Mr. Kimball was born in Dedham, Mass., in 1872. He is a descendant on his mother's side of the Fairbanks family, who were among the first settlers of Dedham. His father was for many years a teacher in the Boston public schools. Mr. Kimball prepared for college in the Dedham schools. After graduating from the College of Liberal Arts in 1894, he entered educational work and from 1895 until 1900 he was a high school principal. Since 1900 he has been engaged in business and is a partner of the investment house Kimball, Russell & Co. He has been a trustee of the University since 1913. The alumni of the College of Liberal Arts, through the officers of the Epsilon Chapter, and the women graduates of all departments through the Women Graduates' Club, sent greetings and flowers. A few of his most intimate friends made personal calls, but it was found necessary to spare Dr. Warren the strain of a public reception. He is a constant student and maintains correspondence with leading men in various departments of academic activity.

Pervading the book is a mysterious charm, which drives the reader to the great out of doors in the vague hope that he may see with his own eyes some of the wonders of Mother Nature which Dr. Sharp reveals.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Many have taken advantage of the Luncheon Courses offered for executives on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at the Boston City Club and the Boston Chamber of Commerce respectively. Professor Harold Whitehead, Head of the Sales Relations Department, conducted those at the City Club, touching upon the problems which confront the modern executives; those at the Chamber of Commerce were under the direction of Franklin W. Ganse, a man of national reputation as a speaker and writer on the subjects of this course which laid special emphasis on Inheritance Taxes. The success of the venture appears to warrant similar courses in the near future.

An article by Professor Irving C. Whittemore, of the Department of Psychology, on "The Influence of Competition on Performance; An Experimental Study," which appeared in the Journal of Abnormal Psychology and Social Psychology has been reprinted in pamphlet form.

During February Dean Lord made a speaking tour of the South, during which he addressed the students of the University of Pittsburgh, George Washington University and the University of North Carolina.

During the month of February a series of five lectures was given under the direction of the English Department to raise funds for the establishment of a library to be known as the Crawford Memorial Library. The speakers, who generously gave their services, were all prominent educators and notable speakers. The college has met with a real loss in the death of Professor Crawford, and it is to be hoped that the fund will warrant the early establishment of a fitting memorial in recognition of his services.

COLLEGE OF PRACTICAL ARTS AND LETTERS

The startling report regarding the housing of students in Boston did not affect this department of the University directly, inasmuch as the living conditions of the students are studied and guarded faithfully by a committee of fourteen women members of the faculty. The members of this committee visit the girls and make reports to the Dean regarding the points which he considers vital. To friends who are interested in this particular problem, the following rule of the College may be worth reading: "Each student who does not reside with her parents or in one of the College dormitories is requested to consult the Dean before engaging a room. In the case of girls who do not reside with their parents or guardians, the College reserves the right to require a change in boarding place whenever the Dean considers such change desirable."

During the next few weeks the annual talks on vocational guidance will take place and the girls of the College, through group meetings and personal conferences, will be aided in shaping their plans for the future. These talks are given first in connection with the Freshman course in "College Life and Problems" in order that each girl may begin to study her own case soon after entering college. Personal conferences pertaining to the various occupations for women are held during the first and subsequent years of each student's college career.

The Graduate School of the University is now permitting candidates for higher degrees to take certain courses in the College of Practical Arts and Letters, for which credit is granted toward the degree of Master of Arts. At the present time such students are enrolled in the Departments of Spanish and English.

Sixteen candidates are now attempting to earn the new degree of Bachelor of Science in the College of Practical Arts and Letters this coming June.

SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY

Of the twenty-five most influential living Protestant clergymen of America, as indicated by the poll of 25,000 ministers made by the Christian Century, five received their theological training in the School of Theology of Boston University: Dean Charles Reynolds Brown, '89; Dr. Charles Edward Jefferson, '87; Bishop William Fraser McDowell, '82; Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, '92; Bishop Francis John McConnell, '97.

Stringfellow and Reverend Walter Van Kirk of Lynn, and Dr. W. H. Powell of Cambridge.

These lectures have been delivered in Robinson Chapel by Dr. W. H. Watters, Dr. Wesley T. Lee, Dr. Walter Mendenhall, and Dr. Samuel R. Meaker and have dealt with Personal Hygiene and Preventive Medicine.

sity of Berlin, and one of the most distinguished authorities on Missions in the world today, was the guest of the School of Theology on March 18 and 19, speaking before appreciative audiences on "The Progress of Christian Missions."

