominent alumni, which will remain the same during the president's term in office.

It will meet once or twice a year to discuss how the University and the General Alumni Association can best serve the alumni, what type of promotion is most effective with alumni and how alumni can best assist in university public relations locally and nationally.

"Ranny" Weeks, as the new alumni chief is widely known, was born in Everett, February 25, 1907. His father, William E. Weeks, CLA'04, was former mayor of that city. His father-in-law, Dr. William C. Newton, formerly of Revere and Newton, is a graduate of Boston University School of Medicine, Class of 1896. Dr. Newton, now 80, is a resident of San Diego, Calif.

"Ranny" is an educational product of Everett and Reading High Schools, and CBA'28, and Boston University School of Law.

He has two sons in the Navy, Randall Stanwood and Winslow Weeks and a daughter Elinor, a junior at Newton High School. His wife is the former Elinor Fales. They reside at 58 Berkshire Road, Newtonville.

While at CBA he received his first Army training in the R.O.T.C. under Major Ziba L. Drollinger, an old-time regular Army officer.

An accomplished musician, he was obliged by economic exigencies to forsake old CBA and the Law School to make money as a singer, pianist, 'cellist, and later as a band leader.

In the 26-year period from 1928-1942 he was the idol of a day when bands provided a major part of the entertainment. His band played at Sheapel's Colonial restaurant, at the Metropolitan, Keith's, the Copley Plaza (now the Sheraton Plaza), the Coconut Grove, Latin Quarter, the Mayfair, and other establishments.

Then came Pearl Harbor and the interruption of his musical career. Sworn in in August 1942, he was commissioned as a Navy lieutenant-commander and as the first of many Navy assignments was placed in charge of public relations at Jacksonville, Florida. Following the close of the war he picked up his musical career where he had left it when the bombs fell at Pearl Harbor.

He and his band reopened the refurbished Somerset Hotel and the Balinese Room in 1947. He made many records including "I Kiss Your Hand Madame," and other outstanding song hits, and he was a general favorite as a radio entertainer.

Always active in civic affairs he served at various times as co-chairman of the radio division of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, and was chairman of a fund-raising organization for the Massachusetts Osteopathic Hospital.

In 1950 he came within a few thousand votes of winning the Republican nomination for the office of secretary of state. While he campaigned during the day he led his band in the evening appearances at the Copley Plaza. He had one brief campaign speech which he used often. It went something like this:
"I understand that people in Seattle now know what flying saucers are. They are just signs for the Mystic River Bridge."

When the Korean fighting flared forth in all its fury he was recalled to duty as a Navy reserve officer. One of his assignments was the command of the U. S. Navy Mobile Exhibit. This exhibit travelled 15,000 miles in a coast-to-coast trip covering 64 cities. The huge trucks which stretched out a distance of from ten to 20 miles on the road carried everything from jet aircraft to cut-away torpedoes and radio proximity fuses. The exhibit was manned by a crew of 33 including two WAVES and a Lady Marine. The attachment of members of the gentler sex constituted a morale problem. The commander solved it by placing two of them in charge of payrolls and the third was made his private secretary. One romance and a successful marriage resulted.

At the close of this nine months' trek, Commander Weeks was assigned as officer-in-charge of the Philadelphia recruiting district, an area covering three states. For six months he doubled as inspector for the entire district. One of his duties was overseeing the clearing of records for Navy applicants for the 53 colleges and 487 high schools in the section. The Navy is known for the thoroughness with which these investigations are conducted. More or less as an experiment he asked for a check on himself. He was cleared as "top secret," a rating given only to a few.

The new alumni secretary brings to his alma mater a wealth of experience in directing radio advertising for A. Rooney Advertising Co., the Metropolitan Theatre of Boston; Republican pictures of Hollywood, California, and as an associate of Paul Newsome & Co., public relations firm.

President Case, in his statement on the state of the University, revealed that Boston University's research grants have grown from a total of $25,000 a few years ago to $2,500,000. He said that the Charles River Campus uses $16,000,000 worth of equipment; that the financial structure of the University is sound, with all of its investments and indebtedness being self-liquidating or amortized.

He noted that of the incoming class at the University last fall there was an increase from 11.5 per cent to 28.9 per cent of the students from homes outside of New England. At the present time about 2,200 students are in University dormitories.

Although Braves Field reduces the University's athletic facilities from a distance of 12 miles to an eight-minute walk from the central campus, he said, with 9,000 students training in health and physical education, Boston University still has no gymnasium or field house there.

With 6,000 meals being served daily on campus, he noted the pressing need for a Student Union; and the immediate urgency of a University Library to coordinate the 16 separate libraries which are now in operation.

"Our graduates," he declared, "have a great awareness of Boston University's dynamic potential in improvement of its existing services and the expanding of facilities to provide them."

Dr. Shields Warren, noted cancer research authority and chairman of the University's Trustees Executive Committee, outlined the relationship of the alumni to the Board.

Members of the cabinet are Lt. Gov. Sumner J. Whittier, CLA; Dr. Howard B. Meek, CLA, director of School of Hotel Administration, Cornell; Dr. Emory Bucke, Theology field representative of the Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Stuart Dean, CLA, director of elementary education at New Britain Teachers College; Prof. George Dimitroff, CLA, professor at Dartmouth.

It has been 18 months since the crack of a baseball bat was last heard in Braves Field, and for almost six months it seemed that the old National League Park might never again echo to the cheers of a baseball crowd, but once again this spring there's a hopeful team prepping for its season on the Gaffney Street Acres.

Boston University's purchase of Braves Field has helped Boston retain one of its most famous sports landmarks and it has also given the Terriers an unparalleled setting for its intercollegiate baseball program.

Workouts for Harry Cleverly's varsity baseball team got underway in mid-March and, with 13 lettermen on hand and only two of the 1953 starters missing, the diamond Terriers will make their debut in a major league park with an excellent opportunity to improve on last season's 7-8 record.

Backboning the team will be two fine prospects who were easily among the best in the area last season — catcher Tom Gastall and shortstop Don Russell. Gastall, big raw-boned football quarterback and basketball forward, is well on his way to becoming an all-time Boston University sports great.

Only a Junior this season Tom has already earned six varsity letters — two each in football, baseball and basketball (his first baseball letter was earned as a freshman). In football he ranks as the best defensive back in New England, basketball coach Matt Zunic considers him to be one of the best defensive hoopsters he has ever coached, but it's on the diamond that he really excels. Last year he was named catcher on both the All-Greater Boston Collegiate League team and the All-New England squad. His speed behind the plate, strong arm on the toss to second and long-ball hitting ability have definitely marked him as a major league prospect.

Russell, a sturdily built Senior from Stratford, Connecticut, who played his high school ball for former Terrier star Ray Needham, impressed all Greater Boston observers with his speed afield and strength at the plate. He's a consistent No. 2 or 3 hitter who'll come up with a single when needed and who is capable of hitting the long ball.

Cleverly has 13 lettermen in the returning group along with several candidates who are coming out for the sport now that it has moved 16 miles closer to the campus plus a good crop from last year's successful freshman team.

Cleverly will be missing only two of last season's starters and a regular hurler. Chief loss, of course, is right fielder John Poce, another Greater Boston League selection who batted a solid .392 and was one of the area's best base stealers and bunters. The other two graduates are first baseman Dick Walsh, a steady fielder, and reliable lefthanded pitcher Bill O'Donnell. Other infield regulars returning are wee Johnny Nunziato at second base and Bob Philbrick at third while football guard Joe Stoico was also an award winner at first base and as a pinch hitter.

In the outfield speedy Lew Pollock returns to patrol the center field acres for the third straight season while husky Mike Bobrowiecki looks like a fixture in left. Another letter winner, who doubles either as an outfielder or catcher, is Warner Bergh from Bristol, Connecticut.

