Poetry reading and discussion: Poetics between languages: the Turkish-German experience

Senocak, Zafer
Boston University Institute for Human Sciences

http://hdl.handle.net/2144/20151
Boston University
Zafer Senocak | Elizabeth Oehlkers-Wright

Poetics between Languages: The Turkish-German Experience
A reading and conversation at the Institute for Human Sciences
Moderator: Askold Melnyczuk

Zafer Senocak has been living in Germany since 1970, where he has become a leading voice in the German discussions on multi-culturalism, national and cultural identity, and a mediator between Turkish and German culture.

Elizabeth Oehlkers Wright has been translating contemporary German poets for years. Door Languages, a selection of Senocak's poems in her translation was published by Zephyr Press in Fall 2008.

Askold Melnyczuk is founder and former editor of AGNI, professor at UMass Boston and in Bennington's MFA program, and author of the new Europe-trotting, gripping, noirish family mystery The House of Widows.

In cooperation with the Center for International Relations at Boston University and the literary journal AGNI. Co-sponsored by the American Literary Translators Association (ALTA) and Zephyr Press. Funded by the European Commission Delegation in Washington DC.

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC |
RECEPTION TO FOLLOW

Thursday, March 19, 2009
6:30 PM
Boston University Photonics Center
8 St. Mary's Street

More Information:
617-358-2778 tel
ihs@bu.edu
www.euforyou.org