Dean Beebe was absent for a period of several weeks visiting Colleges of the Middle West in the interest of the School of Theology, speaking before student organizations and interviewing students interested in theological courses. During his absence his classes were cared for by Professor Adolphus Linfield, and Dr. J. Edgar Park, of the Second Congregational Church of West Newton.

Professor Albert C. Knudson has brought out through the Abingdon Press a book entitled "Present Tendencies in Religious Thought." The work embodies the Mendenthal lectures which Dr. Knudson delivered at DePauw University. The reviewer of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Eagle, says of the book: "The author has set for himself a big task and he performs it with skill."

Professor Knudson, upon invitation of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, delivered a series of addresses on "Some Fundamental Problems in Theology" at its annual session in March, held in the Chambersburg, Penn., Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Reverend William M. Taylor, of the class of 1919, is the pastor.

Professor George C. Cell has agreed with the editors and publishers of Ueberweg's "History of Philosophy" to write the section on the "History of American Thought" for the new edition of that work, to be published in about a year. The Ueberweg history is considered the most important work on philosophy in any language. Professor Cell's contribution will cover sixty pages.

SCHOOL OF LAW

The Bigelow Association of Masters of Laws in co-operation with the alumni of the School of Law are planning a memorial to the late Dean Melville M. Bigelow. The memorial will take the form of a portrait of Dr. Bigelow; it is to be hung in the building of the School of Law and will be unveiled at the commencement exercises next June.

The Bigelow Club, an association of undergraduates for the perpetuation of the memory of Dean Bigelow will co-operate in raising funds for the portrait. The Club was founded several years ago by Russell D. Greene, then a student, and now instructor in equity on the faculty of the School of Law.

A portrait of Dean Albers, painted by I. M. Gaugengigl of Boston, as a commission from the students and alumni of the School, has been completed and was shown at the Guild of Boston Artists at the beginning of April. The portrait will be unveiled in the building of the Law School during the coming commencement. At the same time the portrait of former Dean Melville M. Bigelow will be unveiled. The Bigelow portrait is being painted by H. Cyrus Farnham of Providence, R. I.

Dean Albers delivered an address before the Boston Y. M. C. A. at the Sunday afternoon service on February 22, on the subject "What Constitutes Real Success."

Dean Albers spoke on Thursday, March 12, at Providence, R. I., before the Rhode Island Citizens Historical Society on the theme "American International Inconsistencies."

Dean Albers presided at the debate of the Boston University team with Rutgers College on Friday evening, March 27, at the College of Practical Arts and Letters. The subject was "Resolved: That Congress shall by a two-thirds vote have the power to declare operative a statute which has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court." Boston University took the negative side of the question and was awarded the decision.

The debaters from the School of Law have won many laurels in the continuous triumphs of the University Debating Team during the present academic year.

The Boston University Law School Association on Saturday, February 7, at the New American House, Boston, gave a dinner in honor of the elevation of Judge George A. Sanderson to the Supreme Court and of the selection of Judge Charles H. Donahue and Judge David A. Lourie to the bench of the Superior Court and the choice of Judge Joseph T. The address on "The Right to Arrest," which David Greer, Director of the Boston University School for Police, gave on Wednesday evening, March 4, was broadcasted from Station WEEL. The address was typical of the specific law training given the officers at the School. The purpose of the course is to train officers in those elements of the law which they should know in order to be of the highest efficiency in the discharge of their duties.

Judge Robert Grant, of Boston, addressed the School of Law on Tuesday afternoon, March 31, on "A Uniform Divorce Law." His address was the first of a series to be given under the auspices of the Bigelow Club, an organization to commemorate the late Dr. Melville M. Bigelow, former Dean of the School of Law.

The Seniors of the School of Law held their annual Senior Prom at the Hotel Somerset on Tuesday, February 17. Wives of the members of the faculty were patronesses. They included: Mrs. Homer Albers, Mrs. Harold M. Bowman, Mrs. James N. Carter, Mrs. Frank L. Simpson, and Mrs. Orvil W. Smith.

Robert Bushnell, Assistant District Attorney of Middlesex County, was added to the faculty of the School for Police last February. Mr. Bushnell is giving a course in the law of extradition, rendition, the presentation of cases, and court procedure.

When this term expired Governor Cox reappointed him. He has served as Chairman of the Finance Commission for five years.

'01. Herbert L. Carpenter was elected in February to the Superior Court bench of the State of Rhode Island. Judge Carpenter was born in Mendon, Mass., in 1878. He graduated from the Woonsocket, R. I., High School in 1898 and from the School of Law in 1901. He soon after began to practice in Woonsocket and continued his practice there until his election to the bench.