On the mound Cleverly can call on a quintet of lettermen hurlers two of whom received credit for a total of five of the Scarlet's seven wins. These lads are a pair of Juniors — Dick Jackson and Jack Johnston — and feature the asset so necessary to college pitching-control. Jackson did his high school twirling for Morse High of Portland, Maine, while Johnston is from Arlington.

Other letter winners here are Vaughan Stedman, burly left-hander from Hartland, Maine, who stood out as a Sophomore but slumped last season, and Bill Flynn, a clever little southpaw from Milton.

Surprise package of the team could be big Ted Barlas a strong-arming right-hander who pitched two no-hitters for Cleverly as a Sophomore but came up with an elbow injury to keep him out of action all last season. He reports himself in good shape this year and a return to form would spell nothing but trouble for Boston University opponents this season.

Brightest of the freshman prospects are shortstop Jackie Murphy from Cambridge and first baseman Wilson Moechel of Malden. So sharp is Murphy, the same lad who made the first line of the All-New England hockey team as a Sophomore this season, that there was already talk at this writing of moving Russell to third to make room for Murphy’s fielding prowess and slugging ability at short. Moechel is a rugged (6'1, 206 pounds) first sacker who bats left and would add another leftie to a heavy starboard side lineup.

The Terrier baseball schedule opens with Brandeis, a Greater Boston League game, on April 13 and has a total of 25 games, 12 of which will be played at the old Wigwam.

The Freshman team will be coached by last year’s relief specialist Vic Caliri and this team has a slate of 13 games, six of which will be played at Braves Field.

All in all it looks like a good season for the diamond Terriers playing their first season in a historical baseball season. And, if the Terriers live up to bright pre-season promise, perhaps the ghosts of the Miracle Braves, Rabbit Maranville, Wally Berger and other heroes of Tribal days won’t mind the intrusion of mere collegians, provided, of course, that these neophytes can produce a pennant to fly from the flag pole.

For even a Greater Boston League flag would brighten a park which flew only two pennants in its 39 years of existence — one for the Red Sox in 1915 and the Braves in 1948!

GRID-IRONINGS . . . The baseball team will share Braves Field with Buff Donelli’s football forces starting Monday, March 29, and continuing through 20 practice sessions and the Varsity Club Field Day on April 24 . . . Buff will have the finest backfield prospects in New England operating his split and Winged-T intricacies but will have to find replacements for six of the regular starters in last year’s fine forward wall.

Fellows to watch will be those working at the quarterback spot where versatile Tom Gastall is top Terrier but will be receiving plenty of competition from sophomore lefthie Tom Lerario, and freshmen Charlie Fiorino and Tom Gorman . . . Gastall, who has no peer as a defensive back, improved his ball-handling immeasurably last season after a year at end and needs only to improve his passing to make him tops in New England.

Lerario, stylish passer from Philadelphia, will be working to improve his defensive talents . . . Fiorino, a husky from Central Catholic of Lawrence, lacks only a long pass to be considered among the best . . . Gorman is an excellent passer from Pittsburgh who was handicapped last fall by the fact that his high school experience was in the single wing formation.

It’s interesting to compare the 1954 Terrier schedule with that of two seasons ago and see how the new model will favor both the team and Terrier fans . . . In 1952 Buff Donelli led his charges to Wichita, Kansas, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Syracuse, New York, Bethlehem and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania . . . This season the only overnight trip will be the season’s windup with Temple at Philadelphia on November 20.

Thus the only other away games will be versus Connecticut at Storrs on October 2 and against Holy Cross at Worcester on October 23 . . . Boston University fans can watch their team at Braves Field against Brandeis (September 25), Fordham (October 8), Syracuse (October 16), Bucknell (October (Continued on Page 31)
SUMMING up a brilliant and well-handled program at the end of Boston University’s three-day Founders’ Day Institute, Dr. Kenneth D. Benne said that the program had served to identify common conflicts and problems, and had paved the way for consideration of practical ways in which research in and study of human relations might be achieved. Dr. Benne is the Theodore W. Berenson Professor of Human Relations and director of the University’s Human Relations Center.

He said that scholars and practical workers in all fields of knowledge must assume responsibilities for building up a society which is breaking down in terms of social requirements of the individual. He added that the sessions pointed up the need and possibility of cooperation between scholars and practitioners in all professions in developing a body of ultimate aims and philosophy that will serve as a basis for the functioning of social sciences similar to the authoritative body of knowledge on which the physical sciences rest.

"The main problem," Dr. Benne asserted, "is to get away from the world of theory, and narrow down the human relations problem to a point where practitioners can find a tool that they may use right now. "Social sciences," he observed, "have been interested in a mere extension of verified knowledge, while the practical man has had to face and attempt to solve current problems."

"Narrowing of the gap between these two viewpoints is essential, according to conclusions reached by the discussion groups," he said. "But as yet unresolved," he noted, "from the common undertones of agreement found running through the summary reports, were the questions of what values and strategies would best serve the human relations expert in his attempts to improve man-to-man and group-to-group relationships.

"When we come to probing the frontiers of the application of knowledge," he continued, "we question the authoritative values upon which our actions have been based," adding that he felt the three-day conference had served to emphasize the need for new strategies aimed at finding where our efforts best lie in developing in- (Continued on Page 30)
Boston University students have always felt free to visit President and Mrs. Case in their Tudor mansion on Bay State Road. But now they are going to have their own room on the upper floor, a somewhat unique arrangement in American student life. Furthermore, they are designing it and furnishing it themselves.

The warm friendliness and artistic decorating skill of Mrs. Case has made the big place gracious and charming. But she left one room untouched as sort of a challenge for the class in interior design at PAL.

The paint brushes wielded by boys from several of the fraternities are slapping against walls and ceiling. The big room on the upper floor is feeling the impact of some very fresh ideas on design and the results are already visible although the work was by no means complete when this piece was written.

From the west the view from the windows takes in the houses along Bay State Road, erected in an era when the keynote was “grandeur.” To the east lies the wide stretches of the Charles, stream of poetry and romance. But on a day when the wind is in the east a warm fireplace is a more cheerful sight.

This was the problem last October when it was presented to Henry Shawah, instructor in interior design at PAL. The guiding spirit was Mrs. Case. Her approving blue eye checked and double checked each step, as the students had their own way with “doing over” what is part of her own home. They worked out an engaging color scheme for walls and ceiling, selected drapes for the windows, and they designed the modern, interesting furniture.

To be “right,” Mr. Shawah believes that a room must reflect the personality of those for whom it was designed and it must be proper for the use to which it is to be devoted. “Interior design,” he believes, “is not a matter of following current styles in furniture or of ‘keeping up with the Joneses.’ The room must be beautiful, functional and must harmonize with the personalities of those who are to live in it.”

Mrs. Case explains that she and President Case entertain 100 students every Thursday, a custom which they instituted three years ago.

The play room was created to serve many functions, must provide space for family hobbies and for student socials in an interior that is aesthetically beautiful.

Each student in the class had a different responsibility. One had the lighting, another of lining up the boys from the fraternities, like Alpha Kappa Psi, to do the actual painting and another to design the furniture.

Mr. Shawah says of it, “Everything that they’ve used is symbolic (Continued on Page 22)
On an old stage famous in the hectic twenties, Boston University's theatre workshop group made history on the night of February 24 when a group of girls and boys in modern dress and with modern settings presented Shakespeare's "Hamlet," at the Esquire Theatre.

During the roaring days of three decades ago Henry and Frances Jewett brought their magic to the footlights in what was then the Repertory Theatre.

The performances brought critical acclaim from Boston writers. Guests at the opening performance included President Case through whose efforts acquisition of the theatre last fall was made possible.

Presented in two acts, the play was directed by Michael Laurence, acting chairman of the Theatre Department. The Department of Theatre Arts is under the College of Music, Dean Robert A. Choate.

Elinor Hughes, writing in the Boston Herald said; "With a modest but definite flourish and in the presence of its friends and well-wishers, who included Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, the Department of Theatre Arts of Boston University opened its doors last evening not only on an interesting modern dress production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet," but also on a new and hopeful experiment in the teaching of the arts of the theatre. It is good that the Esquire Theatre originally built for cultural as well as commercial purposes, should again have the chance to play a fruitful part in the life of the community."

