HOYTE NAMED TRUSTEE AT THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

Boston, Mass.--James S. Hoyte, Esq., was recently appointed by Governor Michael Dukakis to the Board of Trustees of the University Hospital (UH) in Boston. Hoyte is one of five UH trustees appointed by the governor.

Currently a member of the Land Use and Environmental Law Group at Choate, Hall and Stewart, Hoyte served the Commonwealth as its secretary of environmental affairs from 1983 through 1988.

In 1984, he was responsible for drafting legislation that led to the creation of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority. While serving as the first chairman of the board of that agency from 1985 through 1988, he launched a $3.4 billion program to clean up Boston Harbor and began the planning for augmenting the Eastern Massachusetts water supply.

Over the years, Hoyte has also held the positions of vice president and management consultant at the Arthur D. Little Company and secretary-treasurer and director of administration for the Massachusetts Port Authority.

A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, he also completed the Program for Management Development (PMD) at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, and the Program for Senior Executives in State and Local Government at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government.

Selected as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Leaders of Greater Boston by the Greater Boston Junior Chamber of Congress in 1976, Hoyte was also the 1987 recipient of the Frederick Douglass Award of the Boston YMCA for political and social contributions to the Boston community. In 1985, he was also awarded the Governor Francis Sargent Award for contributions to the clean up of Boston Harbor.
Hoyte is also a member of the Board of Directors of One Thousand Friends of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Health Research Institute. He is a trustee of several organizations, including the Massachusetts Bays Trust Fund, the Boston Harbor Association, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, and the Thompson Island Outward Bound Education Center.

Says J. Scott Abercrombie, M.D., president of the University Hospital, "We feel very privileged to have such a distinguished member of the political and business community on our board, and we look forward with pleasure to working with him."

The University Hospital, founded in 1855, is a principal teaching hospital of Boston University School of Medicine and a member of Boston University Medical Center.