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

The School of Medicine of Boston University, with the medical schools of Tufts College and Harvard University, served as joint hosts to the Association of American Medical Colleges which convened in Boston on March 4, 5, 6, and 7. This meeting was the thirty-fifth annual gathering of the association which is made up of Class A medical schools. At the Saturday business session held at the Boston Medical Library, Dean Begg read his report on pre-medical education requirements.

The membership consists of sixty-eight American colleges and McGill University, Montreal, Canada.

On Tuesday morning, February 16, Dr. W. H. Watters addressed the students and faculty of the School of Theology of the University on "Preventive Medicine."

This was the first of a series of lectures on personal hygiene and preventive medicine by members of the faculty of the School of Medicine. The second address was given on Thursday, February 26, on "Personal Hygiene," by Dr. Wesley T. Lee.

Dean Alexander S. Begg was the speaker at the initiation of members into the College of Liberal Arts chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on Friday, April 3.

Dean Begg attended in Chicago the March meeting of the Council of Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

Student papers in the history of medical practice have been presented each week this year at the School of Medicine as an experiment in medical education.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

There is much interest in the program that has been offered by the Music Department of the College of Liberal Arts and the School of Education for a degree in Education for supervisors of music in the public schools. A circular is later to be issued to give desired information.

At the beginning of the second semester a group of nurses from the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital entered one of the School of Education classes and also, at the same time, certain classes of the Medical School. Between the Hospital and the School of Education a course will be offered that will lead to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education and will enable graduate nurses to secure greater skill for teaching in hospitals. All expenses of the nurses are paid by the hospital. It is believed by the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital that a course of this sort will attract the best group of young women who undertake the nurses' course, which in time is to fit them for executive and teaching service in the nurses' schools. The course with the addition of certain studies in school administration would give excellent preparation for school nurses who are becoming more common throughout the country.

The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs has invited the participation of the School of Education in local matters and local conferences in various parts of the state upon the Sociology of the Home. The work done by Professor Groves in the College of Liberal Arts and especially in the School of Education greatly interested the women in this field and the result was a request to the University to help them in more detailed instruction for and in the home. Should the experience in this State prove successful, it is the intention of the national chairman of the Department of Home Economics to extend the work to other states on approximately the same conditions of co-operation between the Federation and the University.

Professors Wilson, Davis, and Blair attended the meeting of the Department of Superintendents at Cincinnati, Professors Wilson and Davis having important parts on the various programs. Professor Mahoney is taking a second semester leave of absence to complete his work for the doctor's degree. He is now pursuing courses at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

SCHOOL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICE

Dean Walter S. Athearn has brought out through the Macmillan Co. a volume "Character Building in a Democracy."

The annual Easter Demonstration by the Department of Fine Arts of the School of Religious Education and Social Service was given on March 9 and 10. It was without doubt the finest demonstration so far presented by the Department. A special musical program on the evening of March 9 was given under the direction of Professor Smith, at historic Kings Chapel. Two new Easter plays, one "Whom Seek Ye," written by one of our students, Miss Helen DeWolf, and the other "This Day," by Miss Esther Willard Bates, of our faculty, were ably presented by members of the student body under the direction of Miss Bates. These plays were given in the Crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral to a large audience.

A new service to the churches and schools of Greater Boston is carried out through the Fine Arts Auxiliary, membership in which is open to interested church and church school workers, and entitles members to helpful bulletins of information which are issued from time to time, as well as admission to the demonstrations of the Department.

The annual Spring Convocation took place on April 2. The convocation of faculty, students, and alumni, at 10.30 in the morning, was addressed by Dr. A. E. Winship, Editor of "The Journal of Education." The annual School Banquet took place in the evening at Unity House.

Bentley: "The Mechanistic and Personalistic Psychological Contributions to the Field of Religious Education." Earl Marlatt: "What is a Person?" THE ALUMNI DIRECTORY

The Alumni Directory is now ready for distribution. The volume contains much valuable information. In addition to class records and an alphabetical alumni list, it presents in chronological order a list of the founders, the associate founders and the corporation of the University. Faculty names are listed alphabetically in two ways: by subject, and with a record following each name, showing dates of University service. All these lists date from the founding of the University. In connection with the Geographical and Department Summaries, statistics are given which will be of value to class secretaries and others desiring such information. To cover cost of printing and mailing, a charge of $3.00 will be made. Orders should be sent to The Alumni Bureau, Boston University, 675 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