John William Riley in the Globe said; "A student production presents especial problems. But the fact remains that this Gershwin Theatre offering is fresh in conception, vital in performance, and it does high credit to the University and to the people who present it. . . . "A discovery of this production is Amnon Kabatchnik, an Israel-

Epsilon Chapter Members Honor Memory of Dean Warren

Launch Scholarship Fund Drive

The kickoff dinner for a $17,500 Dean William Marshall Warren Scholarship Fund was held Friday, March 12, by Epsilon Chapter, one of Boston University's oldest alumni groups at their annual mid-winter reunion at the Hotel Shelton.

President Stuart J. E. Good, '51, who presided, announced that the initial sum of $3,000 is already in hand towards the total amount which is expected to yield two annual total tuition scholarships from the "Dean Marshall Warren Scholarship Fund."

Dean Warren died last year after devoting 50 years of his life to the education of young people. The annual William Marshall Warren Award of $50 was presented to Joan C. King of 280 Main Street, Wareham. This award has been given for the third successive year by the College of Liberal Arts Class of 1906. The award was presented by Miss Ruby H. Cole of this class.

President Harold C. Case, a guest of honor, paid tribute to Prof. George M. Sneath of Waban, in recognition of his 41 years of service on the English faculty. Dean Ralph W. Taylor of the College also paid tribute to him. He will retire next June.

Mr. Good presented to him a volume of Davidson's "Life In America," on behalf of Epsilon Chapter. The Epsilon Chapter president revealed that, starting in 1955, a new scholarship will be awarded annually in memory of the late Professor Marshall Livingston Perrin, for many years a beloved professor of German at the College.

In announcing the Warren Scholarship Fund the committee said: "The fund has been established with the conviction that no memorial could be more appropriate than one which would make it possible for young men and women exemplifying the traits that Dean Warren strove to encourage to attend the College to which he devoted 50 years of service."

President Case Honored

President Case was among four distinguished Bostonians honored with Brotherhood Citation Awards at the 26th anniversary banquet of the Northeastern Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at the Hotel Sheraton Plaza on March 25.

The four awards were for outstanding services in the field of human relations. They were tendered to Dr. Case, Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn of Temple Israel; the Very Rev. Joseph R. N. Maxwell, S.J., president of Boston College and Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard.

The dinner was attended by 1,000 leading Bostonians. President Joseph P. Spang, Jr., president of the Gillette Company was dinner chairman. Selections for the Awards were made by regional co-chairmen Alexander Whiteside, Joseph C. White, Mark Bortman and the board of directors.
Great Task of Launching
1954 Alumni Fund Drive Under Way

Alumni Members
Roll Up Sleeves

By EMIL HARTL
Chairman of the Fund Raising Campaign

In this report to the alumni on the 1954 alumni fund drive which began in February and ends in June, our great alumni body is assisting as never before to keep American free education firmly established to serve the youth of the country and of the world.

Under our present plan each of the 16 Schools and Colleges has developed its own fund committee, charged with the responsibility of developing its own goals.

The general committee is comprised of two fund representatives from each School and College, as well as the president of each School and College alumni association (ex-officio) and the deans (ex-officio). Under this arrangement the integrity of the individual School and College plan is maintained, while functioning as part of the greater University fund raising effort.

The Boston University ideal of developing in each unit the spirit of a small college, while belonging to a great university is carried to the end not only among its student body relationships but also in the alumni.

Alumni strength is indeed resident in the loyalty we feel primarily toward our individual Schools and Colleges. The Boston University spirit stems from the knowledge that we together comprise a great educational enterprise; that we are an association of scholars, students and graduates dedicated to make an effective integration of the major fields of inquiry in order that learning, virtue and piety may be more perfectly realized among all men.

Here are a few specific tasks which alumni can do. Your School and College fund committees need your help. You all may be basic-ally by giving to the annual fund appeal. Give sacrificially and loyally. "Give till it feels good" is our motto.

Alumni are serving as fund captains, class agents, volunteers for mailings (imagine the task of collating 55,000 mailings each time), or by helping to correct addresses.

Others are helping to develop better resources for future stu-udents; scholarships and special equipment.

The alumni fund representatives are concerned with raising the needed dollars to do a practical job for students now. They are also interested in developing alumni and community supporters who will assist Boston University in this magnificent plan of growth and development for the future.

We ask for your most loyal participation in the annual fund appeal of your School and College this year (1953-54) and every year to come.

It is our responsibility and privilege to guarantee the future of Boston University.

Ralph Lowell Named Vice-Chairman of Trustees

President Harold C. Case of Boston University announced on March 14 that Mr. Ralph Lowell, member of the Board since October, 1947, and member of the University Trustees Executive Committee, was elected vice-chairman of the Boston University Board of Trustees. He succeeds State Senator Edward C. Stone who became Board Chairman last fall.

President of the Boston Safe Deposit Co., Mr. Lowell's services to his community are manifold. Among his educational interests are: overseer and member of the Executive Committee, Harvard College; treasurer, United Negro College Fund; Fellow, American Academy of Arts and Sciences; trustee, Lowell Institute; President, WGBH Educational Foundation; member of the Corporation, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; member of the board, Educational Television and Radio Center; president, Boston Museum of Fine Arts; finance committee, Massachusetts Historical Society; member National Fund for Medical Education, and National Institute of Social Sciences.

Among other services rendered by Mr. Lowell are: director, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.; treasurer, Masonic Education and Charity Trust; trustee, Massachusetts General Hospital; director, Globe Newspaper Co.; and member of the advisory board of the Massachusetts Investors Trust.

Many Actively Assisting Prospective Enrollees to Surmount Obstacles in Getting to Boston University

Alumni Helping New Students

By DONALD L. OLIVER
Director of Admissions

LAST September 2,444 freshmen registered in the eleven undergraduate Schools and Colleges of the University. This number represented an increase of 309 over those who registered in September of 1952 and 696 over the number who registered in September of 1951.

With the thought in mind that many of the alumni will be interested in who are sending their School or College today, we have prepared the following table. For the benefit of some of the older alumni, we mention that CGE stands for the College of General Education, CIT for the College of Industrial Technology, SN for the School of Nursing, SPRC for the School of Public Relations and Communications, and JC for the Junior College.

Some of these figures are quite significant and indicate in striking manner the changes which are taking place. Consider, for instance, the number of freshmen who came to us from outside New England. The number this year was 307.

Last year the number was 191, and the year before that was 119. These figures seem to say that our good name and our attraction is spreading in greater degree to areas beyond the northeast. The fact, too, that approximately one third of our freshmen reside in the University dormitories would point out that not only do we have a large commuting population but we are becoming a large resident institution as well.

Every college and university is anxious to attract good scholars, and, more than that, likes to see these scholars have broad interests and aptitudes. These interests and aptitudes are most often indicated in the extra-curricular participations of the students in secondary school. The table above shows that a goodly number of our freshmen in each of our Schools and Colleges not only were good students in high school but participated in and held responsible positions in the many phases of secondary school life beyond the academic.

With the increase in numbers, there is of course a corresponding increase in the number of freshmen who are relatives of alumni. Beyond this, however, is the considerable increase in the number of students who are being referred to us by alumni, and the number of alumni who in many different communities are actively assisting by advising with prospects or opening their homes to groups of students interested in coming to Boston University. Our graduates can help immensely in this respect and there is no doubt their efforts are being evidenced in the increasing applications for admission.

*Interpreted as follows:

Number of freshmen registering at the School or College who stated that a relative attended or graduated from some School or College in Boston University.
They pass on admissions — These members of the board review all applications and are responsible for interviews and applications. Each one of them is responsible for certain of the schools and colleges. Left to right: Bleakney Benedict, Professor Horace G. Thacker, Professor Donald L. Oliver, director of admissions; Marian K. LaFountain, John M. Snyder and A. Donald Bouchard. Miss Gertrude E. Miller is absent from the picture.

