2005-01-27

Panel discussion: The US and Europe: still sharing the same values?

Peel, Quentin

Boston University Institute for Human Sciences

http://hdl.handle.net/2144/20148

Boston University
Board of Directors

Timothy Garton Ash  Director, Center for European Studies, St. Antony's College, Oxford

Irena Grudzinska Gross  Professor of Modern Languages and Literatures, Boston University (Executive Director)

James Hoge  Editor-in-Chief, Foreign Affairs

Ira Katznelson  Ruggles Professor of Political Science and History, Columbia University

Michael Mertes  Partner at “dimap consult”, a think tank based in Bonn and Berlin

Krzysztof Michalski  Professor of Philosophy, Boston University; Rector, IWM, Vienna (Chair)

Pierre Rosanvallon  Director of Studies, Centre de Recherches Politiques Raymond Aron, EHESS, Paris; Professor of Modern and Contemporary Politics, Collège de France

Lilia Shevtsova  Senior Associate, Carnegie Moscow Center

Aleksander Smolar  Senior Research Fellow at the CNRS, Paris; President, Stefan Batory Foundation, Warsaw

Fareed Zakaria  Editor-in-Chief, Newsweek International

The Institute for Human Sciences at Boston University serves as a forum for new, non-partisan debate, research, and education in the matters of international (especially transatlantic) relations, introducing European insights and experiences to American debates on major social and political issues, and bringing American perspectives to bear on European discussions. It is affiliated with the Vienna based Institut für die Wissenschaften vom Menschen (IWM).

The Goethe-Institut is a non-profit organization with more than 140 institutes worldwide. Its mission is to promote the German language and to foster international cultural cooperation. The Goethe-Institut Boston presents a broad range of events on German culture and society, often in cooperation with New England institutions.

Goethe-Institut Boston
170 Beacon Street
Boston, MA 02116
www.goethe.de/uk/bos/