To those who have been helping goes our gratitude. Others who may wish to help will be glad to know that we have a person in our office whose specific function is working on admissions with the alumni. He is Mr. Everett E. Hicks, and he may be addressed at the office of school and college relations.

The office of admissions is a busy place. From 100 to 200 pieces of correspondence are received every day, and every piece is recorded in order that no inquiry or request will be unconsidered or unanswered.

A total of 4,044 applications were received last year and 5,451 interviews were conducted in our office. This last figure does not include the many, many interviews conducted in the secondary schools by our men of the office of school and college relations which is the promotional arm of the office of admissions. The five school and college relations men, under the direction of professor Horace G. Thacker, visit in most of the secondary schools of New England and in many of the schools of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. They conduct extensive vocational guidance testing and college counseling programs. An interesting article concerning them and their work appeared in a recent issue of Bostonia.

Our board of admissions, consisting of Miss Marion LaFountain, Miss Gertrude Miller, Bleakney Benedict, A. Donald Bouchard, and John Snyder, has had wide experience in working with students in secondary schools and in advising in college matters. With the director of admissions they sit as a board of review on all applications, and each is responsible for the interviews and applications for certain of the schools or colleges.

Alumni are invited to visit the office or to write to us concerning any students in which they are interested, whether the students are for their college or some other in the university. Although admissions are centralized in one office, which focus brings about the great volume of activity here described, the individual flavor and sentiment of the school or college is not lost. We work for "one" and "all." Boston University is still "a number of small colleges within a great University," and in it we treasure our individualities and draw strength from our unity!

There's nothing quite like that now. Housewives can go to them with their problems and their ideas. The collaboration will result in interior architecture that is both beautiful and functional.

LAWRENCE CLUB

The newly elected officers for the year 1954 are as follows: Attorney Norman Schwartz, President; Eunice Lebowitz, Vice-President in charge of membership; Fred Samia, Vice-President in charge of publicity; Marie Torpey, Secretary; Mrs. Edward Witzgall, Treasurer.

The present members of the Lawrence Alumni Club have a firm belief that Boston University is preparing the youth of our community for their jobs of being good citizens in these times which require a more enlightened citizenry. We, who were fortunate in being part of Boston University in the past, have a duty to serve our Alma Mater now, and thereby increase the capabilities of our own community for a secure future.

The Greater Lawrence Alumni Club is the proud donor of a scholarship to some Greater Lawrence student who is desirous of attending Boston University. All the money that we raise goes toward that end. It is our desire to be able to offer two such scholarships in the near future. With this in mind we are conducting an extensive membership campaign.

The following activities have been planned:

On March 11th, Mr. Everett Hicks, of the Department of School and College Relations, will conduct a career conference. Mr. Hicks will be in Lawrence at the invitation of the local club to speak to a group of students from this area, who will be guests of the organization for an evening’s entertainment. In previous years this type of activity has met with success and as a result many students have gone to Boston University who might have gone elsewhere. We expect to enjoy the same success this year that we have had in the past.

On April 21, a scholarship Card Party is to be held. The Committee, under the direction of Marie Torpey, chairman, and Jean Witzgall, co-chairman, has already completed plans to make this event a success. It is hoped that this can become an annual affair.

The annual president’s dinner is under discussion. We are confident that this will meet with as much enthusiasm as it has since its inception. Complete plans will be given in a future issue of Bostonia.
The Boston University Club of the North Shore had as guest speaker at Sports Night meeting of March 4th, Buff Donelli, Football Coach and Athletic Director of the University. As invited guests there were local high school coaches. Shown left to right: Mel Palombo of Lynn Classical High School; Stan Bonekevitch of Swampscott High School; James E. Tchobig, Ed'46, a member of the Lynn School Committee and former basketball coach at Lynn Classical High School, a member of the Club's Board of Governors who acted as master of ceremonies; Herman Hasson of Marblehead High School; Buff Donelli, and Francis L. Harsutz, B'27,E'33, the Club's president.

The Lawrence Club is moving ahead. However, we need the support of all the alumni in the area to increase our usefulness to Boston University and our community.

HARTFORD CLUB

Plans are under way for "High School Night," to be held on March 25, under the sponsorship of the Hartford Club. For the third year the alumni are presenting a program to assist the University's recruiting efforts in the central Connecticut area.

There are two objectives in the plan: one is to give the members of the Club an opportunity to learn what is going on at the University; the other, to acquaint prospective students with the University through some of its present outstanding students. Over two hundred prospective freshmen are invited from local high schools. The list includes all those who have recently inquired for information at the University or in some other manner have been included on the "prospect list." The names are obtained from the School and College Relations Department.

The program this year will open with a talk on careers by Dr. Leonard Joll of the Connecticut Department of Education. He will be followed by Professor John McCarthy of the University. Six seniors are selected for a panel discussion on "college life." They will represent six Colleges at the University. Professor McCarthy will be chairman of the panel. Invited guests and alumni are urged to question the students during the period following the panel.

The Hartford Club is also active in raising a scholarship fund to make it possible for one local high school student to enter the University each year under the Alumni Association's plan of matching in amount the fund raised by the local group. One recipient of a Hartford scholarship is now a student at the College of Education.

RHODE ISLAND CLUB

"Students' Night" of prospective Boston University students was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris S. Waldman, in Providence, Rhode Island, on December 10, 1953, and twenty-four high school students attended. Everett E. Hicks, of the School and College Relations Office of Boston University, was present, showed the film of the activities of the University, as well as still slides, and answered numerous questions of the prospective students. The students represented some ten high schools and academies in Rhode Island.

So interesting was the discussion that the affair lasted until after midnight, although it started prior to 8:00 p.m. Mrs. Morris S. Waldman, wife of the President of the Boston University Club of Rhode Island, assisted by Mrs. Hicks, acted as hostess and served a buffet supper to those present.

Dr. Harold C. Case, President of Boston University, addressed the Pawtucket Business Chamber on November 30, 1953, and among the invited guests at the head table was the President of the Boston University Club of Rhode Island, and Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah E. O'Connell, who holds no less than four degrees from the University. In introducing Dr. Case, Judge O'Connell spoke about Boston University and finished by stating that the man at the head of it needed no introduction, as a great institution always has a great leader.

Dr. Case, in January, also addressed the British Empire Club of Providence, and has established an excellent reputation as a speaker in Rhode Island.

The Annual Banquet and Election of the Rhode Island Club has been set for Tuesday, April 27, at the Narragansett Hotel, Providence, Rhode Island, the election being held at 6:30 p.m. and the dinner at 7:00 p.m. The honored guest will be the President of Boston University, Dr. Case. It is expected that the Governor of Rhode Island, a Life Member of the Rhode Island Club, will also be present.

WOMEN'S CLUB OF WORCESTER

The Boston University Women's Club of Worcester continues its activity. A very successful Christmas Dinner Party was held on De-fields of sports were represented and heard from, Arthur Seigal, a B.U.'er, and Sports Editor of the Boston Traveler being Master of Ceremonies. President Alden Cooley presided. The 1953 World Series film was shown through the courtesy of the Boston Red Sox. Mr. Warren Spahn was among the notables in attendance.

The next Varsity Club meeting will be held on April 5, at the Varsity Club Room at Braves Field at 8:00 p.m. This room is almost completed, and will be as soon as more funds are received from VC men. This meeting will feature track coach "Doug" Raymond. "Doug" is a wonderful fellow, an interesting speaker, and he may have one or two nationally famous runners as his guests. Better plan now to be there.

The Annual Field Day will be held this year at Braves Field, on Saturday, April 24. The events will include a baseball game with Colby, a football game between the varsity and the alumni, plus some special events such as a short softball game for old grads. There is also a fine crew race on the Charles in the late afternoon. As the Charles River is right in back of the field, it will be a good take-in right after the Braves Field events are over. Cost will be $1.00 per person, with proceeds going to the Club’s Scholarship Fund and Trophy Committee. This is the first year for this event at Braves Field, and being much nearer for most people, should draw a record crowd. Watch newspapers for further developments.

BOSSON CLUB

The Club wishes to report a substantial increase in membership, due largely to the splendid efforts of Vice-President Gus Gannon. Every member added increases our scholarship fund another dollar. Male grads working and living in the vicinity of Boston are invited to join with us. The Club has a special table daily at the City Club, on the 7th floor of the Thompson Spa building, on City Hall Avenue. A few members show up every day and anyone wishing to join us should drop in for lunch and sign up with one of the Club officers. Luncheon costs are very reasonable.

The Club is currently planning a musical in cooperation with the Boston University School of Music. This will be held on Tuesday, April 27, at 8:00 p.m., at the Esquire Theatre. Tickets, $1.00 each, are being sent to all Club members, and anyone, whether a member of the Boston University Club of Boston or not, is cordially invited to attend and hear the wonderful Boston University Band in action. The program will include classical, semi-classical and popular music. This is a grand opportunity for all Boston University people to see the theater recently acquired by the University. All proceeds will go to our Scholarship Fund.
the great objectives which have been set for the years immediately ahead.

He was gratified by the enthusiasm, particularly on the part of the younger alumni, those who have obtained their diplomas within the last five years. The older graduates while tremendously interested in the plans have no nostalgic memories of a central campus.

Leaving Boston Sunday morning, January 10, by United Airlines plane he flew to Akron, Ohio, where on Sunday night he spoke at the First Methodist Church, the Rev. M. S. Harvey, minister. The following morning he flew to Cincinnati where he addressed members of the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the Methodist Church.

On January 12 he was guest speaker at a luncheon of the Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Netherlands Plaza Hotel. On Wednesday night he addressed members of the Cincinnati Alumni Club, at the Cincinnati Club.

The meeting was organized by Dr. Lynn James Radcliffe who received his STB degree from Boston University School of Theology in 1922. Now pastor of the Hyde Park Community Church, Cincinnati, formerly a member of the New England Conference.

While in the New England Conference he held pastorates at Modus, Connecticut, and at Hull. He was associate pastor of the College Avenue Church, West Somerville; pastor of the Tremont Street Church, Boston, 1928-29; the Copley Church on Newbury Street, and he was pastor of the West Somerville Church, 1929-35. He was president of the Boston Preachers' Association in 1932 and chairman of the United Temperance Committee of Massachusetts in 1934.

Dr. Gordon S. Skinner, B'48, was elected organizing chairman, and John Long, organizational secretary. After the meeting Dr. Case delivered a lecture and answered questions.

In Miami a well-attended dinner was held at Betty's Restaurant on Biscayne Boulevard. George Hollis Beebe, B'32, one of the mainsprings of alumni activity in the Miami area, is now managing editor of the Miami Herald, one of the world's great newspapers. His wife, the former Helen Lewis of Billings, Montana, is now librarian in one of the Miami high schools. She attended the dinner with him.

In Dallas, Dr. Case delivered the Payton lectures at Southern Methodist University. He took for the theme of a series of four lectures; "Vital Religion For These Days." His topics were; "No One Has All of God;" "Standing Up To Life;" "Recovery of Wonder;" and "Beyond Death."

The alumni dinner meeting in Dallas was held in the Cresspark Hotel with Robert Brenner, SPRC '52, as the chairman. The meeting was the first social function of the newly organized Boston University Club of Texas.

After a lecture by Dr. Case and a discussion of the University's progress in the past few years, the official Alumni Club Charter was presented to the Club's founding committee.

The reception culminated six months of intensive work and planning which began on September 1, 1953, when a young enthusiastic group of Texas alumni met in Dallas to plan for an all-state alumni club.

Among the members of the founding Club were: Robert Brenner, CBA'52; Harold Jorgenson, CBA'50; Ernie Rales, CBA'52; Pat Humphreys, SPRC'51; and Bob Werden, SPRC'52. Dean Guerin, CBA'47, a partner in a stock brokerage firm which is capitalized for $3,000,000 flew 600 miles in a company plane from El Paso to attend the meeting.

Holding top priority among the future plans of the Club is the inauguration of a scholarship fund so that deserving boys and girls from Texas may attend Boston University. The Club is planning to hold four dinner meetings during the year with special committee meetings when necessary to handle special business.

Dr. Case left Dallas by an American Airlines plane at 1:35 on Thursday, February 4, on an 800-mile trip and arrived in Phoenix, Arizona, at 5:35 p.m. an hour before the dinner at the Central Methodist Church.

An Arizona chapter of alumni was organized with the Rev. Robert H. Huebner, Theo'53, and pastor of a Phoenix church, as chairman. Mrs. Roger Ragan, A'53, was elected secretary; and Mrs. Charles K. Sharpe, treasurer. Another member of the Club is Peggy King who was one of the top leaders of Student Christian Association Work in New England during her student days at Boston University.

The Rev. Charles Shilling Kendall, T'39, and a former Gloucester boy, during the 12 years he has been in Phoenix as minister of Central Methodist Church, has recruited more full-time leaders for the Methodist ministry than any other man.

In addition to the alumni at the banquet were almost a dozen Boston University School of Theology students. These members of Central Methodist Church are planning for a full-time Christian service. More than 50 boys and girls have made their commitment for Christian service already. Some of them are already in churches, mission fields and other forms of service. Others are in seminars, some in college, and some coming up in high school.

Seven graduates of Boston University School of Theology are serving churches in different parts of the country. Five are currently students in Boston University School of Theology and two or three will enter as juniors next fall.

The San Francisco meeting was held in the banquet room of the famous Cliff House overlooking the Pacific Ocean above the Seal Rocks.
The sun was setting as the 50 alumni, guests and friends gathered for dinner. Many seals entertained the participants until darkness set in and dinner got underway.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Carrothers, lifetime friends of Dr. Case. Seated at the head table with Dr. Case were: Stuart Lundberg, president of the San Francisco chapter; Mr. and Mrs. Lou Ashe; the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Allen, friends of Dr. Case; Mrs. Lundberg; and James Dever, secretary-treasurer of the San Francisco Club.

Dr. Case thrilled those present with recollections of Boston University. His colored pictures brought back fond recollections for the many separated from their alma mater by so many thousands of miles.

In introducing Dr. Case, Mr. Ashe expressed pride “that our great University is surging ever forward in the field of research, education, and as a participant in the community and our American system.”

Dr. Case made many Bostonians homesick with stories about Boston Common, glowing with the lights of Christmas, the Old North Church and other scenes that brought waves of nostalgia for the old city to the many Bostonians present.

On Sunday morning, February 7, Dr. Case preached at the Fellowship (Interracial Church) in San Francisco. One of the members said smilingly that they had not planned to like Dr. Case because he had taken away their pastor, the renowned Dr. Howard Thurman to be Dean of Boston University Chapel where he has accomplished so much.

*Members of the committee who took part in preparing the meeting for Dr. Case were: President Lundberg, Secretary-Treasurer James Dever, Lou Ashe, William Hanley, Robert Todd, Lee Lipsie and Louis Robb.

Following the Los Angeles alumni breakfast, a meeting was held for University of Theology alumni at the Statler Hotel, Los Angeles, on Tuesday, February 9. Dr. J. Richard Sneed, minister of the First Methodist Church of Los Angeles, one of the largest Methodist churches in America, presided at the breakfast. Dr. George Akerson Warner, T‘35, detailed plans for the School of Theology endowment program. They were received with enthusiasm. The Rev. Dr. Luther Freeman, retired Methodist minister, and a member of the Class of A‘84 came to Los Angeles from Claremont to meet Dr. Case.

He has presented to the University the Bible of former President William Edwards Huntington, the “dear dean,” who became President of Boston University. “The ‘dear dean’ as we all called him was my counselor through college, and a few years later when he became president, he was a parishioner of mine in Newton Center. We were particularly close friends. After he died, Mrs. Huntington came to me one day and brought me the Dean’s Bible. I kept it for some time, and have recently been convinced that it should go to a more permanent location. That is the way I came to send it to Boston University.”

In Denver Dr. Case was the guest of honor at the meeting of the newly organized Denver Alumni Group in the Brown Palace on February 11. In an informal discussion led by Dr. Case, the University President explained to them the part they can play in maintaining the solidarity of their alma mater.

Sharing the spotlight with Dr. Case were Chancellor and Mrs. Chester M. Alter of Denver University. He was formerly dean of the Graduate School of Boston University. Dr. Alter’s arrival in Denver about six months ago signalled the formation of the Denver Club when a group of ex-students held a breakfast for their “fellow alumnus.”

The Rev. Roy W. Thomas T‘12, now retired, moved the group elect temporary officers to permanent positions. The following permanent officers were elected: Clarisse Ottman Anderson, Ed‘32, president; Howard B. Monahan, SW‘48, vice-president; and Jayne Keegan Brunley, SPRC‘49, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Alter was the first to pay his dues for membership in the new club. His $10 gave the treasury a good start. Six of the members had been in Colorado less than a year. They were: Elaine Ferguson, EC‘48; Gladys Bug, SW‘53; and Jack Rosenberg, Ed‘53. Another new member who has been in Colorado less than a year but was unable to attend the dinner, is Esther Olson, PAL‘47. The club paid its respects to the memory of Frank Keezer, L‘58. He was the oldest alumnus in Denver, and until his death early in December had been active. The Rev. Lincoln Y. Reed, A‘43, assisted Dr. Case in showing the slides. In addition to the officers, Evelyn A. Hallas, Sar‘50, assisted in arrangements for the dinner meeting.

Four days after coming home, Dr. Case once more left his home and fireside this time to address the Boston University Club of New York, at a banquet held in the Beekman Tower Hotel.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation of a $500 scholarship fund check to Dr. Case. Hobart Durham, CLA‘23, a member of the New York Club’s Board of Trustees, made the presentation establishing a scholarship fund on behalf of the New York Club before about 75 New York City area alumni. The New York Club’s scholarship fund money will be used by the University to aid a deserving New York City student to enter Boston University.

Dr. Ralph H. Cheney, CLA‘19, served as toastmaster for the dinner, and Shirley MacArthur Mus‘52, sang several songs for the members. Color slides were shown by Dr. Case, assisted by Leiter Bamberger, Jr., SPRC‘51.

Among those present at the New York Club’s annual dinner were: Dr. Ernest Maynard, CLA‘95/
688 Boylston Street. The docking time for the luncheon is at noon.

The crew is led by the co-captains Dorothy I. Warner and Lena H. Radwill. Members of the crew are: Mrs. Warren O. Ault (Myrtle), Miss Herbert S. Avery, President; Miss Eileen Flynn, Virginia Frye, Mrs. Ralph W. Hemminger (Jessamine M. Peckham), Joseph Lapidus, Mrs. James A. McDonald, (Evelyn Sears), Mrs. Frederick A. Meter (Louise Joyce), M. Esther Morrison, Loring Mugford, Ruth C. Pevear, and Vera L. Wright.

The reunion committee of the Class of 1904 of CLA held a committee meeting on March 2 with Herbert S. Avery as president. Letters and questionnaires have been sent to all 50-year class members urging a large representation and support of the $15 package program.

Serving on the committee are: Herbert S. Avery, President; Miss F. Winifred Given, Secretary; the President of the Class of 1904, Arthur M. Peckham, and seniors should write James A. McDonald, Jr., President, at 88 West 90th Street, New York City.

Interested New York area alumni and seniors should write James A. Argeros, CLA '51, President, at 382 West 90th Street, New York City. Other officers are Louise Viana, PAL '52, President; Robert Mitchell, CLA '52, Treasurer; and Robert M. McCauley, CBA '52, Vice-President in charge of membership; Joan Belcourt, CLA-PAL, Vice-President in charge of communications; and Richard Davis, CLA-PAL, Secretary of the Class of 1912 and treasurer.

REUNIONS

The Class of 1949 of CLA is planning a reunion at the Hotel Somerset on June 5. Robert Chadbourne is president and Edward Davis is chairman of the reunion committee.

The Class of 1934 PAL has set May 15 as the date of their reunion. Mrs. Daniel J. Sullivan of Weymouth will get in touch with class members by letter with further details. It is believed that instead of gifts of silver or linen to the College, this year the Class will make contributions to the Dean Davis Scholarship Fund.

The Class of 1939 CBA is planning a reunion at the Hotel Somerset on June 5. Robert Chadbourne is President and Edward Davis is Chairman of the reunion committee.

A luncheon for members of the alumni association, the faculty and the graduating class will be held at the School of Public Relations and Communications, at noon on June 5. This will be followed by a short business meeting of the alumni association at which the alumni annual award will be made to some outstanding person in any one of the fields connected with the School.

The Class of 1949 of CLA is planning its reunion with a social hour at a hotel near the University on Saturday, from 3 to 5 p.m. Light refreshments, music and dancing will be enjoyed and there will be for all Class members from Friday until Sunday noon.

Barbara O. Brown, class secretary for the Class of 1934, CLA, writes that the 20th reunion will be held at the Myles Standish Hotel, on Friday, June 4. Guy Petralia, chairman, has promised an exciting evening with many laughs and surprises. The program is being planned under the direction of the Class President, Dr. Myron Matz.

Five years ago the late Dean T. Lawrence Davis, began the custom of inviting the 25-year class of PAL to a luncheon as his guests at the Larz Anderson Memorial Center.

Although his untimely death brought an end to his generous hospitality, Miss Carla Paaske, registrar at PAL-BU has arranged for the Class to meet at the Center on May 8 at 1 p.m. as guests of the College. The event is one that no one in the class can afford to miss.

a chance to meet former classmates.

The School of Medicine reunions will be held Saturday afternoon, May 1. They will be devoted to the 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45, and 50-year classes.

The 79th anniversary meeting and banquet of the School of Medicine Alumni will be held at New England Mutual Hall, 225 Clarendon Street, at 7 p.m., preceded by a social hour at 6 p.m.

The CLA 1938 family reunion will be held at noon on Saturday, June 5, at 77 Temple Street, Newton. Eleanor Dempsey and Eleanor Cooley are co-chairmen. Constance Danor, John Carey and John Shaw are committee members.

Mrs. Yvonne Broadcorens, chairman of the 25-year class of CBA has been planning a comprehensive program for this get-together. The committee has held several meetings of the School whose old building is gone with the wind but whose spirit lives on. Her committee includes Hy Teich, Arnold Rigby, William Goodale, Ruth Hyatt, Joseph French, Arthur Long. The major function will be a luncheon at the Hotel Kenmore on Saturday, June 5.

The Class of 1914 of CLA will hold their reunion luncheon at the Faculty Club on Alumni Day.

The thirtieth reunion week-end of June 5 and 6 of CBA and ECC 24 is now being planned and will be announced soon.

The Alumni of PAL will gather May 8 to commemorate the founding of the College 35 years ago. During the afternoon there will be open house at 27 Garrison Street. At night there will be a reception and dinner to the Faculty at the Hotel Statler. Special guests will include: President and Mrs. Harold C. Case, Dean and Mrs. J. Wendell Yeo, Dr. Frank E. Barton, President of the General Alumni Association, and Randall W. Weeks, Executive Secretary. Members and former members of the PAL Faculty have also been invited. Chairmen assisting Prudence Mathews, President of the PAL Alumni Association include: Hazel (Swanson) Roberts, '33; Dorothy Dickenson, '35; Alice (Trainor) Brennan, '32; Carla Pauske, '35; and Elizabeth Hemmerly, '37.

inception, found in 1939 that the Inn was serving, in one way or another, more than 500 boys per year and about 140 of them on an other than transient basis. Among the non-transients were recidivist delinquents of long standing and with a wide diversity of criminal records, together with youths who were merely chronic runaways or stubborn school truants.

"Occasionally semi-pro athletes turned up and we had a couple of young prize fighters. A dozen or so Negroes were in the group, as well as Irish, French, Poles, Swedes, Italians, Old Americans, and almost every other nationality, together with seemingly limitless mixtures and blends.

"There were Catholics, Protestants, Jews and many who were innocent of professed religion. The range of IQ's would normally run from about 50 to 140, with the mean rather below the average for the general population but not very far below. Psychoneurotics abounded along with a number of epilepsies and a few who were either psychotic or pre-psychotic. The age range was mainly from 15 to 21, with a small sprinkling of youths a few years older, who were continuing an educational or delinquency program begun earlier."

"Out of this heterogeneous young population Dr. Hartl has salvaged many boys. Some of his boys have gone to school to become doctors, lawyers, missionaries, ministers and skilled workers in many crafts.

"From 1945 to the present the Charles Hayden Goodwill Inn has cooperated closely with 50 different social agencies in dealing with troubled boys. As a group-placement resource the Inn is making a direct and practical attack on the problem of juvenile delinquency.

But whereas the Inn might be sort of a "pool of troubled boys" for psychologists, to Dr. and Mrs. Hartl, the Inn has been both their workshop and their home. Since 1939 they have occupied a fifth floor apartment. Mrs. Hartl has worked shoulder to shoulder with her husband. While living here they have reared their own family of three boys, Robert, David and William whose ages are now respectively 13, 15 and 18.

Mrs. Hartl, incidentally, has an imposing list of accomplishments in the religious field. She is a past president of the United Church Women of Massachusetts; chairman of the Christian Social Relations and local church activities for the Women's Society of Christian Service of the New England Conference of the Methodist Church; and a member of the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Council of Churches. She is also a member of the board of managers of the Central Department of Field Administration of the National Council of Churches.

Lloyd W. Miller, a social worker and assistant to the director serves also as the executive secretary of the Goodwill Associates, a group of 150 business and professional men of Greater Boston who give their time and talents to help the boys at the Hayden Goodwill Inn. He took his Master's degree in the Boston University School of Social Service.

Felix P. Heald, M.D., director of the Adolescent Unit of the Children's Medical Center of Boston, makes his Center's resources available when he participates in the case conference at the Goodwill Inn.

Royden C. Richardson, now a graduate student at the Boston University School of Theology is director of group work.

There is nothing hit or miss to his methods. Each boy who enters the Inn in need of understanding and guidance undergoes a three-fold study that includes a complete physical examination, a conference with his parents and interested persons, a study of his school and behavioral record, and the usual psychiatric tests.

One of four programs is recommended following an initial study. These include additional schooling with a certain amount of work in the Morgan Memorial enterprise or in the Goodwill Inn program, in return for maintenance and services received. Scholarship assistance is provided often.

A work program is sometimes recommended if the boy lacks ability or interest in school. If character readjustment is needed a "sheltered workshop" plan may be arranged in the Goodwill Industries or the Harry K. Noyes Industrial training program until the boy has reached the necessary stability to be placed in legitimate industry.

For boys earning small wages outside and working towards support, a low-cost room and board program is worked out. Residence at Goodwill Inn is sometimes recommended in order that supervision may be given to leisure-time activities and general conduct, and counsel made available when needed.

A short-term program is sometimes arranged at the Inn for those whose future is being planned. The summer camp program at Athol, called the Charles Hayden Goodwill Village (part of the Morgan Memorial Fresh Air Camps), offers unique opportunities for camping, recreation and work.

Without the help of Dr. Hartl and his staff many of these boys might easily fall into a life of crime. The Inn supplies the often ameliorative influence that other individuals or agencies request in order to help a boy through a crisis or a difficult period.

The Inn was built as the result of a gift from the Charles Hayden Foundation. The benefactor died in 1937. He believed strongly that the future of the nation and of the world depends on the quality of the boys and the men which are produced. The proper training of youth and manhood, he thought, was the key to the whole situation.

sight into familiar phases of life's groupings.

He noted that none of the 20 speakers had denied the need or the possibility of collaboration between the social scientist and the man of practical experience.

In conclusion, Dr. Benne noted the problem in human relations mentioned by Mr. Kenneth D. Burke of Bennington College, speaking on "Language and Symbolism," the barrier of language in effective collaboration. This barrier is not one of many mutually foreign tongues, but one of choosing words that fail to communicate the thoughts of the speaker.

"Agreement must come first of all," Dr. Benne said, "on a precise set of terms to be used for facilitating discussion, before collaboration in the field of human relations may become a reality."

He announced that Boston University will collect all of the Founders' Day addresses into a published volume to be available next fall.

Among the 18 top scholars who were heard during the institute were: Professor Detley W. Bronk, president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research; Professor of Philosophy John D. Wild, of Harvard; Professor John Herman Randall, Jr., of Columbia; Kenneth Burke, lecturer and writer; Professor Clyde Kluckhohn, professor of anthropology at Harvard; Attorney Robert L. Carter, counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Professor George R. Harrison, dean of science, Massachusetts Institute of Science; Lawrence K. Frank, former director of Zachry Institute of Human Development in New York City; Professor Prem-
SPORTS

30. Villanova (November 6) and Boston College (November 13) ... The exact site of the last game, however, is still undecided.

The advantage of a schedule which requires a minimum of travel is hard to estimate unless you've done considerable traveling and recall the tired feeling which usually follows ... When you remember that phenomenon, you'll understand why the home team can figure the visitor's trip as the equivalent of a two-touchdown handicap.

We've listed Buff's problems for the spring but the players have a poser of their own with which to contend ... Just how are they going to move the ball against the Alumni team (April 24) which will be bulwarked by six of last fall's starting linemen.

SPRING DAZE ... Look for Boston University spring sports to be on the upswing after a rather dismal winter ... Track, the one bright spot of the snow months should lead the way outdoors with such worthies as Bruce Hescock, Tom Covington, John Kelley, Bill Shearer, Bernie Bruce and Dick Palmieri, ready for action ... Tom Kerr, scholastic tennis champion from Belmont, heads tennis team candidates ... Golf Captain Leo Mullin led his teammates on a week-long Southern tour in March with matches against Wake Forest, North Carolina State and University of North Carolina in preparation for a 16-match schedule.

Spring sleeper could be Jim Nesworthy's oarsmen who journeyed South to warm up against Rollins during spring vacation ... So sharp is the rowing delegation that three of last year's varsity members — including the captain — are rowing in the jayvee boat ... Chief returnee here is Irwin "Sonny" Fox, probably the best rower in the East, who re-entered school in January after two years in the Marine Corps ... The blonde giant (6'4, 235 pounds) also delighted Buff Donelli by indicating that he would report for spring football.

SPORTS IN RETROSPECT ... A long, long winter for most teams but some bright spots were burned through the overcast by the likes of Jack Murphy, Kevin Thomas, John Nuzziato, and the track team ... Murphy stood out on Harry Cleverly's undermanned hockey team as he ranked as top goal-getter in New England and was picked as collegiate "rookie of the year" ... Lanky (6'8) Kevin Thomas gave promise of helping Matt Zunic's hoopsters into the foreground of New England basketball as he combined with Johnny Nuzziato (high scorer with a 15-point average) to spark a team which won seven of its last nine games including a thriller from B.C.

Big thrill of the winter was the "almost" IC4A championship turned in by Doug Raymond's tracksters ... The Terriers lost to Yale 19-18% and, with normal performances by some of the lads, might have won easily ... The Scarlet got the jump in the afternoon when Bernie Bruce and Tom Covington combined to pick up nine points in the broad jump by finishing one-two ... Then Junior Bruce Hescock got over 14 feet to win the pole vault and had a tie for third at six-four in the high jump ... Other scorers were Johnny Kelley with two points in the two-mile and Billy Smith with a fifth in the mile.

Look for improvement in both hockey and basketball next fall ... The icemen will add goalie Don Aiken, probably the best netminder in New England ... He had to transfer from West Point last fall after he was married and will be a terrific performer around which Cleverly can build ... The freshman basketball team finished up with a 15-3 record and you'll be hearing from such big men as Dwight Hubbard (6'4) of Quincy, Tom Kelly (6'5) of Beverly and Fred Toomey (6'3) of Dorchester and back court operatives Charlie Fiorino, Len Dempsey of Medford and Jim Fleming of Braintree.

Coach John Toner's office was littered with enough trophies to crowd Attleboro out of the silverware business after his skiers got through leading the New England Conference down the trails of northern New England ... The Terriers won three of the first five slalom series including the Walter Foley Trophy, A.I.C. Winter Carnival and Johansen Trophy ... Arlington's Carl Fuller and Ted McDavitt each won individual honors twice while Ted's brother Don and freshman Bob Dunn were consistent scorers.

TERRIER SHORTS ... Tom Gastall has been elected 1954-55 basketball captain ... Paulo Leao de Moura, Jr., son of the Brazilian Consul in Boston and a leading epee man, will captain Larry Dargie's fencing team ... The Eastern sectional championships of the National Rifle Association were held at the University range March 20 for the third successive year ... Competitors included Union, Connecticut, Coast Guard, Rhode Island, Providence, M. I. T., Harvard and New Hampshire.

Note to interested alumni in the New York and Connecticut area ... In the last few months we have received letters from Terrier graduates in these states asking why scores of Boston University games weren't appearing in their local papers ... We'd like to pass along word that our scores are carried on the Associated Press sports wire and are available to all Eastern and most U. S. papers ... If your paper doesn't give you these scores, we suggest that you drop a note to the sports editor and tell him you'd like to see the scores printed ... You'll be amazed at the prompt results you get with a few such letters and you certainly will be helping to spread the word about Terrier sports!
COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

1906 — On February 28, at their winter home in Orlando, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cole entertained a group of '86 classmates who are spending this winter in Florida. Present were: Susan Tidd Heald and Mr. Heald, Grace Emerson, Louise Thauber, Margaret Shirley Turner, Lilian Decatur, Leota Cole Carmean, '07, and two friends of the group. A buffet supper was served, past and present days talked about, and a look ahead to the 50th reunion in 1956. The William Marshall Warren Award was bestowed at the Epsilon Reunion, March 12, on Joan King. The class of 1938. Members of '06 are delighted to have the award go to so outstanding a student, already "one of the most resourceful and dependable student leaders." We feel sure she will carry on the ideals of Dean Warren. . . . Esther Willard Bates, Grad '12, of Brick, New Jersey, keeps her pen brightly burning by writing a tri-weekly column, "Woman's Way" for the Frederick News. Florence Butterworth has been spending the winter months in Boston. . . . Judge Emma Fall Scholfield, Late '08/30, spent several weeks in Florida . . . Ethel Piper Avery has returned from visiting her son, Dr. Harlow Avery, in Pecos, Texas. Ethel's latest responsibility is the very important post as president of The Boston University Women's Council . . . We sympathize with two of our classmates in their recent sorrow; Elizabeth Murphy lost her mother in December, and Margaret Houston Johnston lost her son-in-law in January.

1910 — Mildred Cuthbertson Armstrong is a faithful correspondent and friend, whose marvelous courage and optimism is slowly but surely bringing her back to health after a serious auto accident suffered three years ago. Through her, word has come of the continued illness of Ardine Jaques Forrest at her home in New Jersey. Also, of Carrie Davis Hawes in Bountiful, California, who wrote at Christmas, that after having had the misfortune to break her wrist earlier, she was "just beginning to come back enough to indulge in a few activities." She added news of a happy vacation visit from Gertrude Koman, who for many years has been a teacher in the California School for the Blind at Berkeley. From the west coast also greetings from Louise Nelson Woodworth saying that her daughter, Betty, is now a child welfare worker in the Califomia School for the Blind at Berkeley. From the west coast also greetings from Louise Nelson Woodworth saying that her daughter, Betty, is now a child welfare worker in the Califomia School for the Blind at Berkeley.

1917 — Myrtle E. Whittemore, author of "Flote Concerto of Sidney Lanier," has been honored by a festival and recital in Georgia during the past winter. Besides reviewing her book to many Music Clubs and Chapters of the D. A. R., she has responded to roll call of authors by Georgia Writers in Atlanta and by Georgia Press in the University of Georgia, Athens. Her book was published by Pageant Press, New York City, last summer. . . . Joyce A. Fairchild, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Bart Jank Bok of Belmont, became the bride of John Rea Ambro- bruster, Jr., on December 22. Mrs. Bok is the former Priscilla Fairfield.

Previously, Miss Dillon was a service club director and handled the recreation program at Fort Devens. She also had experience in this type of work as head of the hostess group at the Army and Navy Y.M.C.A. at Fort Devens, Massachusetts. G. Leonard, Med '46, has opened offices at 136 Main Street, Lymington Center, and 8 Porter Street, Melrose, for the practice of obstetrics and gynecology. Dr. Leonard, who holds the rank of Lieutenant, recently was released from the U. S. Navy. He is married to the former Barbara A. Hennessy of Salem.

1945 — Dr. Charles B. Black has announced the opening of his new office where he will resume the practice of dentistry in Reading. He has practiced dentistry in Wilmington and An- dover, and had served as a dental officer in the United States Navy for 34 months . . . Excerpts from a letter written by Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Loomis (Ruby Grace Lush); Major, Marsh- shall Islands, Trust Territory of the Pacific, U. S. A.: "As the cold winds blow and you shudder through snow, think of us here in balmy brisl winds. No sweaters, no coats; just raincoats, and do we use them! We appreciate your letters, and your prayers for us and the people. Please continue praying for the school, which is run by the islanders, for the islanders. This year student government has been initiated, and we think it has contributed to a better school spirit. Pray, too, for both of us as we learn the lan- guage and as the translation work is beginning; for the more efficient use of our time, that other tasks may not obscure the Bible translation work for which we came out here; for our classics; for our knowledge and understanding of the people, of their needs, and of the way they think, which is very different from our ways of thinking; for our love for them and wisdom in teaching and all of our dealings with them. Pray for all of God's children in the islands, that they might understand God's ways for them, which are the best ways. Finally, pray for all of the Marshall people, that all might understand clearly the issues of life and the choice which is theirs to be followers of Jesus Christ or the 'world.'"

While Keith A. Yoder, Elkheart, Ind., worked his way through the University of Michigan, he had no pin-pointed plans for the future.

But when he came out of military service, he wanted, in his own words, "security, freedom of action, and a job with no ceiling on salary or effort."

He found such a job with New England Mutual. Now, within a comparatively few years, he has realized his objectives. He has security through the New England Mutual retirement plan. He has a substantial income. He has qualified for the elite Million Dollar Round Table two years in a row. He has earned for himself a respected place in his community.

"Why wouldn't I like the life insurance business?" Mr. Yoder asks. "It has provided the opportunity for me to build the kind of career I wanted."

If you, too, are looking for "security, freedom of action, and a job with no ceiling on salary or effort," it may pay you to investigate the opportunities offered at New England Mutual. Mail the coupon below for a booklet in which 15 men tell why they chose a career with New England Mutual.

They tell me Long Distance calls are mighty cheap. How much would you say these calls would be?

Baltimore to Philadelphia
Chicago to St. Louis
Washington to Detroit
Jacksonville to Indianapolis
Boston to San Francisco

We find that most people don't realize how low Long Distance rates really are. So we put on this little telephone quiz to give you some typical rates.

Small in cost, a Long Distance call can mean so much to someone who is dear but distant. Warm, familiar voices melt the miles between—and leave an extra measure of pleasure at each end of the line.

Somewhere today there is someone who would like to hear your voice.

Save Time... Call by Number
When you're calling out-of-town, it will speed your call if you give the operator the number you want. It's easier, too.
